SCALYBARK FINALLY BECOMES INCURABLE

By M. B. Rounds
Farm Advisor, Los Angeles County

SCALYBARK is probably the most important disease of citrus in California from an economical standpoint. It is caused by an overhead sprinkling system. The hand has been left ungraded, leaving available the valuable layer of topsoil often lost in the grading process. The larger gullies have been filled in with the top strata

Farm Brush Flames Rage From New Hampshire to Pennsylvania

Hundreds of Square Miles Burned on Long and Staten Islands

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Flames, fanned onward by a stiff spring breeze, wrought havoc today in many scattered sections of the East.

A small fire that started in a waste bridge at Nashua, N. H., grew [illegible] to the Granite State, burned most of the southeastern section of the city, including at least 125 homes, several business establishments, a church and school, with losses officially estimated between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

On Long Island and Staten Island, in New Jersey, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island, destructive brush and forest fires baffled the fighting skill of thousands of regular firemen and volunteers.

On Staten Island in New York alone, brush fires cut a wide path. They burned 200 cottages at Oakwood Heights, making hundreds of persons homeless, and destroyed Rossville, Prince's Bay and Pleasant Plains. Fire apparently forced over from Manhattan at Hoboken for the first time in many years, reached its destination just in time to save 5000 bungalows at South Beach from the flames.

VILLAGES MENACED

On Long Island fires, covering an area estimated at 100 square miles, were the worst in a quarter of a century. The biggest one, believed to have started from a burning brush pile at Amityville, swept a path six miles long and three miles wide and sent a huge column of smoke a mile into the air, which is visible out over the Atlantic.

Fires on from Amityville several miles along the south shore of the island to Southampton were responsible for smaller fires, which threatened villages and were said to have burned several summer homes. Residents of Amityville and Babylon, enveloped by dense smoke, failed to catch a glimpse of the sun all day. Sixty-odd fire companies fought in vain against the fiery tide and aviators flying over the Long Island flying fields reported the area surveying the [illegible].

Much of New Jersey was completely enveloped in smoke from at least a half-dozen fires. In Atlantic county alone 1500 acres of scrub oak, pine, underbrush, destroyed several small houses and hundreds of families fleeing left their homes.

In Somerset, Absecon and Egg Harbor, N. J., hundreds of men worked frantically to keep the flames from the settlements, but several

FITTS CALLS FOR UNITY

Veterans Cheer Party Appeal

Solid Republican Front and Hoover Support Urged in Talk at Napa

Glowing Tribute to Nation's Chief Features Appeal; Foes Assailed

NAPA, May 4. (Exclusive)—After receiving an ovation here today from 3000 fellow World War veterans who hailed him as one of the State's most effective leaders in veteran welfare activities, Dist.-Atty. Fitts of Los Angeles stirred the gathering of former soldiers and several hundred Napa residents with a powerful appeal for a united Republican party in California and for aggressive support of the policies and administration of President Hoover.

Asserting that forces inimical to Hoover are at work in the State and elsewhere, Mr. Fitts was loudly applauded when he said: "Herbert Hoover is one of the nation's greatest citizens, and if he does not go down in history as one of our greatest Presidents it will be because his exceptional abilities were curbed and defeated by political jealousies and political personalities too small and venal to subordinate private feelings to public needs."

SHOUTS OF APPROVAL

Reference to the President's enemies in Congress, who, the Los Angeles District Attorney said, have carried their legitimate disagreements with Hoover's views to a point smacking "strongly of personal grudges," elicited shouts of approval, as did his declaration that whether elected Governor or defeated in his campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, Fitts will work energetically for a pledged Hoover delegation from California to the Republican National Convention in 1932.

Urging the necessity for loyalty to Republican principles and ideals, and for party fidelity that will defeat the uncurbed ambitions of those who would place their personal interests above those of party, Fitts said California affords a striking example both of the benefits of party solidarity and of the disastrous consequences of party division.

His appeal for Republican unity in California was scheduled for delivery yesterday at the fifty-third May Day celebration of the city of Dixon, but was delayed when rain and high winds forced the airplan, in which he was flying from Los Angeles to Oakland, back to its starting place.

TEXT OF ADDRESS

In his prepared address, Fitts said:

"We are just beginning in California a State-wide political campaign in which numerous candidates are seeking party nominations to important State offices. These nominations, made in August, are submitted to the voters

Popular San Francisco Night Haunts Entered Under New Ruling

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4. (Exclusive)—Revelry stopped for 650 San Francisco whoopee makers and lookers-on late Saturday night as the impact of the "antiset-up" ruling of the United States Supreme Court reached into two favorite merrymaking places of the city swept the liquor off the tables and into dry agents' hands.

Making good threats of Prohibition Administrator Walker against hotels and restaurants furnishing liquor glasses, ice, ginger ale and other "fixings" to patrons, the agents swarmed into the Silver Slipper cafe and into "Shorty" Roberts's place at the beach.

Some of the patrons were able to slip their bottles underneath the tables, and with women seated at these tables, the agents courteously refrained from poking underneath. Edwin Spolin was arrested as proprietor of the Silver Slipper and was released on $1000 bail.

At Roberts's the agents even seized the whisky from glasses on the tables. Wilford J. Roberts, brother of "Shorty," who conducts the place with his brother, was arrested, charged with possession, and freed on bail.

FRANKLIN ON BULL'S HORN IN MOROCCO

Brooklyn Matador Gets Tossed But Picks Self Up Without Injury

CEUTA (Spanish Morocco) May 4. (AP)—Sydney Franklin, Spain's only American bullfighter, fighting for the second time since he was severely gored at Madrid two months ago, was tossed by a bull in the arena here today, but was thrown clear and escaped unharmed.

The young Brooklyn matador, who killed two bulls at Jerez, Spain, yesterday, won the applause of a large an enthusiastic crowd of bullfight fans, curious to see the unfamiliar sight of a Yankee bullfighter.

Performing brilliant cape work, luring the bull close to him but dodging its lunging horns, he disposed of his first bull in the classic manner.

With the second bull he did almost as well, but narrowly missed an accident similar to that at Madrid. In dodging the animal while making a rapid pass with the cape, he caught his clothing for a moment on the horns, delaying his movements. He was tossed in the air, but picked himself up unhurt and returned to the attack.

He killed the bull soon afterward and marched from the arena to great applause.

RIOTS RAGE IN MADRID

Radicals Battle Monarchists

Clashes Occur Following Speech for Republic by De Unamuno

Mounted and Foot Police Charge Crowds With Drawn Sabers

MADRID, May 4. (AP)—Three different riots, a number of arrests and several injuries today marked a speech calling for a Spanish republic by Prof. Miguel De Unamuno of the University of Salamanca, one of Spain's republican leaders.

Repeating in a large theater his appeals for the supplanting of the monarchy by a republic, he again proved himself a storm center in Spanish politics.

Fighting started inside the theater before he even had a chance to speak. It was resumed in the street after the meeting, and continued in front of his hotel when he went home.

RIOT IN THEATER

A group of a dozen monarchists opened the republican demonstration by pushing down the aisles of the theater shouting "Long live the King!" The professor's republican followers, shouting in reply "Long live the republic!" forcibly expelled the intruders after vigorous fist fights. Civil guards finally restored order in the meeting.

During the fighting Indalecio Prieto, Socialist leader, who was in the audience, was slightly injured. He said an unidentified person had attacked him and he fought back.

URGES REPUBLIC

After quiet had been restored, Senor De Unamuno censured the dictatorship of Primo De Rivera, under which he was a voluntary exile in France, the present Berenguer government and the monarchy. As in recent speeches, he urged the establishment of a republic but begged his followers to keep the peace.

His speech was no sooner ended than excited crowds outside the theater began to fight, and the fighting became general in the streets near by. Mounted and foot police, charging several times, finally re-established order amid great excitement and made some arrests. A dozen or more persons were treated for bruises and slight cuts.

FIGHTING RENEWED

Prof. De Unamuno, returning by automobile to his hotel, was greeted by mingled cheers and jeers. In front of the hotel a great crowd had gathered and within a few minutes his opponents and supporters were fighting again.

Once more the mounted and the foot police charged and again there were minor injuries and several arrests.

Today's rioting was the second serious outbreak since the arrival of Senor De Unamuno in Madrid on Thursday. Fifty persons were then injured in clashes around the Norte railroad station when crowds of students waiting to welcome him broke into cheers for a republic. The demonstration was suppressed by mounted police, who charged the crowd with drawn sabers.

WOMAN TO BE CZAR OF LAUNDRIES

Brooklyn Mother Given Absolute Power to Rid Industry of Racketeers

NEW YORK, May 4. (Exclusive) In an attempt to end "mob" rule and to break the grip of the Brooklyn underworld on a legitimate industry, Mrs. Buealie Loew Whitney, a mother and lawyer, has taken office as dictator of the destinies of the Neighborhood Laundry Owners' Association of Brooklyn, an organization asserting its membership comprises about 95 per cent of the laundry owners in the borough.

Mrs. Whitney, who is said to be the first woman to hold a post as czar of an industry, has been endowed with absolute power by the members of the association in an endeavor by them to relieve the organization of the payment of tribute to gangsters, gunmen and racketeers, who have been mulcting the owners of huge sums for many years past.

Two of Three Coast Guards' Bodies Found

TOLEDO (O.) May 4. (AP)—The bodies of two of three Coast Guardsmen believed to have been lost in a storm which swept the western section of Lake Erie Thursday and Friday nights were recovered near the Maumee Bay Harbor light today.

The bodies are thought to be those of Capt. Gardner D. Young, indicted here in September, 1929, on a charge of shooting with intent to kill Rutherford Hayes, Port Clinton, O., and Master Mechanic's Mate Pratt.

Chief Motor Machinist Hay, known to have been with Young and Pratt, has not been found.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, May 4. [To the Editor of The Times:] Poor Mr. Hoover. He was right in the midst of a speech over the radio predicting "prosperity" and telling that he had lived down the Wall street panic, when just as he sat down another stock market crash fell right in his lap. Mr. Brisbane had just that day told us "That the Federal reserve had lowered their rates, which meant more buying."

The whole thing shows that there is none of them knows any more about it than Texas Guinan. If we could just persuade our prominent men to stop "predicting." If they must predict, let 'em predict on the weather, or the crops, or Russia, something they know about, but please quit guessing at what this country is going to do.

Yours, WILL.

BLOOD BOILS IN MIRACLE

Neapolitans See Phenomenon

Throngs in Wild Acclaim at Annual Ceremony When Event Occurs

Devout Believe Memento of City's Patron Saint Tells of Lucky Year

(Copyright, 1930, by Chicago Tribune.)

NAPLES, May 4. (Exclusive)—Before an enormous and highly emotional crowd, including Queen Amelia of Portugal, the Duchess of Aosta and the Duke of Bovina, the annual May miracle of the boiling of the blood of St. Januarius, the patron saint of Naples, took place in Santa Chiara Church today. Several hundred American tourists witnessed the ceremonies. Today's miracle was especially auspicious, according to Neapolitans, and heralds a lucky year and good crops.

Early this morning an open-air procession formed at Naples Cathedral, in which were mingled aristocrats and rabble. The procession, headed by priests bearing crosses and lighted candles, carried an image of St. Januarius and a receptacle containing his coagulated blood through the narrow winding streets to the church of Santa Chiara.

NOBLES AND RABBLE

In the procession was the Prince of Colona, the Duke of St. Vito, the Marquis Garigani, Count of Caleoto and Mayor Podesta of Naples and thousands of people from the poorer quarters. The streets over which the procession marched were aflame with banners and bunting.

In Santa Chiara Church the receptacle of blood was placed on the major altar and the image of the saint opposite it.

Cardinal Ascelsi of Naples began intoning litanies while priests, patricians and the humble on their knees prayed for the miracle to happen. The prayers lasted for twenty minutes, until the crowds were excited to a highly emotional pitch, the women sobbing and crying and imploring the saint.

MIRACLE ANNOUNCED

At 7:35 o'clock Cardinal Ascelsi announced that the miracle had happened. He raised the receptacle up to show it to the crowds. What had been a hard mass in the glass receptacle had turned to a ruddy, seething liquid. Amid the cheers and cries of the faithful, which resounded not only in the church but also in the packed square outside, the Cardinal passed the receptacle around to be kissed by its devotees. The first to kiss it was Queen Amelia and the Duchess of Aosta, then all the rest of the people.

GANDHI HELD BY BRITISH

Hindu Idol Will Have No Trial

Mahatma to Be Confined in Prison at Pleasure of Indian Government

Authorities Act to Thwart Violence or Rescue of Rebel Leader

JALALPUR (India) May 5. (Monday) (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the Indian civil disobedience movement against British rule in India, was suddenly arrested in this village this morning.

Under the terms of a regulation more than a century old, the idol of the Hindu masses will remain in prison at the pleasure of the government of India.

His arrest, following a week of comparative tranquillity since the riots at Calcutta, Karachi and Peshawar, which were disavowed by Gandhi, had been heralded by many rumors but finally came with a shock of surprise.

Upon his followers, its effects were not immediately visible. The government, which in the face of his overt provocation inviting arrest since he first violated the salt monopoly at the village of Dandi April 6, played a cautious waiting game. Many of his assistants were taken into custody and imprisoned after summary trials, while with regard to Gandhi the "Raj" hided its time.

Gandhi was taken to the Central Jail at Yerroda, a town near Poona. Poona is a British military stronghold and the headquarters of an army command.

Elaborate precautions were taken by the authorities to prevent violence or attempts at rescue.

At Yerroda Gandhi will be detained without trial.

After being arrested Gandhi was smuggled aboard a Gujerat mail train and taken to the town of Borivli, a station thirty miles from Bombay. There he was transferred to an automobile, which immediately dashed off toward Poona.

"HOLY ONE" ARRESTED ONCE BEFORE BY BRITISH

Mohandas Karachand Gandhi, Mahatma or "Holy One" of the Hindu masses, has had a previous acquaintance with British prisons though never for any other than a political offense.

With the aid of C. R. Das he launched in 1919 a wide-flung agitation against British sovereignty in India which caused disturbances all through the year. Finally, the government took steps to end all political meetings.

Gandhi quickly seized the opportunity to strengthen his own cause by beginning a movement of nonviolent resistance. His followers refused to co-operate in any way with the government.

The Mahatma was arrested and tried under the Civil Disobedience Acts. Sentenced to five years' imprisonment, he was, however, released in a few months.

PLANS SHIFTED

After his release he shifted his plans, abandoning the nonco-operative movement and centering upon efforts to increase his personal political foothold to fight for home rule. Upon the death of Das, his leader, in 1925, he succeeded to the guiding power in the Nationalist party.

It was about this time that he founded his "Ashram" or College of Devotees at Ahmadabad. With his four sons and his wife he began to give full play to his ideas of communal life.

He swore his followers to truth and poverty. What he had they could have, but no more. And for himself he wanted nothing. Whatever the nature of his campaigns Gandhi always has observed prayer, meditation and renunciation. His mental attitude has been such as to place him beyond the effects of any form of punishment that might be placed upon him.

Of his followers he asked a similar sacrifice and the same mode of life.

His entire campaign for years has been menaced not so much by the threat of severe government suppression as by outcroppings of violence among his more erratic following.

PEACE, HIS PLEA

In the procession of events since March 12, last, when Gandhi and his band began their march from Ahmadabad to the sea, his constant

MEXICAN MOTHERS PROLIFIC

Newspaper Contest Discloses Twenty-two With Eighteen Offspring Up to Double That

MEXICO CITY, May 4. (Exclusive)—The contest to establish the most prolific mother in Mexico conducted by the newspaper Excelsior has concluded, showing a total of 319 children born of twenty-two mothers in twenty-two States of the republic that participated in the contest. The contest stipulated that in each case there had to be but one father and one mother and all the mothers had to satisfy the judges that they had personally nursed their children and that all were living.

The leader of the group is Senora Rosalia Romero De Camacho of Santa Rosalia, Baja California. Two cases have still to be heard from before the final winner is declared.

Senora Angela Varonia of Tenango Del Valle, State of Mexico, is the mother of thirty-two children and Senora Juana Barrena De Chavarria of San Bartolomeo, State of Chiapas, is credited with having brought thirty-seven children into the world. It is still to be ascertained how many of these children are living.

These children are not included in the total of 319.

The winner in each State will be presented with a scrolled parchment naming her queen mother of her State, while the national winner will be similarly honored on Mexican Mothers' Day.

In the majority of cases all the mothers are of humble origin and several of the State authorities have signified their intention of awarding them gifts and money as well as pensions for the education of their offspring.

CHANCE SAVES "RIDE" VICTIM

Police Near by as Gangsters Prepare for Hanging

Love for ex-Convict's Girl Cause of His Plight

Would-be Killers Surrender Without Resistance

CHICAGO, May 4. (Exclusive)—One Earl Holmes, whose love for a gangster's sweetheart caused him to be "taken for a ride," was saved from hanging early this morning by the timely arrival of a police squad.

Holmes owes his life to a pure freak of chance. Chief Mitchell of the La Grange police, with Patrolmen Otto Pilz and William Powells, happened to be sitting in a squad car at a lonely spot near La Grange Park when they saw a machine pull up at the side of the road several hundred feet ahead and the lights go out. They advanced cautiously toward the spot and arrived in time to see Holmes, with his hands tied behind him, sitting with his back to a tree. His ankles were bound also, and a rope had been drawn about his neck and thrown over a lower limb.

A man stood pressing a pistol against his head. Two others looked on.

"Give me a break," they heard Holmes say.

"Break? I'll break your head," one of the three said, and a pistol butt cracked against his skull.

HALF-MINUTE TO LIVE

"You have half a minute to live," he was told. "and when we're through with you we'll take the girl for a ride."

At that moment the three policemen emerged from their hiding place in the bushes. Three flashlights suddenly played on the killers, and a voice commanded "get your hands up!" The man who held the gun dropped it. All three put their hands skyward.

The "victim" and his would-be executioners were placed side by side in the police car and taken to the Chicago detective bureau. There the three were identified as John Hennessey, 34 years of age, a former policeman twice sent to Pontiac and twice paroled; Samuel Baldino, a convict paroled from Pontiac, and Frank Fabarula, a petty gangster whose girl Holmes sought to marry.

WOMAN IN CASE

The woman is known as Anne Larsen; at least that is the name she gave when arrested. About six months ago Holmes, a wood carver, 37 years of age, met Miss Larsen. He began to feel scrry for her, begged her repeatedly to break her associations with the gang and marry him. Finally yesterday, after listening to his renewed pleas, she agreed to become his bride.

They drove to the reputed headquarters of the gang so she could get her clothes. Holmes waited in his car and twenty minutes later the girl emerged from the house, accompanied by Baldino. The latter, displaying a pistol, forced the girl into the car and ordered Holmes to drive to another address, where they encountered Hennessey and Fabarula. Holmes was severely beaten by the three. Holmes then was tanken for what was to have been his last ride.

PAVING FUND ASKED

The matter of paving Wilmington Boulevard between S and B streets has been referred by the City Council to the Finance Committee for an allocation of $32,000 from public funds.

SHE KILLED FATHER IN SAVING MOTHER

Anna Marie Kummer

ANAMOOSE (N. D.) May 4. (Exclusive)—Asserting she would do it again under the same circumstances, Miss Anna Marie Kummer has confessed that she killed her father because of his abuse of her mother. When she goes to trial her defense will be justifiable homicide. She shot when her father was threatening her mother with a knife, she told officers here.

BRITISH PLACE GANDHI IN JAIL

command has been for peace. With the entire co-operation of his native cohorts throughout India, and utter absence of violence, Gandhi doubtless could have carried on his educational plans to a much greater length.

It was the outcroppings of violence which, in spite of his appeals, sprang from his present civil disobedience campaign that ultimately defeated him, by forcing the government to take him personally into custody.

Two of his sons and many of his lieutenants have preceded him into prison, but the effects of his arrest will be incalculably greater upon the hundreds of millions of people living in "Mother India."

ARREST CAUSES LITTLE SURPRISE IN LONDON

LONDON, May 5. (Monday) (AP) The arrest of Mahatma Gandhi in India, reported in dispatches to the British capital early this morning, caused little surprise in view of the persistence of recent reports that the government had decided the civil-disobedience movement was causing mischief to the peace, outweighing all other considerations.

The government's view is semi-officially that the time had come to terminate what was regarded as a long indulgence to the civil-disobedience agitation and the campaign for "swaraj," or independence, led by the Mahatma.

His reputation for sanqtity among the Indian masses appears to have been the chief reason for his escape from arrest during more than a month of open infraction of the salt laws in the Gujerat district.

The government, which has been closely following developments in India, feared that imprisonment of a man who urged nonviolence upon his followers would react unfavorably upon the moderates of other faiths and creeds. The latter, while disapproving Gandhi's methods, greatly respect his personality.

TWO NATIVE LEADERS ALSO TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

BOMBAY (India) May 4. (AP)—The arrest of several important Gandhi leaders today indicated that British authorities in India intend to take more rigorous steps against the Nationalist civil-disobedience campaign.

Gadgil, president of the Youthful League of Poona, and Shankarrao Dev, the Maharashtra war council chief, were taken into custody. Dev was tried almost immediately and sentenced in the afternoon to a year's imprisonment and a fine of 100 rupees. (about $36.)

In an explosion near Poona, an important British military center and headquarters of an army command, six Indians were injured. They apparently were carrying forth a large detonator they had stolen from a munitions factory, but dropped it.

Guards at the munitions factories have been strongly reinforced because of the theft.

FITTS SOUNDS CALL TO PARTY

Appeal for Republican Unity Made Before Veterans

Hoover Support Also Urged and Enemies Assailed

Glowing Tribute to Nation's Chief Marks Address

in November. And so, at this early stage of our appeal for confidence and support, it is well to take stock of our problems and know that we fully understand our situation.

"Federal and State government in the United States is administered under a party system that permits both individuals and organizations to present their policies and principles to the people at large, and the people thus are able to weigh arguments and reach decisions according to their views concerning the issues submitted to them.

"Economic, social and political conditions in the country at large and in the various States have developed a division of political sentiment in two major groups—the Republican party and the Democratic party—with several minor organized or unorganized groups constituting what might be called an expression of some specific class or social or economic opinion.

DANGEROUS TENDENCY

"In addition to this natural grouping under party designations there is another tendency in this country and in this State, a tendency to set up the individual over the party, to evade party responsibilities and party ideals, and bestow upon a person or a group of persons unlimited political powers and preferment and thus nullify and destroy the effectiveness and the solidarity of party organization.

"The tendency is not limited to any party; for it finds its inspiration in the breasts of those whose personal ambitions are stronger than party principles and party loyalty and whose personal following would wreck the constructive and continuing benefits of party effort. It is a dangerous tendency.

"It is not necessary for us to reach back into the flowery language of our fathers to find words to express our allegiance to party ideals and party traditions. The record of the Republican party in State and nation is an inseparable part of our national record of growth, progress and increasing prosperity. I am proud of my membership in the Republican party because of the party's solid and substantial contributions to the public good.

PURPOSES PRESENTED

"I believe in party government, in loyalty to party, in the sacredness of party promises and pledges, and in a responsibility of the individual to the party fully in keeping with the definite responsibility which the party owes to the people.

"California is a Republican State, and no commonwealth in the Union can better demonstrate the beneficial effects of party solidarity or furnish more convincing proof of the disasters of party disintegration, than our own.

"Hence, as I begin my campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor of California, I feel that my attitude and my purposes should be presented in very definite form to those whose support I seek.

"My first participation in political affairs brought me in contact with a man whose personal friendship and whose intelligent and high-minded understanding of national and State politics have been an inspiring influence and a safe guide at all times. That man is Herbert Hoover. I feel it is an honor of which any man may be justly proud—and I will say that it is an honor to which many now loudly but unconvincingly lay claim—that I was one of the original group that began the fight, first in California and later throughout the country, to make Herbert Hoover the Republican President of the United States.

HOOVER'S STATE

"The genuine greatness of Hoover is not confined to any State, but California is Hoover's State and it is the Republican party of California that presented him to the people of the nation and stands loyally and solidly back of his policies and his administration.

"We regard him as a leader whom we shall follow and to whom we shall give an allegiance that is neither selfish nor provincial. We know that individuals and groups opposed to President Hoover are at work nationally and in California, and while our share in fighting the Republican battle outside of this State may be limited by many conditions over which we have no control, we know full well that we shall be successful in defeating any move, however disguised, to weaken his position and influence in our own territory.

"The national political foes of Hoover realize what a blow to his prestige a disaffection among his followers in California would mean and we know that such a disaffection will be attempted. It is our duty, therefore, not only to be on guard, but to be aggressive in our efforts to frustrate such a maneuver.

"We do not propose to establish a Hooverized Republican party in California, but we shave at this time and we are determined to maintain a Republican party in this State that owes and owns a great loyalty to a great leader.

OPPOSITION FOR 1932

"The fight in California in 1932 for a delegation to the Republican national convention pledged to the re-election of President Hoover will be opposed, it now appears, by one large chain of newspapers that supported him in 1928. The opposition of these newspapers is understandable. So far as I am concerned I feel that all should know at this time that if I am elected Governor I shall do all in my power to make as nearly unanimous as possible a vote by the Republicans of this State for a Hoover delegation in 1932, and if I am not elected Governor that my efforts in that matter will be not less enthusiastic.

"I am not in sympathy with the Republican members of Congress who, carrying legitimate disagreement with Presidential views beyond reasonable limitations, make war on him in a fashion that smacks strongly of personal grudges. Neither do I sympathize with those who, because they fear to carry their opposition entirely into the open, accord him a vacillating and wishy-washy support.

"Herbert Hoover is one of the nation's greatest citizens, and if he does not go down in history as one of our greatest Presidents it will be because his exceptional abilities were curbed and defeated by political jealousies and political personalities too small and venal to subordinate private feelings to public needs.

"If I am elected Governor I shall try to the best of my ability to give thoughtful and unselfish attention to the genuine requirements of public service, and this I shall do so far as lies within my power as a member of a unified, active, harmonious, strong Republican party."

(AP)—Queen Marie, accompanied by members of the court and government officials, today attended in the presence of thousands of peasants a touching memorial service for nearly 150 persons killed in the burning of the local church during an Easter vigil service on Good Friday.

Princess Helen, members of the Regency Council, the leading ecclesiastics of the country and peasants from miles around were present.

Queen Marie spoke to several of the survivors in the hospital, distributing presents, and consoled the relatives of the dead.

The fire started when flimsy curtains in the wooden church blew across altar candles. The worshipers, panic-stricken, crowded against the main doors, which opened inward, and cut off their own escape. A total of 122 bodies were removed from the ruins and buried in a single grave April 21. Of seventeen persons injured ten died later.

Eastbound air service between Los Angeles and El Paso via Phoenix, Tucson and Douglas, was canceled today because of the storms.

FLAMES SWEEP EASTERN COAST

eral houses were burned. Another fire destroyed fifteen structures in Forked River, Ocean county, and sent hundreds fleeing from their home, leaving their valuables behind. Fire warden and State troopers flew over the burning areas directing the work of battling the flames.

In some places in New Jersey the roads were clogged so with refugees and sightseers that traffic was almost at a standstill.

A fire between Woronoco and Russell, Mass., burned over about 1000 acres and threatened the Springfield water works. Twenty fires in the vicinity of Worcester, Mass., gave fire fighters a terrific battle and in Southern Rhode Island flames are racing along a ten-mile front.

As reports from Central and Southern New Jersey continued to pour in, it became apparent the forest fires were among the most serious in that State's history.

CASH BURNED

Despite the efforts of the weary fire fighters the flames destroyed many buildings, most of them small homes. At Forked River nineteen homes and the Presbyterian Church were destroyed, with a property loss estimated at $200,000. Among the homes lost was that of the township collector. All the township's books and $10,000 in cash were lost.

A fire which started at Smithburg burned to Lakehurst, twelve miles away, after destroying part of Bassville, a town of about 501.

At Tuckerton, in southern Ocean county, 10,000 acres were burned over. A number of buildings at Laurelton were burned, an inn at Allaire went up in smoke and the home of Arthur Brisbane, editor, nearby, was damaged slightly.

The fire-lookout station atop the naval air station hangar at Lakehurst was so enveloped in smoke that it was useless.

DEER ROAM HIGHWAYS

Reports from several other towns told of buildings destroyed and much land denuded by fire. When the flames, driven by a forty-five-mile wind, leaped across the New York-Atlantic City Boulevard at Laurelton, scores of deer were forced out and tonight are roaming the highway.

Several fires are burning tonight in Sussex and Kent countries, Delaware. The most serious blaze swept through valuable timber lands three miles south of Millsboro, Del., causing damage estimated at more than $25,000.

Damage to growing timber in a fire at Millsboro yesterday was estimated by fire wardens at $500,000.

In Pennsylvania several thousand acres were burned over and two mountain towns were menaced for a time. Poor roads and the remotness of some of the districts made detection and combatting of the flames doubly hard.

FIRE BUGS BLAMED

In the Nittany Valley barrens, two miles from the campus of Penn State College, 2000 acres were burned. Many students joined firemen in fighting the flames.

Forestry officials said the situation in the western part of the State is the worst in many seasons. They said they believe many of the fires were set by men out of work in order that they might earn money by turning fire fighters.

Firemen from ten cities and towns fought a forest fire which swept a woodland area two and a half miles in length and a half-mile wide, bringing it under control late tonight. The flames burned woods in the towns of Hudson, Maynard, Stowe and Marlboro.

The fire jumped the Boston Post Road, tying up traffic for two hours, an dendangered the buildings of the Henry Ford Industrial School. Two small camps were burned. Another smaller forest fire raged in the town during the day.

NEW HAMPSHIRE FIRE LEAVES 500 HOMELESS

NASHUA (N. H.) May 4. (AP)—The southeastern section of this city was laid in ruins by fire today. At least 125 houses, a number of industrial plants and a church were destroyed before the flames were brought under control tonight. More than 500 persons were made homeless and many families lost all their belongings.

The fires started in a wooden bridge across the Nashua River shortly after 3 p.m. It spread through the thickly settled residential part of the city, fanned by a forty-mile-an-hour northwest gale.

Fire companies were called from neighboring cities and towns in New Hampshire and Massachusetts. Three companies of militia were called out to aid firemen and police in the stricken area.

HAMPTON ROADS NAVAL BASE PIER ON FIRE

NORFOLK (Va.) May 4. (AP)—Fire said to have started from an explosion in the forward part of a tug moored at the dock tonight shortly after 10 o'clock set fire to Pier No. 7 at the Hampton Roads naval operating base. At 11:30 o'clock the fire was still raging.

Recently $250,000 was spent on the pier to care for the airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga. At 11:30 the entire pier appeared doomed. The tug Kewayden, which was moored at the pier, caught fire but was cut loose and escaped destruction.

COLORADO TOWN MENACED BY FLAME

MONTEVISTA (Colo.) May 4. (AP) Fanned by a high wind a fire which for a time threatened the entire town, destroyed two business houses and badly damaged a third before it was brought under control here late tonight.

The blaze originated in a hardware store, a two-story structure, which was burned to the ground, and spread to a pharmacy next door, which was also destroyed. The Wallace State Bank, in the same block was badly damaged by the flames.

ALGIERS GREETS FRANCE'S RULER

Doumergue's Visit Marks Conquest Centennial

Arabs From Hinterland See Naval Power Display

ALGIERS, May 4. (AP)—President Gaston Doumergue of France landed in Algiers today for the visit which consecrates not only French colonial success in Algeria, but also the immensity of the nation's colonial achievements in Africa.

Marking the centennial of the French conquest of Algiers from the Barbary pirates, the cruiser Duquesne steamed through a double bank of mighty warships—bringing the ruler of the French republic here to attend the fetes planned to celebrate Algeria's progress and extension of native civic rights.

The display of naval power served, for one thing, to prove to the gorgeously arrayed Arabs from the African hinterland that France is mighty on the high seas as well as on land. Squadrons of airplanes maneuvering above the city and over Algiers Bay drew many admiring glances from native troops mounted on racing dromedaries.

After greeting Algerian officials President Doumergue drove to the monument erected in honor of soldiers who died in the World War. He was attended by a cortege splashed with color furnished by the bizarre costumes of the African troops and the flowing purple robes of Arab chieftains.

New York Convict After Escaping One Sentence Renews Crime, Police Say

NEW YORK, May 4. (Exclusive) Having beaten one life sentence after serving ten years in Sing Sing, Jordan S. Murphy, song writer, heart-breaker and convict extraordinary, now faces another.

Living up to the hard-boiled police motto, "Once a crook, always a crook," Murphy is under arrest again, this time charged with attempting to swindle a church, through a forged check. And conviction will bring him a Baumes law term which will hold him in prison until he dies.

Murphy's first conviction was in 1909, when he was a composer in Tin Pan Alley and engaged to wed Miss Grace Fullam, daughter of Edward J. Fullam, millionaire contractor. Murphy cashed an unauthorized check for a large sum on his prospective father-in-law and was sent to Elmira prison on what was to have been his wedding eve.

Murphy wrote numerous songs while in prison, including "I'm Dizzy Overy Izzy," which Fannie Brice sang in the Ziegfeld "Follies," and "Our Governor," dedicated to Al Smith.

RED SEA FLYERS HALT REBELLION

Army After Abyssinian King Shot to Pieces

Native Decapitates Leader for Sake of Trophy

Ruler Later Accused After Empress Succumbs

(Copyright, 1930, by Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, May 4. (Exclusive)—How a squadron of four French airplanes crushed a revolt against Ras Taffari Makonnen, King of Abyssinia, when flying low the pilots of which used machine guns on the rebels, killing their leader, Chief Gouksa, and several hundred of his followers during a spasmodic rebellion a fortnight ago, was described by the first witness reaching France today, Henri De Busschere, editor of a newspaper in Madagascar, who happened to be in the French port of Djibouti when the outbreak occurred.

Djibouti is the Red Sea terminus of the Abyssinian Railway leading to the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa.

"Numerous Abyssinian chieftains consider the present King a usurper and maintain allegiance to the memory of his great uncle, Emperor Menelik," said M. Busschere. "About the middle of April Chief Gouksa with more than 1000 warriors, who were equipped with rifles and machine guns, began a march on King Taffari's capital. The ruler possessed only minor forces, as no national army exists. The warriors are split up among the various tribes.

SCARLET TIGER

"A former French officer Maillet, commanding four airplanes, ordered an attack on the assailing column which the planes met about thirty-five miles from Addis Ababa.

"Following tradition Chief Gouksa was surrounded by a brilliant escort of mounted warriors in scarlet tunics and with waving plumed head dresses. These made an excellent target for the aerial machine gunners."

"Swooping straight toward the rebels the planes opened fire, the machine guns slaughtering several hundred and scattering the survivors. Chief Gouksa himself was wounded. When the planes landed in an adjacent field the Abyssinian mechanics leaped out and in accordance with Ethiopian custom, dismembered the wounded chief and disemboweled the body, but carefully preserved the head and face without injury for identification.

EMPRESS DIES

M. Maillet rescued the gruesome remains and placed them in his plane and flew to Addis Ababa, where King Taffari gave the mutilated fragments an elaborate funeral and a royal sepulchre.

"The decisive defeat of Chief Gouksa struck fear in the other chieftains, who surrendered large stocks of arms and ammunition.

"The day after the rebels had been crushed Empress Zauditu, heiress of Menelik, died. The King was accused of poisoning her.

"An investigation revealed that Empress Zauditu had been suffering from typhoid and had wearied of the long treatment by a French doctor and had renounced the foreigner's scientific treatment for an Abyssinian sorcerer's practice. The native doctors ordered a sacred bath for the Empress, who fainted in the icy waters and died without recovering consciousness."

Brush Ablaze in New York Area

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—High winds which drove flames rapidly through tinder-like underbrush today balked efforts to stamp out raging brush fires in the metropolitan area.

ANTI-INJUNCTION BILL ATTACKED

California Manufacturers in Protest With Others

Shipstead Measure Drawn to Benefit Unionists

Provisions Termed Illegal and Unconstitutional

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 4. (Exclusive) — Voicing opposition to the substitute Shipstead anti-injuction bill now before the Senate Judiciary Committee, James A. Emery, counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers and a large number of industrial associations, comprising upward of 60,000 employers, submitted to the committee late Saturday a brief urging the rejection of the proposal.

Mr. Emery pointed out that the bill if enacted and held valid will deprive the Federal courts of authority to issue injunctions for the protection of property rights against irreparable injury whenever the case in any way arose out of a labor controversy, unless actual fraud or violence could be shown, in which case a limited and wholly inadequate protection might be afforded. No injunctions could be issued under any circumstances against nine sets of acts, including strikes and the support of strikes, even when accompanied by threats of violence.

OUTLAWS CONTRACTS

The so-called "yellow dog" contract would be denied legal or equitable protection in all cases, notwithstanding such contracts, when supported by consideration, have been held valid by many State courts, including New York, and have three times been declared valid by the Supreme Court of the United States, says Mr. Emery.

Trial by jury would be provided for so-called "indirect criminal contempts" which Mr. Emery points out would include jury trials for violation of "padlock" injunctions under the Volstead Act, of which 21,551 were issued up to June 30, 1929.

Declaring the bill clearly invalid as a matter of law, and revolutionary in its social aspects, Mr. Emery enumerated the following specific objections:

OBJECTIONS TO BILL

(1.) The public policy declared in the bill is arbitrary, contrary to the facts of our social and industrial life, invidiously and gratuitously discriminating and in violent conflict with the public policy of the people of the United States, declared in the Constitution.

(2.) The bill seriously impairs the authority of the government of the United States to enter its own courts to obtain their aid in the exercise of its powers or the execution and enforcement of the law.

(3.) It arbitrarily strips private suitors of all effective remedy in equity in the course of labor controversies, while preserving identical remedies for the same and all other parties in all other controversies, when confronted with the same conduct resulting in like injury, and therein denies to such suitors due process of law.

UNIONS IMMUNE

(4.) The declaration that nine classes of acts may under no circumstances be subjected to equitable restraints, save when accompanied by actual fraud or violence, and destroying all distinction between individual and concerted action, is destructive of a fundamental principle of law and morals and most injurious to the public interest.

(5.) In arbitrarily outlawing and denying protection and enforcement of the classes of contracts described between employer and employee, irrespective of whether there is mutuality and adequate consideration, the bill invalidly denies due process of law under repeated decisions of the Supreme Court.

(6.) The bill seeks to impose public policy of Congress with respect to contracts and to make the same effective within the jurisdiction of the States where Federal courts, in diverse citizenship cases, are interpreting and enforcing the contractual policy of the several States.

SWAMPS COURTS

(7.) The provision with respect to jury trials for indirect contempts is ambiguous and of doubtful validity. Under the only explicit interpretation given by a member of the subcommittee it will, if valid, overwhelm the Federal courts with jury trials for violations of "padlock" injunctions in prohibition cases and lead to hopeless confusion in law enforcement.

8. By granting jurisdiction to issue a restraining order, void and unrenewable in five days, it denies to the chancellor having jurisdiction of the subject matter the inherent right to protect the subject matter of litigation until he can exercise the judicial power upon it.

Mr. Emery represents the following California organizations:

California Manufacturers' Association, Oakland.
Builders' Association of Monterey county.
General Contractors of San Francisco.
Industrial Association of San Francisco.
Industrial Association of Monterey county.
Industrial Association of Santa Clara county.
Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

FEW TURKS UNDERTAKE PILGRIMAGE TO MECCA

ISTANBUL, May 3. (AP)—So few of the citizens of the new Turkey heeded the annual call of Holy Mecca this year that no pilgrimage boat was chartered in Istanbul.

COLLEGES FIGHT DUTY MEASURE

Thousand Economists Join Protest Against Bill

Hoover Asked to Use Veto if Passed by Congress

Increase Tariff Move Will be Mistake, Letter Says

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—More than 1000 economists representing 179 colleges throughout the country joined in a letter to President Hoover and the Congress today protesting against enactment of the tariff bill and asking that it be vetoed if passed.

Dr. Clair Wilcox, associate professor of economics at Swarthmore College, presented the statement on behalf of the economists, who included Irving Fisher, Yale; Frank W. Taussig, Harvard; Frank A. Fetter, Princeton; Wesley C. Mitchell, Columbia; Henry R. Seager, Columbia; J. Laurence Laughlin, Chicago; Williford I. King, New York University; M. B. Hammond, Ohio State; E. M. Patterson, University of Pennsylvania; Emory R. Johnson, Dean of Wharton School, Pennsylvania, and H. S. Person, managing director, Taylor Society.

The statement expressed the conviction on the part of the signers that "increased restrictive duties will be a mistake," and will "increase the cost of living and injure the great majority of our citizens."

Few people can hope to gain from such a change, the statement said, adding that the vast majority of the farmers would lose, American export trade in general would suffer, and unemployment would not be lessened.

"Finally," if concluded, "we can urge our government to consider the bitterness which a policy of higher tariffs will inevitably inject into our international relations."

It was contended the pending bill violates the spirit of the world economic conference agreement of 1927 in which the United States was represented, and which resolved to discourage higher tariffs and to "move in the opposite direction."

JAPAN CRUISER TO BE LAUNCHED

Empress Will Preside at Elaborate Ceremony

Naval Program Proceeds at Nipponese Bases

Nation Well Below Limits Set at Parley

YOKOSAKA (Japan) May 4. (AP) In the presence of the Empress Nagako, acting for the first time as such a ceremony, the 10,000-ton cruiser Takao will be launched the latter part of this month, at the naval arsenal of Yokosaka, principal base of the Japanese navy.

This will be the most elaborate naval fete of its kind in Japan since the Washington conference ended the launching of capital ships, and Yokosaka will be a-glitter with the gold braid and decorations of the highest dignitaries of the navy and other branches of the imperial government.

The Takao, laid down in April, 1927, is the fifth of her class. The sixth of this sisterhood, the Atago, is scheduled for launching at the Kure naval base June 15. She also was started in April, 1927. Both should be completed within a year after launching.

ACTUAL INCREASE

Although the London conference succeeded in placing relatively low limits for the American, British and Japanese cruiser fleets, the London treaty means for Japan, as for the United States, an actual increase of her present cruiser tonnage. Hence the construction program which the Japanese navy had in hand when the conference was called has gone forward without slackening. That program's provisions for cruisers carrying eight-inch guns will be completed in full, giving Japan the 108,400 tons to which the treaty limits her in this category.

Even before this building is finished Japanese shipyards saved from five years of idleness by concessions obtained by Japan for that express purpose, will begin work on 50,955 tons of light cruisers which the London agreement permits Japan to place on the ways before the end of 1936.

OTHERS BEING BUILT

Japan's 108,400 tons of cruisers carrying eight-inch guns will be made up of eight ships already commissioned (the Furutaka, Aoba, Kako and Kinugasa, 7100 tons each, and the Nachi, Myoko, Ashigara and Haguro, 10,000 tons each;) the Takao and Atago, and two more 10,000-tonners now in their second year of construction, the Chokai and Maya, which should be finished before the end of 1932.

At London the Japanese tried unsuccessfully to obtain 70 per cent of the American tonnage in this cruiser category, but the best they could get was an American undertaking that although the treaty allots the United States 180,000 tons of big cruisers, only 150,000 tons will be completed before the end of 1936, the remaining three cruisers to be at various stages of partial completion when the treaty expires. Great Britain accepted an allotment of 146,000 tons in this classification.

LEADS IN CRUISERS

The launching of the Takao and Atago will emphasize the fact that Japan will retain a lead over the United States in big cruisers until 1934 at the earliest. America has completed only two ships of this category—the Salt Lake City and the Pensacola — has six others launched or ready for launching, and has two more started.

The Takao-class cruisers compare favorably with any other 10,000-ton cruisers now afloat. Their designed speed, thirty-three knots, exceeds that of the American or British cruisers, while their ten eight-inch guns apiece make them the equal of any in hitting power. In horsepower their 100,000 rating is a little below the 107,500 of the new American cruisers but above the 80,000 of the British.

The Takao and Atago, like all their sisters, are named for mountains rich in religious and historical associations, the former for a temple crowned eminence northwest of Tokio and the latter for one of Kyoto's famous ring of seven hills. Relics from the temples of the name mountains are enshrined aboard each of these ships in miniature sanctuaries at which the bluejackets and their officers worship the national deities.

BRITISH PLAN RADIO NET TO CATCH LAWBREAKERS

LONDON, May 4. (Exclusive)—A national scheme to fight crime with wireless by instituting an exhaustive police radio net around Great Britain is likely to develop as a result of an important conference of British police chiefs at the Home Office.

The proposals embrace the establishment of three main wireless stations, equipped with the most modern apparatus for the immediate interchange of information concerning the movements of criminals and criminal information, and for the dissemination of this knowledge to all police substations and divisional offices in Great Britain.

The three main stations are to be at Scotland Yard in London, one in the Midlands area, probably at Birmingham, and the other in the northern area, probably at Glasgow or Edinburgh.

CORSICA BEING MADE INTO FORT

French Move to Offset Italy's Cruiser Swarms

Island to Be Turned Into Second Gibraltar

Air Bases Will Permit Raids on Rome or Genoa

(Copyright, 1930, Chicago Tribune)

PARIS, May 4. (Exclusive)—To offset the swarms of Italian submarines and cruisers which the French see as threatening to cut off her communications with her colonies in case of conflict, plans are being pushed to make Corsica a second Gibraltar. In the opinion of French naval strategists Corsica today is the key to the western Mediterranean. The little island is seen an ideal base either to launch a deadly air offensive on the enemy or check an attack aimed at the French Riviera.

It is also pointed out that in case of war between France and Italy, Italian submarines will stop completely all attempts to transfer troops from Africa to France by the way of the Mediterranean—as long as surface craft are depended on. The only way to avoid submarines in the Mediterranean would be transport troops by plane and for this purpose Corsica would be ideal as a mobilization base, as the island is separated by easy water hops between France and Africa.

The present program is aimed to develop the offensive and defensive value of Corsica equally. On one hand, the Navy will establish a series of air fields from which planes could take off and strike a deadly blow to Rome and Genoa and return in a few hours. On the other hand, an elaborate system of defense is being worked out to prevent the enemy air and surface fleets from destroying the base. Stationary batteries will be installed at convenient points along the coast, and the whole coast line will be linked with a system of littoral interior highways.

The chief drawback to the French plans for Corsica is the fact that the Italians are already using the adjacent island of Sardinia to much the same purpose. Naval experts point out, however, that Sardinia has a much larger coast line and is harder to defend, and they believe that if the French can execute their plans for the fortification of Corsica fast enough, the Italians will be forced to give up Sardinia as a base.

PACT COURTESY GIVEN STIMSON

Secretary of State Will be First to Explain

Hearing of Adams on Treaty Put Off by Senate

Report of Delegation Head Expected This Week

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Yielding to Secretary Stimson, as chief delegate to the London conference, the opportunity to be first to explain the naval limitation treaty, Chairman Hale of the Senate Naval Committee announced tonight a postponement of the hearing he had planned to open tomorrow with Secretary of the Navy Adams on the stand.

The State Department head is expected to appear before the Senate's Foreign Affairs Committee, whose chairman, Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, has announced he will begin consideration of the treaty Wednesday. Senator Hale hopes to open his hearings the latter part of the week.

Hale said that after consultation with Secretary Adams and in view of the treaty's being formally before the Foreign Affairs Committee he had decided upon postponement until after Secretary Stimson had had an opportunity to explain the treaty to Senator Borah's group. Hale's hearing was called to develop what effect the terms of the agreement would have upon the Navy. After Adams's testimony Admiral William V. Pratt and Rear-Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, the naval advisers to the London parley, are to be heard.

"DIET" DOES NOT NECESSARILY MEAN "DENIAL"

A Diet That Promotes Health Must Be Complete and Enjoyable

To thousands, the idea of "going on a diet" means a period of hardship and denying one's self of favorite dishes.

In some cases, diet may mean this. But today there are millions who are "on a diet" for the sake of better health and more vitality, who are not suffering as martyrs at the dining-table.

These people sit down three times a day to meals where there are plenty of good things to eat. Of course they are careful to choose foods which will supply their systems with the proper amount of calories, vitamins, minerals and roughage. Then to make the meal enjoyable and complete, they eat jellies, relishes and sweet desserts.

In making essential foods in balanced menus tasty and inviting, countless cooks are learning the value of sugar as a flavor. A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt works wonders in improving the taste-appeal of spinach, cabbage, carrots, beans, peas and other vegetables. The same rule can be followed successfully in making salad dressings. Doctors approve this use of sugar as a flavor because it makes nourishing foods more appetizing. Good food promotes good health. # How Many English Words Can You Spell With the Letters in the Star?

THE STAR PRINTED HERE IS ALL THE WORK SHEET YOU NEED—START NOW!

for the Best Answer to the Los Angeles Times Star Puzzle

$1000 cash would make a big down payment on a wonderful home you could call your very own—$500 second prize would buy a good automobile, new furniture, enable you to take a marvelous vacation; $250 third prize would make life a lot easier for you and undoubtedly you know just what you would do with a nice sum of cash—there are 112 cash prizes in all divided into two divisions.

INSTRUCTIONS

Form as many words as possible from the letters in the star. Start with any letter and take any number of adjacent or contiguous letters IN ANY DIRECTION: forward, backward, upward, downward, diagonally. (A letter is adjacent or contiguous to another when the spaces occupied touch each other on the sides or at the corners. M-16 is next to or adjacent to N-8, G-9, E-17, S-24, I-23; L-22, I-15 and A-7. S-6 is adjacent or contiguous to O-5 and T-14 but is not adjacent or contiguous to A-7 and U-20 because separated from these letters by blank spaces. Do not jump or skip any letters or spaces.

Example: T-1, H-2, A-7, N-8 spells THAN; S-6, T-14, U-20, B-21 spells STUB; L-22, I-15, M-16, I-23, T-31 spells LIMIT.

The same space may be used more than once in a word (as I-15 in MILITIA—M-16, I-15, L-22, I-15, T-14, I-15, A-7), but do not double any letter. For example: L-48 cannot be doubled to form the word ROLL with R-47 and O-40, but L-29 and L-30, two adjacent and contiguous letters, can be used with B-21 and A-28 to form BALL.

All you have to do is to form as many English words as you can with the letters in the star—don't skip or jump any letters or spaces, take adjacent or touching letters in any direction moving one space at a time—simple, isn't it? YOU HAVE NEVER TACKLED ANY PUZZLE OR GAME THAT WILL ENTERTAIN YOU AS THIS WILL—

CHILDREN'S GOD HAS ODD SHAPES

'Young,' 'Old,' 'Robed' and 'a Doctor'

Like in 'Sky,' 'Our Hearts' and 'On Cross'

Adolescent Pupils Quizzed by Educator

NEW YORK, May 4. (Exclusive) The Protestant child's idea of God the subject of a study of Dr. Elinor MacLean of Teachers College, Columbia University, results of which are to be issued tomorrow by the College Bureau of Publications.

Dr. MacLean finds the child's conception of the physical and moral attributes of God confused and contradictory, as well as curious. He explains this lack of definite understanding on illiterality, inaccuracy and indirectivity of Sunday-school instruction.

The characterized Protestant thinking about God as a confusion of irreconcilable and contradictory ideas. One of his major criticisms is that while the concept of the wrathful God has been banished, no substitute explanation has been furnished to reconcile the picture of the loving and gentle God with the existence of evil and suffering in the world.

GIANT QUESTIONED

He questioned 875 pupils in various schools, asking them to picture God, describe his abode, tell where people pray, where they learn about God, what the nature of His work is, what He does for humanity, what He asks of us, what our relation to Him is, and what the relation of Jesus is to God.

God was described variously, Dr. MacLean found, as "a man with white robes," "a powerful doctor," "a very good man," and "a very nice man." One child said "God is big as a cloud. He wears a white dress and a blackish beard." Another answered: "Mamma has a picture of God. He has hair down to His shoulders. He is old."

Many of the children were puzzled by the question, and unable to form a mental image.

LIVES "IN OUR HEARTS"

Of those of whom elicited these answers, the doctor reported:

"God is not in the stores on Broadway."

"He's away up in the sky."

"He's down inside me. God is in our hearts."

"He is on the Cross. He is there all time."

"We pray to God, they said, when their mothers tell them to, because it makes Him happy, because it helps them to be good, because He will give you what you want and help you in trouble. One child thought praying "is crazy because God is right there all the time." Another that He would save them from mishap.

Jesus, according to them is the Son of God. He was described as a runner, God's brother, a lady, a magician, a "big man up in Heaven" and President of the United States.

Police Proposes Policemen for Rail Crossings

SAN DIEGO, May 4.—Recommendation that policemen at all Southern Pacific railroad crossings here be replaced by uniformed flagmen with police power, and that improvements be made in the safeguards at crossings, the State Railroad Commission has filed with the City Council a report on a recent survey of the grade-crossing hazards.

The survey and report was the result of a petition by the railroad for permission to remove the gates of some of the crossings, the railroad's position being that because of the removal of most of the industries to the new yards in the city, some of the city gates are overmanned.

The extension of police power to officers under the system proposed by the Railroad Commission would prohibit the arrest of motorists who violate the State Motor Act by failing to stop at crossings when they have received warning of the approach of trains and other similar infractions of traffic regulations.

Charges Filed Against Doctor

SAN DIEGO, May 4. (AP)—For alleged unprofessional conduct, Dr. [illegible] Reed, local physician, was ordered to appear before the State Board of Medical Examiners in San Francisco July 8, next, in San Diego.

CAPONE DOUBLE CREATES STIR

New York Boat Passenger Resembling Gangster Merely Mayor

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Awe-struck passengers on the United Fruit liner Toloa, who thought they were fellow-travelers of Al Capone of Chicago, were keenly disappointed today when the vessel arrived from Havana.

They saw a squad of eight detectives meet the gang chieftain, as they thought, talk to him a few minutes and then—horrors—let him go.

It turned out that "Al Capone" was none other than Anthony Perrapato, Mayor of Garfield, N. J., who resembles Capone somewhat.

Bandy, Jack Hughes, the B & O Truck Company and other defendants, according to complaints prepared for the plaintiffs by Osborn & Burum. In their complaints, the plaintiffs assert injuries as a result of an automobile accident on the Golden State Highway three miles north of Grapevine Station last March, charging that Hughes controlled a truck in such a manner that the cars in which the plaintiffs were riding were involved in a collision causing the plaintiffs serious personal injuries.

Delano Melon Prospects Good

DELANO, May 4.—Total plantings of watermelons in this district are 800 acres for this season, which is a small acreage. The variety is almost exclusively the Klondike. Total plantings of cantaloupes are 450 acres. This is about a normal planting judged by the last three or four years. Plantings prior to that time were considerably larger.

There is a fine stand of both kinds of melons, and the vines are showing an unusually good growth. Unless late frosts should damage them prospects are bright for a fine crop.

DRY ACT LAUDED BY AUSTRALIAN

Visitor Notes Benefits of Prohibition Law

Business Man Finds Drinking Nearly Absent

Contrast With His Country Held Significant

CHICAGO, May 4. (Exclusive)—Amazement over the benefits which America has derived from prohibition has been expressed by Arnold J. Thomas, Australian business man, who is visiting this country for the first time. Mr. Thomas, on his arrival in Chicago recently, visited the headquarters of the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation and disclosed his admiration for the Eighteenth Amendment to Charles H. Jones, chairman of the Foundation.

Mr. Thomas comes from a country where they are battling to be "dry" to a country where a battle is being waged to make it "wet."

"From the hour of my arrival in Seattle, March 29, I have spent considerable time in the large western cities, including San Francisco, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City and Denver, studying evidences of liquor drinking and selling in hotels, restaurants, stores and shops to discover to what extent drinking men were in evidence in the centers of population," he said. "Since landing in America I have seen only one man noticeably under the influence of liquor and that was in San Francisco.

"The most startling impression on me was the complete absence of liquor advertising, liquor displays and open saloons, which we have in such abundance in all the principal cities of Australia. I had expected to find liquor solicitations on every hand through bell hops and waiters, subtle and sly, of course, but I did not come upon a single instance of attempts to bootleg liquor to me, not even in Chicago, about which I had heard such terrible things. Evidences of prosperity and happiness appeared universally wherever I have been. Your total absence of 'slums' in the sense we know them in Australia was very significant.

"In Australia we are still passing through the throes of a desperate conflict with a completely legalized liquor traffic, entrenched in business, industry and politics, and wielding extraordinary power and influence, backed by gigantic funds, which have been piled up from the pockets of its victims.

"We are fighting on for freedom in Australia. No matter how poorly you may think your national prohibition is being administered in America, I can assure you that your achievement is a wonderful realization of progress. The advertising of the wets in Australia conveys to their readers the most unfair testimony regarding your national prohibition experiment."

Feline Quits Insulting Dogs

LINDSAY, May 4.—To one resident of this city completion of the Mt. Whitney Hotel brought nothing but grief and woe. Black Boy, a large cat, owned by Miss Ines Teale, local dress-shop proprietor, is barred from the building where Miss Teale's new shop is located. More than that, on one visit, he displayed such dislike for his surroundings that he departed at once. As a result, Black Boy is deprived of his favorite sport and recreation.

In the old location, the big cat delighted to crawl into the display window, insulating his canine enemies through the plate glass. Following each encounter, he strutted about the window imagining himself the victor. But now, the plate glass is no more and Black Boy refrains from insulting dogs and slinks warily through the alleys.

The primary election is on Tuesday, August 26. Hastings is a member of Porterville Legion Post, No. 20, and has been active in work of the Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies. He is also a member of the Lions' Club here.

Twamley, San Francisco; Mrs. Frank Brophy, Berkeley, and Miss Alice Hopkins, niece of Twamley.

RATS! SHOUTS HUNTER; CATCHER FEELS PEEVED

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4. (AP)—Mr. McKay looked at John (Rat Catcher) Raymond and sneered.

"Any kind of silly oaf could be a rat catcher."

"Oh yeah?"

"Yeah!"

"Any kind of silly oaf," continued Mr. McKay. "Now I used to hunt lions and tigers and rhinoceroses, that's a business that takes brains. But rats!"

John (Rat Catcher) Raymond went into action. When police arrived they took his .22 caliber ratting gun away from him and charged him with assault with a deadly weapon and discharging firearms within the city limits.

In the excitement nobody even mentioned the bucket partly full of gin and bitters that nearly got kicked over in the scuffle.

Thousand Join in Tribute to Izzy Einstein

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Some 1000 New Yorkers, including a wet Congressman, tonight honored a man who made good as a dry agent.

They gave a dinner for Izzy Einstein, Lon Chaney of prohibition enforcement, who baffled bootleggers with his myriad disguises and built up a host of legends.

The occasion was a celebration of Izzy's twenty-five years as a member of the Krynicaer Young Men's Benevolent Society. He was given a gold watch and heard himself praised by Representative Sirovich, several judges and political leaders.

He made a speech in which he said New York is "just as dry as any other city in the country."

New Type of Warning Created for Crossings

WASCO, May 4.—John B. Quick, local vineyardist and former railroad engineer, has turned inventor, and is demonstrating a device which is expected to curb grade-crossing accidents. It is a new type traffic button, worked by a small motor and has a siren attached to herald the approach of a train.

The button, which is closed when not in operation, is similar to other traffic buttons, but on the approach of a train it is elevated by an air blower several feet above the surface of the street and the siren sounds a warning.

Kern County Supervisors are considering installing one of the devices at the Chester-avenue crossing, north of this city, where three persons recently lost their lives.

CONGO NEGROES FORCED TO TOIL

Belgian Statesman Tells of Cruelties

Natives Driven to Camps Like Cattle

Condition Engenders Hatred for White Men

BRUSSELS, May 4. (Exclusive)—Half a million Negroes are forced to work in the Belgian Congo, whether they want to or not, a prominent Belgian statesman, M. P. Orts, president of the Red Cross of the Congo, and member of the League of Nations mandate commission, declared today. Because the Belgians develop industries too fast in their Congo colony and insist on compulsory labor under the modern term of "labor recruitment" the native population in the vast Belgian equatorial colony has decreased steadily during the past forty years, he said.

First, warfare and portage, but more lately underfeeding and overwork have decimated the Negroes, he adds. According to Dr. Orts, 12 per cent of the workers, all men in the prime of their life, die in certain mining and industrial camps in the colony.

Men are driven to workers' camps like so many cattle, and drop dead with fever even before they have started to earn their first wages, the Red Cross chief asserts.

Hatred is growing against all white men, missionaries included, among the Congo natives, Dr. Orts says. Alarmed by the increasing death rate and by the loosening of family ties, Belgian Catholic missionaries in the Congo recently joined Dr. Orts in his protest.

POORHOUSE MORE COSTLY

Health Officer Recommends Raise in Rates at County Relief Home

SCREEN CENSOR BAN GETS TEETH

Chicago Theaters' Injunction Practice Hit By Ruling

Exhibiting of Films After Board's Action Halted

Houses Must Mandamus If They Want Recourse

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—Exhibition of motion pictures under injunction—infallible magnet for capacity crowds—is a thing of the past in Chicago as the result of an Appellate Court decision.

A recent film had been ordered off the screen by police, but the theater obtained an injunction in Circuit Court against police interference. The city appealed and the Appellate Court ruled yesterday that the purpose of an injunction is to protect property rights, but that property rights are not involved in the showing of a motion picture. The films are shown, the court held, under a privilege. The proper relief, according to the decision, is in a mandamus to force the Censor Board to grant a permit.

CASH FOR LIQUOR

BUDAPEST, May 4. (AP)—The Ministry of the Interior has ordered that all drinks ordered in Hungary must be paid for in cash. This is to prevent young aristocrats from running up liquor bills which their parents refuse to pay, causing many suits.

First In the Morning

First in Morning Circulation!
First in News and Advertising!
First in Rate of Growth!

THE LOS ANGELES TIMES has a larger morning circulation, both in the city of Los Angeles and in the whole 2000 square miles from San Bernardino to Chatsworth Park, than any other Los Angeles newspaper.

Times morning circulation not only stands first in the sheer quantity of copies printed and sold, but when these copies are translated into readers—buyers—purchasing power—its morning supremacy is overwhelming.

92% of The Times 40-mile circulation is delivered by its own carriers, and an additional 5% is distributed by independent carriers and dealers. So far as known this is the highest home-delivered ratio of any metropolitan newspaper in the United States. It means that copies of the Los Angeles Times represent families rather than individuals, and in most cases the paper is read by all adults in the household.

This substantial coverage manifestly cannot be compared to street sales, the value of which depends on time, place and circumstance. Of street-sold morning papers, the majority are bought by people who are on their way to work, hence such copies never are seen by the wives and daughters at home. Equally small in advertising value are the more than 200,000 copies of Los Angeles afternoon papers having an official press-time from 8:59 a.m. to 12:52 p.m.—for common observation shows that these early editions are chiefly bought for the front page headlines.

In the number of homes to which delivered—and consequently in the number of adult consumers reached—Times circulation vastly exceeds every other local newspaper circulation, morning or evening.

But the Los Angeles Times furnishes something more than home coverage and morning supremacy. As shown below, it furnishes the dynamic leadership of GROWTH.

CIRCULATION HIGH-LIGHTS

—Los Angeles newspaper circulations compared with a year ago, taken from sworn statements to the United States Post Office. As the Post Office requires that daily and Sunday circulations be averaged together, The Times also shows its gain separated into daily gain and Sunday gain. This makes it possible to compare the week-day Times on an absolutely equal basis with other week-day newspapers.

|---|---|
| Los Angeles Times, Sunday only | GAIN 16,451 |
| Los Angeles Times, daily only | GAIN 8,107 |
| Los Angeles Times, daily-Sunday combined | GAIN 9,300 |
| 2nd Paper, afternoon | GAIN 4,319 |
| 3rd Paper, afternoon | GAIN 2,893 |
| 4th Paper, morning and Sunday | GAIN 2,887 |
| 5th Paper, morning | LOSS 558 |
| 6th Paper, afternoon | LOSS 5,640 |

The Times, WITHOUT ITS SUNDAY EDITION, gained over twice as much as the second morning paper WITH ITS SUNDAY AND DAILY GAINS COMBINED.

Portland Cops First Game by 8-to-3 Score

Stars Come-back to Take Second Tilt, 9 to 2

PORTLAND (Or.) May 4. (AP)—Portland and Hollywood split the double-header today. Portland won the first game, 8 to 3, and it also was featured by a fight in the eighth between Shortstop Chatham of Portland and Pitcher Buzz Wetzel of Hollywood. The Portland players accuse Wetzel of "dusting off" First-Baseman Orwoll. Both teams rushed to mid-diamond and it looked like a free-for-all after Wetzel hit Chatham, who had made some remark.

"BUZZ" WETZEL.

Hollywood won the second game, 9 to 2, with a five-run rally in the eighth and another of four runs in the ninth, after the Great Mails had shut them out for seven innings.

The series ended four games for Portland and two for Hollywood, with one a tie. Scores:

SONNENBERG MEETS RIVAL IN WRIGLEY FIELD TONIGHT

Daro Hopes for Record Wrestling Gate as Youthful Foes Meet in Championship Clash

BY PAUL LOWRY

The elements permitting, Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg and Everett Marshall will settle their dispute over the world's heavyweight grappling title at Mr. Will Wrigley's ball orchard this evening.

There will be no postponement of the show unless it acually pours this morning and threatens the evening's entertainment. Saturday's outburst from the heavens put a damper on the ducat sale, but Promoter Lou Daro still anticipates a record crowd if fortune smiles and gives him sunshine today. He has a "gate" of $87,000 hung up by Gotch and Hackenschmidt at Chicago twenty years ago to beat. Twenty thousand persons saw that show, but Daro predicts his world's title match will beat that figure. His advance ticket sale was reported around $50,000 last week.

LOU DARO.

Marshall, the youngster who has had a sensational rise from obscurity in six months' time, is the favorite of the masses to lift the champion's crown in a two-out-of-three-fall match.

If he lives up to this prediction he will shatter all past records for sensational advances to fame in the wrestling world.

Sonnenberg crashed to the top a year after he seriously entered the heavyweight ranks.

THOMPSON, FIELDS IN TITLE MIX

Detroit Championship Go Saves Weekly Fight Card From Mediocrity

NEW YORK, May 4. (AP)—Jackie Fields defends his welterweight championship against young Jack Thompson, San Francisco Negro, at Detroit in a fifteen-round bout on Friday night and thus saves the current week from being a total loss so far as boxing is concerned.

JACKIE FIELDS

Fields already holds several decisions over Thompson and will be a strong favorite to retain his title.

The Negro from the West Coast made a great showing against Jimmy McLarnin at the Garden here recently and appears to be in shape for a determined bid for the championship that eluded him when he came in overweight on demand for a fight with Joe Dundee. Thompson knocked out the then 147-pound king in two rounds.

TRUCK HANNAH IN HERO ROLE

Backstop's Homer With Two on Wins First Game

Craghead Gives But Pair of Hits and is Loser

Win Ballou Twirls Seraphs to Nightcap Victory

BY BOB RAY

Taking a page out of the record of Chicago's famous "hitless wonders" of old, Jack Lelivelt's battling Angels made nine hits win them a couple of ball games between showers yesterday at Wrigley Field. The Oaks were the victims and the scores of the Seraph victories were 3 to 2 and 5 to 2.

"TRUCK" HANNAH

As a result of their second straight double win, the Angels captured the series from Oakland, 4 to 2, and climbed up to second place in the standings, just a game behind Sacramento.

In the first game Howard Craghead, Oakland's sensational young right-hander, suffered the painful distinction of pitching two-hit ball and losing the ball game. Craghead allowed only four Angels to reach first, but he lost his ball game in the second inning when, with two on and two out, Truck Hannah walloped one over the left-field wall.

The Oaks collected twelve hits off Ed Baecht's speedy delivery in that first game and two of the swats were home runs by Buzz Arlett and Bernie Devireros, but still they weren't able to get enough tallies to reward Craghead with a victory for his brilliant mound work. Baecht found himself in several tough spots, but he managed to hurl himself out of danger on all occasions.

BALLOU WINS ONE

In the nightcap Win Ballou finally broke in with his first victory of the season by letting the Acorns down with six scattered bingles. The Angels presented Ballou with a three-run lead in the third and Win made it win for him. Ballou had a lot of stuff and fanned five of the Acorns, whiffing two men in the last round to cinch his victory.

The Seraphs made only seven hits off Bob Andrews and Bob Hurst in the supper shift, but they got them in twos in the first, third and sixth rounds to do all of their scoring. Wes Schulmerich had a double and two singles in the nightcap, driving in three Angel runs, and was the only Cherub to make more than one hit in the bargain bill.

The Acorns got three hits off

SOUTHLAND WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY BEGINS TODAY

Mrs. Leona Pressler Defends Title at San Gabriel; Feminine Stars Defy Rain in Qualifying Play

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

Washed freshly green by a week-end of spring showers, the San Gabriel Country Club will resound to the crack of wood and iron today as the leading feminine golfers of the West battle for medal honors in the eighteen-hole qualifying round of the 1930 Southern California women's championship.

"I dot a told in my nose" may very likely become the theme song of the tournament, as the Weather Bureau prognosticates more showers for today.

MRS. LEONA PRESSLER

Mrs. George M. Midgley, president of the women's auxiliary, is anxious not to have a postponement. She points out that San Gabriel drains rapidly and, with a bit of sunshine in the morning, should be in perfect condition for play. In case the course becomes inundated, however, the qualifying round will be played tomorrow, and the finals on Saturday.

A welcome entry was received yesterday from Miss Lucille De Long of Coronado. One of the promising young players in the Southland, Miss De Long advanced to the semifinals of the Southern California championship last year at the Virginia Country Club, losing to Mrs. Gregg Lifur by a narrow margin.

MISS LUSCOMBE ENTERS

San Diego has another likely entry in Miss Helen Luscombe. Miss Luscombe is attending the University of Southern California, which gives her an excellent opportunity to play in local tournaments. She has much the same build and game as Miss Helen Hicks, the brilliant eastern girl, and promises to be a ranking star before long.

These two, plus Miss Helen Law-

CAPRICE SEEKS PERPETUAL CUP

Tommy Lee Faces Bay City Sailors on 18th Inst.

Sunday afternoon, the 18th inst., has been named by the San Francisco Sailors as the date on which Tommy Lee, with his new six-meter sloop Caprice, will attempt to capture the San Francisco perpetual challenge trophy, which south coast yachtsmen have been attempting to lift since 1895.

TOMMY LEE.

The coming race will be the seventh time in eight years a southern challenger has invaded the Golden Gate and for the occasion a sizable contingent of local racing sailors will will go north to witness the battle—which gives every promise of being a classic affair.

The Corinthian Yacht Club of San Francisco has not divulged what boat will defend the historic cup, but it is known to be one of three, Commodore Arthur Rousseau's six-meter May-Be, his ponderous R-class sloop ace, or Stuart Haldorn's six-meter yacht Ay-ay-ay. The defending club has the privilege of select-

RUTH CLOUTS THIRD HOMER

Babe Helps New York Defeat Chicago, 7 to 4

NEW YORK, May 5. (AP)—Babe Ruth's third home run of the season today played a large part in the New York Yankees' victory over the Chicago White Sox. The score was 7 to 4, with Ruth's homer bringing in the last two runs and holding off a Chicago rally. About 60,000 fans turned out.

BABE RUTH

Ed Wells pitched shut out ball for the Yankees for six innings but the Sox got to him for pairs of runs in the seventh and eighth. Pipgras finished the game. Thomas and Walsh hurled for Chicago.

The White Sox used three pinch hitters and each came through.

HOLLYWOOD SOCCERITES IN VICTORY OVER ROVERS

The old battle of experience vs. youth was won by the former yesterday when the veteran Hollywood soccer football club, a team composed of Old Country players, defeated the Rovers from San Francisco by a 5-to-3 score at Loyola Field. The victory of the Sheiks makes necessary a third game for the coveted California championship as the Rovers won the first game up north a week ago by a 2-to-1 margin.

Yesterday's game was played in a sea of mud with players skidding from a yard to twenty feet in the Loyola Field slush. Despite the rain a good-sized crowd turned out for the game and there is no doubt that fair skies would have brought out the largest soccer crowd in local history.

Hollywood's experience won the game in the second half, the Sheiks coming from behind to tie the score at 2-to-2 and then scoring three more goals to make matters safe.

With the score at 2 to 1, Hollywood tied things up on Joe Close's goal after a nice cross from Jimmy Teed. Tommy Wicklow, Rover center forward, put the northern team in the lead soon after when he booted in a ball which whizzed past Goalie Copeland of Hollywood. The goal was scored on a rebound from

RUSSELL WINS TOURNEY

Local Youngster Takes Honors in Unique Doubles Event at Los Angeles Tennis Club

BY RALPH HUSTON

Despite the intermittent showers which prevented the planned completion of the affair, the first annual junior-senior doubles tournament was played yesterday at the Los Angeles Tennis Club, with Ned Russell carrying off honors in the boys' division, and Miss Margaret Diedrich taking first honors for the girls.

The tourney, which was in the nature of a "noble experiment," was pronounced a great success by officials of the club, in spite of the rain. The tournament was unique in that nothing similar ever before has been attempted. Young junior players were paired with senior stars in four divisions for men, and two for women, which played round-robin sets of eight games each.

FLAHERTY, GONZAGA COACH

SPOKANE (Wash.) May 4. (AP)—Appointment of Ray Flaherty, outstanding athlete at Gonzaga University in 1923, 1924 and 1925, as head athletic coach at his alma mater, to succeed Robert L. Mathews, was announced by Father Daniel Reidy, president of the school, today.

Flaherty was chosen on an all-Pacific Coast football selection in 1925. For two years, he was a member of Harold (Red) Grange's professional football team, and this year he was given a tryout by the Boston Braves of the National baseball league. He now is playing baseball with Providence, R. I., in the Eastern League.

CUBS LUCKY

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—A wild pitch by Koupal in the ninth inning, which permitted Danny Taylor to score, gave the Cubs their third straight victory over Philadelphia, 8 to 7, today. Forty thousand spectators watched the game.

Pat Malone went into the ninth inning with a 7-to-5 lead but blew up for two runs on a walk by Thompson and hits by O'Doul, Klein and Whitney.

Grover Cleveland Alexander pitched only one-third of the ninth inning but was charged with the defeat. Two hits and an error placed Hartnett and Malone on third and second, respectively, and Koupal relieved him. Danny Taylor ran for Hartnett and a minute later came home with the winning tally on Koupal's wild pitch.

HAAS CONNECTS

DETROIT, May 4. (AP)—George (Mule) Haas, slugging centerfielder, broke up a pitchers' duel between George Uhle and Bill Shores today with a seventh-inning triple that scored three runs and started a rally which gave the world champion Athletics their fourth victory in a row over the Detroit Tigers.

The three runs broke a 1-to-1 tie, which had existed since the fourth inning. The Tigers failed to score again, but the champions made runs in both the remaining innings, winning the game by a score of 7 to 1.

Uhle was retired, and Bob Fothergill was sent in as a pinch hitter. He succeeded only in hitting into a double-play which retired the side. Whitlow Wyatt went to the mound for Detroit but the Athletics found him easily for five hits. The score:

L. Sewell started things off for the Indians with a double in the ninth. His single in the tenth scored Averill with what proved to be the winning marker. Jamieson did his share for Cleveland with a home run in the ninth that scored two runs ahead of him.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

PACHYDERMS ARE WEALTHY

"THERE must be a lot of money in the wrestling game these days," remarked the Old Native the other day.

Yes, brother, there is—With Sonnenberg reputed to be receiving $50,000 from Lou Daro for defending his title against Everett Marshall at Wrigley Field tonight.

Plus other $50,000 lures shot at him from various points of the compass. He has a standing offer from Ed Curley to wrestle Schikat at New York, and that teaser is fifty grand.

It hasn't been accepted because the Lewis-Sonnenberg-Sandow-Bowser crowd won't have anything to do with Curley and his mob.

Schikat is the heavyweight champion in the eyes of the New York and Pennsylvania commissions.

And the Lewis-Sonnenberg-Sandow-Bowser bunch want to know how he gets that way.

If he's any kind of a champion, they retort, why doesn't he wrestle Lewis and prove that he is entitled to a match with Champion Sonnenberg.

And as long as Boston and Los Angeles are hot centers the crowd which hails Sonnenberg as king doesn't give a rap about New York and its edicts.

Less than two weeks ago Sonnenberg wrestled some doctor in Boston, and the "gate" was $42,000.

Now Sonnenberg is here to collect his fifty grand for defending his crown.

Yes, Old Native, there is plenty of dough in the wrestling game and Sonnenberg in the year and one-half he has held the title has become a rich man.

A HOT REPEATER

WHAT'S happened to the repeat match between Max Baer and Ernie Owens?

This bout was one of the most sensational in years, and yet nothing apparently has been done to cinch it again for an early showing.

With recent lean boxing houses it's poor promotion to let it slide.

It's the only sure sellout in sight if not allowed to cool.

The second Townsend-Santiago battle is a good example of what a repeat match can do.

The first fight with the ballyhoo centered on Santiago drew $7372.

The repeat match was held six weeks later and drew a "gate" of $17,263. Had it been held sooner it would have been a complete sellout with a "gate" approximating $20,000.

But Santiago disappeared, and turned up in Cuba with a new wife. The necessary postponement hurt the receipts.

The Hess-Mack fights afford another example. These boys fought last September, and the receipts were $18,359. They fought again this March—six months later—and the "gate" was $12,493.

The fans forgot all about the sensations of the first battle during the interim.

COMMISSION RECIPROCITY

PERHAPS it indicates more of a working reciprocity between the New York and California commissions, perhaps it is only ballyhoo to steam up a show that may need plenty, but anyway if New York requests it the California commission will recognize the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight as the world's heavyweight champion.

The California commission will take no initiative in the matter, and no request has yet been received.

"But," said Mr. James Woods, chairman of the California commission, at the Hollywood fights the other night, "if they ask it we will certainly hail the Sharkey-Schmeling victor as the heavyweight king.

"It would be no more than right in view of the fact that the New York commission acted promptly on our disposal of the Primo Carnera incident at San Francisco.

"The same men we suspended they suspended, and those who did not come under New York jurisdiction in the matter of licenses were put on the blacklist."

BEAR GRIDMEN TOIL AGAIN

Price Orders Hard Workouts as Players Finish Final Examinations; Seventeen Back

BERKELEY, May 4. (Exclusive)—As a final effort this spring toward building up the 1930 varsity, Coach Clarence (Nibs) Price will put his University of California football players through five days of intensive practice on the new athletic field beginning tomorrow afternoon.

Final examinations have concluded for most of the football stars and Price expects to have more than forty applicants participating in the final spring session of practice. The entire squad will be on training table for the five-day period, so rigid does Price intend to make it. The turnout will include men from last year's varsity squad, reserve players or "goofs," and members of the freshman team.

Seventeen letter men will return to Price for the 1930 varsity; only two of these men have more than one football letter. They are Russ Avery and "Togo" Thornton, both ends. The other fifteen players are:

Capt. Carl Handy, guard; Bob Bartlett, end; Nick Bigan, tackle; Fritz Cahn, tackle; Moose Garrity, fullback; Rusty Gill, fullback; Ed Griffith, halfback; Joe Hickinbotham, fullback; Ed Kirwan, quarterback; Frank Medanich, center; Dolph Timmerman, tackle; Chuck Whyte, end; Herman Eichmeyer, center, and Bob Young, guard.

Still other promising candidates for regular positions, many of whom were on last year's varsity squad, but who did not make letters, include: Mail Coombs, tackle; Jack De Benedetti, end; Louis Deresta, end; Eugene Elerding, end; Donald Handy, guard; Thor Hansen, center; Wets Ladley, center; Bill McCutcheon, halfback; Joe Smith, halfback; George Watkins, halfback, and Henry Schaldbach, halfback.

From the 1929 freshman team under Coach (Brick) Mitchell will come Jack Ashbaugh, center; Emil Blavaschi, tackle; Seldon Del Giorgio, tackle; Ulrich Fritchie, quarter; Sam Gill, end; Louis De Martini, quarterback; Bob Pascoe, guard; Dick Toner, end; Newyork, center, and George Vasily, tackle.

CAPRICE SEEKS PERPETUAL CUP

ing the defender the morning of the race. Therefore, if the weather is light, either May-Be or Ay-ay-ay will go to the line, while if things are boisterous Aee may be nominated.

Tommy Lee had Nick Potter design Caprice with an eye to lifting the perpetual challenge trophy and in her first competition, at the national midwinter regatta last March, the little double-ender gave every indication of having the stuff for the blasts out of the Golden Gate. Tommy has named as his crew for the race Commodore Owen Churchill, himself a racing skipper of note; Waldo Drake, and Sig Edwardson, who helped Fred Hoyt take the national eight-meter crown with Lewis Luckenbach's Marin.

Commodore Pierpont Davis of the California Yacht Club has announced postponement of the opening of the season festivities from the 17th to the 24th inst. That as many members as possible may go to San Francisco to cheer the challenger. Commodore Davis himself will head the California delegation, while another group will go up to represent the Los Angeles Yacht Club, under guidance of Commodore Al Christie.

Commodore Christie, by the way, is the latest convert to the six-meter racing game. He has sold his R-sloop heather to Warren and Stephen Neymark of Los Angeles and is now negotiating to buy one of three famous east coast "skeos," either Lanai, Clytie or Salcema. He stipulates that his purchase must be in local waters in time for the present season opening.

The Newmark boys, tyros in the racing game, are installing an engine in Heather and will race her this summer in the forty-five-foot cruising class, where she should give hot competition to Ocean Waif, Wilette, Thoroughbred and their like.

Title Cinder Clash Carded at Oxy Field

With today set as the closing date for entries, plans for the twenty-first annual track-and-field meet of the Southern Pacific Association of the A.A.U. are fast rounding into shape, according to Graduate Manager Phil Ellsworth of Occidental College, who is directly in charge of the affair. The meet is to be run off Saturday at Patterson Field, Occidental College, and it is expected that more than 400 men will be seen in competition at this time. The Tiger cinderpath is being groomed daily for the meet, and it is expected that a number of new records will be set. The times in the Southern California-Stanford meet, which was held on the Oxy track a few weeks ago, were all exceptionally fast, and it is believed that the A.A.U. meet will prove even faster.

NED RUSSELL CAPTURES HONORS IN TENNIS PLAY

ics, Leonard Patterson of Los Angeles and Jimmy Ware of Pasadena tied for fifth with 82. Each of these players received a tennis racket as a prize. Russell will have his name engraved on the Col. Eric W. Fowler perpetual trophy, as will Miss Diedrich.

Russell teamed with Gerald Stratford in the tourney, and impressed the judges with his fine play. The fact that he scored 18 out of a possible 20 in court tactics, and 17 out of a possible 20 in strokes, indicates his ability. He and Stratford played five of their scheduled six eight-game sets and won 27 games.

In the girls' division, Miss Diedrich scored 20 each in court appearance and sportsmanship, 18 in court tactics, 18 in strokes and 14 in games, for a total of 90. The Ojai player was teamed with Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, who predicted a fine future for her youthful partner.

Miss May Doeg scored 85 to take second place, and Miss Mercedes Marlowe was third with 84.

Phil Neer and Gerald Stratford of San Francisco, won an exhibition doubles match from Gerald Bartosh and Elbert Lewis, in straight sets, 6-4, 8-6. The local team is considered the outstanding combination in local tennis at present, and gave the talented northern team a hard battle.

Scores made by the juniors are as follows:

Group A—Ned Russell, 97; Harold Hemus, 85; Jamie del Amo, 78; Charles Cormack, 77; Daniel Clarke, 73; J. Dunna, 69, and Sid Martin, 68.

WOMEN'S PLAY STARTS TODAY

son of the Wilshire Country Club runner-up in the 1930 California State championship, represent the oncoming stars of tomorrow who are challenging the supremacy of Mrs. Leona Prentice of San Gabriel, the defending champion, Mrs. Gregg Lifur of Riviera, and others of goldom's elite.

Despite the brilliance of the younger stars, however, and the constant attack of a score or more of the Southland's finest players, Mrs. Prentice goes to the first tee this morning not only favored to win the medal, but to continue uninterrupted through the match play to a third consecutive Southern California championship.

To those who appreciate the vagarancies of golf, it is inexplicable how Mrs. Prentice continues to win, despite the fact that she is undoubtedly one of the finest golfers in the country. That she has been able to do so is not only a credit to her game, but to her golfing temperament.

A familiar figure will be missed today with the announcement that Mrs. Harry Grossman is confined to her home. One of the finest sportswomen in the Southland, and a determined golfer, Mrs. Grossman's return to active competition will be eagerly awaited.

Mrs. Dan Jones of Brentwood, former California State champion, has entered the tournament with high hopes of returning to the form that carried her to title honors in 1927. Mrs. Jones entered the recent State championship, but found her short game rusty after a long layoff, and failed to qualify by a narrow margin.

Mrs. Roy Green of the California Country Club, Los Angeles city women's champion, will be among the favored starters. Mrs. Green was the victim of an unfortunate ruling in the State championship, but took it philosophically, and should be more dangerous than ever.

Mrs. Midgley has invited a midwestern star, Mrs. D. S. Vietch of Kansas City, to play in the tournament. Mrs. Vietch is visiting here, and will return in the fall for the national women's championship. She is a five handicap player.

Miss Beatrice Gottlieb, former Metropolitan star, is apparently recovering from a brief slump, and is expected to show her real form once more at San Gabriel. She gave great promise in the Los Angeles midwinter invitational of being one of the Southland's leading players.

Mrs. Midgley announced yesterday that post entries will be taken at the first tee until 1 o'clock. The first twosome is scheduled to get away at 9:30.

Following are the pairings:

Midwick Four in Polo Win

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Midwick's intercircuit champion polo team nosed out the San Mateo four this afternon at Beresford Field, 10 to 9. Nosed out is right, for in the last chukkers the horses were the thing, and Midwick had them.

The San Mateo team was ahead all the way after Kenneth Walsh slapped over four goals in the second chukker and were never behind until the final fifteen seconds of play when Midwick put over its tenth goal.

The winning goal was put over by Gordon Cronkite, but Jim Spalding was the big scorer for the Southern California team, making four.

Unusual features increase the value of the FORD TRUCK

THE Ford 1½-ton truck offers you long, reliable haulage service at remarkably low cost. Many features of the chassis combine to make the Ford truck a value far above its price. Important among them is the new rear axle, which is exceptionally sturdy. It has a spiral bevel gear of special design, with straddle-mounted pinion. Two gear-ratios are optional. The housing is unusually strong. The axle shafts are heavier, and because of the three-quarter floating type of construction, they serve only to turn the wheels, without carrying any of the weight of truck or load.

The new wheel and tire equipment is a feature which you will find both convenient and economical. Dual rear wheels can be installed at small additional cost. Balloon tires of one size are used throughout, with the dual equipment, so that all six steel disc wheels and tires are interchangeable all around. Only one spare need be carried.

Other features which add to the value of the Ford truck are the efficient four-cylinder engine, which develops 40 horsepower at 2200 r.p.m.; the 4-speed transmission, which gives a wide, flexible range of speed and power; the new front brakes, which have been enlarged to the same size as those on the rear wheels, providing increased braking area and a high degree of safety; and the new front axle and spring, which are heavier and stronger, as are front radius-rod, king-pins, wheel bearings and thrust bearings.

These and many other features indicate how well the Ford truck is designed for reliable service under every condition. You can inspect the truck at your Ford dealer's.

In addition to the Ford 1½-ton truck chassis, there is a commercial-car chassis to meet light-delivery requirements. A wide range of body-types is available for each model.

Junior Olympic Games Athletes of Bay Region Compete in Torrance Finals Wedne

NYLANDER WILL STAGE PROGRAM

Approximately 100 Athletes to Show Wares

Fujino and Howe Show Way in Practice Meet

Torrance Team Eager to Face Other Schools

BY BRAVEN DYER

Having been washed out last week, athletes of the bay region will get together at Torrance High School Wednesday afternoon for the Torrance district finals of the Junior Olympic Games. Sig Nylander, Torrance coach and a member of the Junior Olympic Games advisory board, is staging the program, which will bring into action approximately 100 boys.

SIG NYLANDER

The meet was originally scheduled for last Wednesday, but was postponed because of bad weather. Athletes from George Washington High School showed up anyway and Nylander obligingly ran his own team against the visitors. Torrance won the team competition with 3579 points as against 3287 for George Washington. The score was obtained by adding the combined scores of the ten highest performers of each school.

L. Fujino of Washington won the senior division with a total score of 440 points, while Dale Howe of Torrance won the junior division with a score of 469 points. Both of these boys, however, have scored over 500 points in other meets.

Fujino has repeatedly thrown over 200 feet in the baseball throw and has a record now at the high school of 215 feet.

Coach Nylander is very much interested in meeting other schools in team competition. He has this to say:

"Here's a little sporting angle to the Junior Olymps—while Torrance may not produce the national champion this year, my boys are very anxious to meet a team from El Monte in a meet. The scores of the first six boys in each division to count for a total score and this total score to count as the championship, i.e.: Torrance is willing, in fact, challenges any school in Southern California to a meet of this kind, the combined scores of each school to decide the championship. If not possible to actually meet every school we will be very glad to submit substantiated scores of our twelve best boys to any twelve boys in any other school—not what they have made in practice, but in a meet held for this particular purpose. We can produce almost forty boys who can score over the 300 mark. So start the ball a rolling."

VIRGIL DAHL NAMED COUNTY RECREATION CHIEF

Following the recent county civil-service examination for the selection of a director of recreation who should have complete charge of all recreation activities sponsored by the Los Angeles County Department of Recreation Camps and Playgrounds, Virgil D. Dahl, former supervisor physical education and director of recreation at Inglewood, has been appointed to the position, according to the announcement yesterday of Fred E. Wadsworth, superintendent.

VIRGIL DAHL

Dahl is a graduate of Pomona College, where he was active in student affairs, serving two years as yell king and organizing the Pomona College rally committee. Following graduation in 1926, Dahl completed two years of postgraduate work in physical education and recreation at U.C.L.A. and U.S.C.

Organization of leisure-time activities at county-owned parks and playground areas, including sports, community dramatics and industrial recreation, were cited by Supt. Wadsworth as being the principal objectives sought by the department.

The county recreation program, it was pointed out, proposes to secure maximum participation in activities that are conducive to the public welfare at a minimum cost. The recreation program now under way, Wadsworth declared, is comprehensive in scope and will provide for the entire juvenile and adult population of Los Angeles county.

LAWNDALE YOUTH STARS IN SCHOOL FINALS

An encouraging report is received from Central school in Lawndale, which says that Sam Arico scored 514 points in winning the senior division. Carl Haskins placed second to Arico. Robert Phillips and Russell Belson put up a close battle in the junior section with Robert finally winning with 334 points to Russell's 330. Lorin Knowlton and Wesley Odell were right up with the leaders at the finish. Favorable results were also turned in by Bob Hamilton, Jimmie Beaman, Billy Palmer, Pierre Prevost, John Phelps, Frank Barabosa, Allison Kickey, Teddy Munyer, Ward Walker, Joe Bastine, Joe Arico and Edmund Munyer.

South school in the same district was not very strongly represented in the senior division, but managed to do fairly well in the junior class. Edward Grant, the only competing senior, scored 260 points. Eugene Dietrich took first in the junior division with 335 points. Othello Blair and Dick Harman were the runners-up. William Kostopoulos, Carl Epperheimer, Gilbert Peterson, Donald Kramer, Claywood Enoch and Charles Deacon were among the other high-point scorers.

ARNETT WINS HONORS IN SCHOOL FINALS

Norris Arnett, a senior, won the State-street school finals of the Junior Olympic Games with 410 points. Hugh Powell, with 302 points, was Arnett's closest competitor. George Rogers took first among the juniors with 274 points. Other entrants who made relatively good scores were Jack Hays, Eddie Vatcher, Marvin Cope and Jack Cope.

PLAYGROUND ENTRANTS ARE HANDICAPPED IN WORKOUTS

Student executive, Ralph Crawford, in reporting the results of the Watts Playground finals says the meet facilities were poor, which was partly responsible for some of the boys not making a better showing. Rousseau Smart lead the scorers in the senior group with 338 points. Riley Blackburn, with 331 points, was second, and Adair Coates tallied 326, for a close third. Honors among the juniors went to Melvin Bauer, whose score was 345. Palmer King, was second, and David Wilkinson, third.

CABRERA FINISHES FIRST IN RAMONA-SCHOOL FINALS

Frank Cabrera walked off with first place in the Ramona school finals with 454 points. Jose Gomez with 382 points, was second, while Luther Gonzales finished third with a score of 362. Venoncia Montecino with 386 points, led the junior entrees, followed by Robert Ronay and Juan Chavolla. Juan Molina, Frank Castenda, Lionel Mendoza, Ralph Provencio, Juan Ramirez, Augustine Guisine and Nick Emeterio will also receive awards in the senior group. Juniors who earned similar distinction are Luis Macias, Robert Ramirez, Eusebio Martinez and Julio Lopez.

Morrison Wins Shoot

Don Morrison was high man yesterday at the regular shoot of the Los Angeles Gun Club. Morrison scored a 96 in spite of the adverse weather conditions, which kept the attendance down. Next Sunday the targets will be registered with the Amateur Trapshooting Association and will serve as a practice meet for the local men who will compete in the State Shoot in Del Monte from the 15th to the 18th inst.

Three thousand and five hundred dollars in cash and several large trophies will be the prizes at the State shoot, it was announced.

Scores compiled by Fred H. Teeple, secretary, follow:

Making the Title Stick

WITH Messrs. Schmeling and Sharkey plunging into the first stages of their final training this week, an interesting point has popped out from under cover.

Several inquiring fight fans want to know how all the various boxing associations in this country and Europe, especially Europe, will feel about making the title of "world's heavyweight champion" stick when the two entries from Boston and Berlin conclude their show. The New York commission will award the Tunney-Muldoon trophy to the winner and officially hand him the crown Tunney discarded two years ago. Most of the State associations and the National Boxing Association will probably follow.

What Europe will do is another guess. This will be an easy guess if Schmeling wins. He will then get the European vote. But there has been no passionate love for Sharkey in England, especially since Phil Scott filed his somber report after the Miami turn. If Scott beats Stribling the British board may insist that Phil is still in the hunt.

At the worst the winner of the June carnival in New York will have a big jump on the field. He will have the support of many boxing associations, and as long as there is no one else around making a noise like a champion he will get the majority verdict.

Yet the winner will not be automatically hailed by the public at large as the new champion if the fight is a flop and the show is a bust. If there is another replica of the Sharkey-Stribling or the Sharkey-Scott contests the howl will be so noisy that the title will mean nothing. After all, it isn't unreasonable to expect one of the two challengers to prove he can fight a little.

Running the Risk

Schmeling and Sharkey will run whatever risk there is of having some association, local or foreign, refuse to recognize the heavyweight award. They will run this risk with much pleasure.

The strong spot in their claim will be that no one else is even close to the mark. There is no other challenger in the neighborhood who has proved anything like a counter-claim.

This makes it somewhat simpler, provided the challenger from Boston or the challenger from Berlin is willing to do a little fighting for the crown he is supposed to wear.

But these eliminations and eliminations have blown so many chances in the last two years that it might be just as well to wait and see what the production is.

Old Spanish galleons that sailed the seas replete with gold and silver will have nothing on the treasure ship bringing Bill Tilden's tennis prizes back home.

Tilden may be all through but no one in Europe has yet been able to find it out.

GOLF MAXIMS

Even a man of considerable means
Cannot afford many three-pull greens.

A mashie shot hit up in the shank
Is worse than overdrawing your bank.

The remedy may be a trifle stiff,
But you never hook or slice when you whiff.

Cub Pitching

With the arrival of warmer weather the time seems to be about ripe for Cub pitching to reach its old efficiency. Any team that has Pat Malone, Guy Bush, Charley Root, Sheriff Blake and one or two others is pretty sure to get its share of good pitching from now on.

The Cubs won last season through pitching and the punch, just as the Athletics did. They are both ready again, but they will have a harder time winning against somewhat better opposition.

Ty Cobb remarked before the season started that the second pennant year is always the easiest for any good team. The margins opened up by Cubs and Athletics last year were wide enough to prove they were two good clubs, good enough to win again without a decided improvement on the part of some rival. No rival has yet shown the brand of improvement needed to supplant a team with the pitching and the punch the Cubs still carry, or will carry when they finally get going.

One or two extra pitchers who can help out in an emergency make a terrific difference. The Cubs have this help.

Next week the United States will have placed Helen Wills, Bobby Jones, Glenna Collett, Bill Tilden and Horton Smith in Europe—far and away the greatest group of talent one country ever sent abroad. They are quite likely to bag four of the five championships they will enter, the one sure barrier—one practically sure barrier being Henri Cochet in tennis. The others stand above any competitors they will meet.

In the meanwhile Earl Sande, riding Gallant Fox, isn't shooting at anything except the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby in the next two weeks just by way of an interlude.

The contemplating of the next two weeks should be extremely pleasant for the No. 1 on the British golf team who will be called on to entertain Bobby Jones for thirty-six holes at Sandwich.

Glenna Collett had a 75 and was beaten. There are six or seven male golfers who would be willing to take a trimming after shooting a 75.

As long as night baseball worked out so effectively at Des Moines it may save the minor leagues.

HOLLYWOOD SOCCERITES TRIUMPH OVER ROVERS

the cross-bar, Tommy Roberts taking the first boot.

With the Rovers leading 3 to 2, Hollywood took matters in their own hands and the next goal was scored by Jimmy Ramsay, a beautiful corner kick that found its way into the net. Jimmy McDill put Hollywood in the lead with a goal two minutes later and then Ramsay's corner kick was headed straight into the net by Jimmy Teed. The Rovers put on a gallant finish, but the game was over then. A third and final game will be played at San Francisco next Sunday, no games being scheduled for Loyola Field until the 18th inst.

In the first half yesterday the Rovers started out fast and the first goal was scored by Tommy Roberts on a header after Wicklow's nice cross-shot. Charley Scholl, Hollywood back, was badly beaten on this shot. Jimmy Teed equalized on a roller that slipped through Goalie Wood's fingers, the wet ball being impossible to handle.

The Rovers made the half-time score, 2 to 1, when Denny Gorden, inside right, passed to Jack Roberts, who scored.

the good old days, when fireworks and flying tackles and airplane spins were unheard of.

The showmanship of the current era has injected elements into the game that were unknown a decade ago.

There are a few formalities before the young gladiators clash in Promoter Lou Daro's first outdoor show since the ten-round law was passed over five years ago.

They must appear before the State athletic physician, Dr. Lloyd Mace, at the Olympic Auditorium at 2 o'clock this afternoon to take part in the customary physical check-up and weighing ceremony.

James Woods, chairman of the commission, who came down from San Francisco several days ago, will be on hand to see the title match tonight.

There are three preliminaries, one to follow the championship tilt, which is scheduled to start about 9:30.

Ad Herman meets Dr. P. A. Mullikan in the opener, Dan Koloff tackles Don George in the second bout, and Niek Lutze faces Gene LaDoux in the match which follows the main event.

Each of these matches, except for the opener, is a one-fall affair with a one-hour time limit. The first bout is limited to fifteen minutes.

SONNENBERG RISKS TITLE

inary boy on the card when Sonnenberg wrestled Strangler Lewis here last October—six months ago.

Marshall saw Sonnenberg in the main event. But Sonnenberg saw little of Marshall in the first preliminary. He wasn't interested.

Marshall, who hails from La Junta, Colo., has wrestled since he was a kid and probably knows more of the actual technique of grappling than Sonnenberg.

The latter was a professional football player before he took up the mat art, and at Dartmouth he was an all-American tackle. In Boston, Sonnenberg's home town, Marshall's pretensions to the title are considered a joke. Sonnenberg is a 10-to-1 favorite.

It was from the gridiron that the champion gained the idea for his sensational flying tackle.

It is unorthodox, but it gets results.

According to the stories of the match when he won the title from Lewis at Boston a year ago last January he literally butted Lewis out of the title.

However, if you observe the champion closely when he scores with his tackle it is the shoulder that hits a foe's body—not his head.

JUST MISSES

As they fall together Sonnenberg's head slides over and up on an opponent's midsection, giving the impression of a butt.

To offset this unorthodox hold the challenger has the airplane spin.

This he applies by getting a crotch hold and hoisting his foe aloft, twirling him rapidly until dizzy, then crashing him to the floor.

Marshall was unable to boost Strangler Lewis because of the headlock expert's 240 pounds, and had to resort to a body slam to accomplish his fell purpose.

The Colorado blond is tremendously strong, and has evinced an ability to break the toughest of holds. Lewis labored long and earnestly before he captured the first fall against Marshall with a long series of headlocks.

Sonnenberg weighs forty pounds less than Lewis, and Marshall should not have the trouble lifting the champion that he did with Lewis.

Of course, while Marshall is trying to apply his airplane spin Sonnonberg may apply his flying tackle and that will be embarrassing for the challenger.

But to offset this contingency Marshall claims a period on the gridiron himself, and alleges he can dodge a tackle as well as the next football player.

ALL NEW STUFF

Such talk is lese majeste to the wrestlers of the old school who knew nothing of football and tackles.

But wrestling isn't what it was in

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan's bonds hurt him. He was thirsty and he was suffering the tortures of long restricted circulation. With an angry growl he rolled over with his back toward La. So that was her answer! The High Priestess leaped to her feet. A hot flush of shame mantled her cheek. Then she went dead white and stepped to the shelter's entrance. "Come, Priests of the Flaming God!" she cried, "and make ready the sacrifice." In rushed the crooked beings and seized Tarzan.

Upon the rough branches of the altar they laid the ape-man. The High Priest approached with flaming torch. La came, too, with upraised knife, her face turned toward the rising sun and upon her lips a prayer to the burning deity of her people. The High Priest awaited La's signal. Tarzan closed his eyes and awaited his end. He knew that he would suffer; yet he did not flinch. He felt La lean over him. He opened his eyes and saw tears blinding her eyes.

"Tarzan, my Tarzan!" she moaned, "tell me that you love me—that you will return to Opar with me—and you shall live. Even in the face of the anger of my people I will save you. This last chance I give you. What is your answer?" At the last moment the woman in La had triumphed over the High Priestess of a cruel cult. Yet with all her mad passion for the ape-man she would give the word to apply the flame if Tarzan's final answer was unsatisfactory. "Yes or no?" she whispered.

Through the jungle, out of the distance, came faintly a sound that brought a sudden light of hope to Tarzan's eyes. He raised his voice in a weird scream that sent La back from him a step or two. The impatient priest grumbled, holding the torch closer to the base of the pyre. "Your answer!" insisted La. "What is your answer to the love of La of Opar?" Closer came the sound that had attracted Tarzan's attention and now the others heard it also.

OIL OUTLOOK BRIGHTENS

Flush Zones Tapering Off; No Disturbances Likely; Vacation Motoring to Relieve Storage

BY HOWARD KEGLEY

On the eve of the opening of a long vacation season in which we may expect to see all records for gasoline consumption go fluttering into the discard, the oil industry, not only in California, but all over the country, faces the most hopeful outlook it has had for more than a year.

Anyone who does not believe that the industry has been going through trying times had better guess again.

RALPH B. LLOYD

Overproduction has worried California frantic several times in the last eight years, and never was it a more exasperating problem than it has been the past eight months. It still is a lifeand issue, but the law of supply and demand is beginning to co-operate with officials of the California Oil and Gas Association in handling the issue.

At the same time there is a committee of eleven leaders in the industry making an economic study for the purpose of determining whether or not the producers shall continue to hold daily production at or near 610,000 barrels or try to pinch it back to 550,000 barrels daily, as was recently suggested by a committee of Santa Fe Springs operators.

IN CAPABLE HANDS

The committee of eleven last week placed the issue in the hands of a special group, composed of Earl W. Wagy of the Standard Oil Company, R. E. Haylet of the Union Oil Company, W. E. Dunlap of the Richfield Oil Company, and Ralph Lloyd, Ventura oil royalty owner. This group is expected to report the findings of its study to the committee on Wednesday.

When the "eleven" were chosen by Chairman Paul Boggs of the State-wide General Committee on Curtailment there was talk of having it carry on its deliberations with an economist to be selected. No economist has yet been chosen, and one wonders why there should be an economist, after reviewing the personnel of the "eleven."

W. E. DUNLAP

It is doubtful if locally there is available an economist who knows more about the problem than these gentlemen who have grown up with it, and who live with it day in and day out, and certainly one might gravely doubt the wisdom of sending to some distant point for an imported economist with a head full of facts but lacking the intimate contact with the industry which this committee possesses.

FURTHER CUT QUESTIONED

What conclusion the committee will reach regarding the proposal of the Santa Fe Springs operators' committee no one may know at this time, but there are a great many sound thinkers in the oil business who do not believe that economic conditions justify cutting the daily oil production of California below 610,000 barrels.

EARL W. WAGY

Santa Fe Springs has struck bottom as far as future flush production is concerned. The three lower Clarke zones have gone off lately so rapidly that operators not only are getting feeble producers from those levels but are having to put in compressors to bring the oil up from extreme depth. The singular thing about these zones is that the oil is petering out before the gas subsides, which is somewhat of a reversal of the usual condition. With gas a drug on the market, and a penalty attached to its wastage few operators are going to be greatly interested in further deep development in this field if oil is not to be had in quantity.

NEW FIELDS EXPLORED

As an actual fact many operators already are backing up to the Nordstrom and O'Connell zones, particularly the former. Several of the big companies, which once had from thirty to fifty wells apiece drilling in the field, are finishing up their last two or three holes and will then be through the deep stuff there.

The southeastern part of Signal Hill, where some fairly good deep stuff was obtained for a while, is not holding up to expectation, and operators already are swinging over to the Los Cerritos area in search of light oil.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Ohio Oil Company has just completed its second well in the new field at Venice—a good well, with others drilling in the neighborhood, no production disturbance need be expected from that source. In the first place, the oil is heavy, and contains a sulphur element which does not make it particularly desirable for refining, according to field reports. In the second place, it will take three or four months to finish a well, and it probably would be six months before a dozen new wells would reach production stage in that area.

CONSUMPTION TO GAIN

Ventura avenue is a field from which no disturbance may be expected, for the activity is in the hands of a few major operators who are heartily in accord with the curtailment program. Potentially, the Elwood Bay district is a great oil field, but there, again, the work is in the hands of half a dozen operators who will avoid "rocking the boat," if possible. There is nothing in the San Joaquin Valley district which could be expected to upset the present outlook, for most of the fields have settled production of moderate proportions. Maricopa Flat is the only area that might turn in any considerable quantity of oil and it is spotty, so it doesn't seem at all sinister.

On the other hand the country is just starting off on another big motoring vacation which will run for fully five months. It is reasonable to expect that the consumption of gasoline during the summer and fall, from coast to coast, will be 6 or 7 per cent in excess of last summer's gasoline consumption, and if such is the case it will unburden the country's storage reservoirs of a tremendous supply of reserve gasoline—the heaviest stock that the industry has ever known.

If the oil operators throughout the United States hold steady on their curtailment program for a few months more, without imposing further burdens upon themselves and their neighbors, they have the prospect soon of coming to the place where production and consumption will probably be more evenly balanced than they have been for any considerable period during the last eight years.

KERN FIELD OPERATIONS SHOW GAIN

Oil and Gas Supervisor Reports Permits Issued for Nine Projects

BAKERSFIELD, May 4. (Exclusive)—Drilling activity in the oil fields of Kern county took a decided spurt during the past week, permits for nine new wells being issued by the local office of the State oil and gas supervisor.

The Standard Oil Company spudded in two new wells, one being No. 17 on Sec. 5, 32-24 in the Midway field, and the other being No. 47 on Sec. 9, 11-23 in the Sunset district.

The Chanslor Canfield-Midway Oil Company started No. 98, on Sec. 18, 28-29 at Round Mountain and No. 34 on Sec. 23, 28-27, in the Kern River field.

In the Poso Creek field the General Petroleum Corporation started Glide No. 17 on Sec. 27-28 and the Pacific Western Oil Company started Glide-Vedder No. 4 on Sec. 15, 27-28.

Other new wells begun were the Western Gulf Oil Company's Price-Stewart No. 1 on Sec. 22, 29-27 at Fruitvale; Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company No. 99 on Sec. 18, 28-29 at Round Mountain, and George F. Getty, Inc., Olcese No. 1 on Sec. 17, 28-29 in the same field.

The Pan-American Petroleum Company has begun redrilling its Crampton No. 1-E well on Sec. 1, 31-24 in the Elk Hills.

The North American Oil Consolidated has reported the abandonment of its No. 1 and No. 5 wells on Sec. 16, 32-23 in the Midway field.

Good Weather Aids Gasoline Sales in Texas

AUSTIN (Tex.) May 4. (Exclusive)—As an evidence of the increase of automobile travel due to good weather, there was an increase of more than 15 per cent in the total sum received by the State Comptroller from the tax on the sale of gasoline during March, as compared with the preceding month.

The total tax payments for April, covering March gasoline sales, were approximately $2,600,000.

POSO CREEK PROJECT TO TRY NEW SHUT-OFF

POSO CREEK, May 4. (Exclusive) Chanslor-Canfield-Midway Oil Company is preparing to set another plug in its Mon No. 1 well on Sec. 26, 27-28, in the Poso Creek field. With a total depth of 1655 feet, the eight and five-eighth-inch casing was cemented at 1622 feet. Water showed up in the shut-off test, so the recementing job is being done.

"CHICKEN YARD" OIL HUNT BEGUN

Project Located at Willcox on Railroad Land

Hole Already Down 500 Feet and Drilling Ahead

Area Holds Long Record for Shallow Production

WILLCOX (Ariz.) May 4. (Exclusive)—A test well for oil has been started in the "Chicken Yard," beside the railroad right of way here, and is down about 500 feet. The locality has a record of producing thousands of gallons of a remarkably pure and high-grade oil from an average depth of fourteen feet, pumped by the Southern Pacific water tender by means of an ordinary cistern pump, moved from hole to hole.

The product finds ready sale to farmers for use in pumping engines and even serves to drive automobiles. It long has been believed that the flow comes from seepage outside the casing of the railroad's deep water well, because all has been skimmed from the top of the water in the big elevated tank. The "post hole" oil carried 66 per cent gasoline and 33 per cent kerosene, according to samples taken.

With little attendant publicity, much drilling is continuing near this point and around Bowie. Operations have been resumed on the old Pinal No. 1 well, now called the Mary Coleman No. 1 down below 2000 feet. A heavy flow of pure water is being eased off at the Syndicate well near Pima, which has reached 3765 feet depth. Nearly 2000 feet depth has been reached in the Hooker well, twenty-two miles northwest of this point.

Gas of very inflammable sort is coming from a 6000-foot well on the ranch of John H. Schoenheit, northwest of Tempe, from a shale stratum and an underlying sand. Escaping gas can be ignited at the top of the casing. The section has a capping of red sandstone and sandstone conglomerate and has been favorably reported on by oil experts.

FRUITVALE OPERATIONS REPORTED

Getty to Drill Farrell Hole Deeper; Project of Mohawk Cleaning Out

FRUITVALE, May 4. (Exclusive) George F. Getty, Inc., has begun drilling out the cement plug in Farrell No. 1 on Sec. 21, 29-27 in the Fruitvale field preparatory to deepening the hole. The plug is at 3000 feet and the total depth of the hole is 3795 feet.

On Sec. 23, 29-27, Getty is rigging up rotary to drill Fairhaven No. 1, this being his first drilling job in this field for several months.

At present there are six active sites at Fruitvale. Mohawk, Shell and Western Gulf all drilling wells.

The Mohawk Oil Company is washing out hole at its No. 6 well in the Fruitvale field on Sec. 27, 29-27. With a total depth of 4183 feet, this well, once a producer of about 300 barrels a day, was killed to permit resetting of casing at 3809 feet.

The project was cutting about 50 per cent before it was killed. Activity by this operator is the first since Fruitvale's general shutdown last summer. Several other companies have resumed work in the district.

Operations in Tombstone Mine Field Reported

TOMBSTONE (Ariz.) May 4. (Exclusive)—About thirty carloads of silver-lead-gold ore have been shipped for smelting from the Tombstone Extension mine near the city on the Bisbee road. About thirty men are employed. The property is backed by the De Autremont brothers of Tucson, who are reported to be making large profit already and to be assured that they have a mine and not a prospect. This property is entirely outside of the old bonanza sections of this camp. The claims were located in the early days but never developed to any depth.

Several carloads of ore a month are being shipped from the Bob Ingersoll mine, with returns approximating $35 a ton.

The old Paradise mining camp in the Chiricahua Mountains is being opened again by several mining companies. The Coronado Corporation, managed by Eugene Davis, is shipping good smelting ore from its 300-foot level.

NEVADA MINES GROUP SOLD

RENO (Nev.) May 5. (Exclusive) Control of the Majestic Mines Corporation, owner of the Bullion, Mt. Tenabo and other properties near Cortez, was purchased in Reno last week by the Roberts Mining and Milling Company. This corporation is composed of Southern California people, headed by Miss Belle McCord Roberts of Long Beach and G. A. Smith of Los Angeles. The purchase price is given as $60,000, with a payment of $10,000.

The Roberts Mining and Milling Company announces the immediate erection of a fifty-ton mill, using the flotation process. A large tonnage of profitable silver-gold ore is said to be blocked out and several rich shipments were made early in 1929 by the Majestic Company.

The Gold Circle Consolidated Company has acquired the Betty O'Neal mine near Battle Mountain, together with the Cashy mine, located in Arizona. Manager Noble H. Getchell states that work will be resumed immediately on the corporation's extensive holdings in the Gold Circle district, including the Elko Prince, Missing Link, Grant, Jackson and other gold producers. The 900-foot Elko Prince shaft is to be sent to the 1200-foot point and extensive lateral developments pressed. The Grant shaft will also be deepened 200 feet and a crosscut sent out to seek the ledge beyond a fault.

James Raker and associates of Los Angeles have arranged for erection of a mill near the old gold camp of Tuscarora in Elko county for treatment of the old Navajo dumps. Tests are said to show that the material carries good values and that a high extraction by flotation is indicated. Some machinery has arrived and the operators expect to start production in the early summer.

IDAHO GOLD ESTATES IN NEW HANDS

Historic Sunnyside and Dewey Properties Taken by American, Ltd.

Announcement of the acquisition of the Sunnyside and Dewey gold mines located in the Thunder Mountain mining district, Idaho county, Idaho, by the American Gold Corporation, Ltd., was made yesterday by J. S. Tremayne.

Considerable mining history has been woven since the discovery of gold on these properties in 1894 by Ben and Dan Caswell, prospectors, who it is reported secured over $20,000 in gold by crude operations. Early in the present century the Sunnyside mine passed into the possession of the Sunnyside Mining Company, headed by T. H. Lovejoy, an associate of Andrew Carnegie.

According to reports, approximately $1,250,000 was expended on this estate in the purchase, development and equipment of the property. This development consisted of more than 12,000 feet of tunnels, drifts, raises and winzes. The surface equipment consisted of mine camp and shops, store, boarding and bunk houses, a forty-stamp mill, and sawmill. The mine and mill were connected by aerial tram 7200 feet in length. The Dewey mine was acquired by the late Col. W. H. Dewey, well-known mining and railroad man who developed the property, which adjoins the Sunnyside mine. A ten-stamp will was erected and operated during development of the mine.

The panic of 1907 caused a cessation of operations on both mines, following which both properties passed into the hands of T. N. Barnsdall, and later on to the Barnsdall Corporation.

Engineers' reports estimate that at the present time there are between 400,000 and 500,000 tons of commercial grade ore blocked out in the Sunnyside mine workings, ready for extraction and treatment. Churn drill prospecting has revealed the existence of a large tonnage of ore averaging $7 in gold, it is reported.

ACTIVITY AT SIGNAL HILL HAS SHIFT

Backswing from Area in Southwest to Northwest District Noted

From the southeast corner of Signal Hill, where water complications are somewhat discouraging to a drilling campaign which has been in progress for many months, the field activity at Long Beach is swinging back along American avenue, northwest of the big hill and in the vicinity of the intensely developed Los Cerritos area.

The Los Cerritos district is all town-lot stuff and was the scene of a wild scramble for oil about four years ago, when many operators drilled to the 5700-5800-foot zone, getting big production for a few weeks, but being disappointed in the long run.

The district now is showing considerable promise at depths between 6500 and 6600 feet. There are eight or ten wells either building derrick or drilling there at present. Among the companies interested are General Petroleum, Texas, Wilshire and several small independent operators.

Development of Pilgrim Mine to Go Forward

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) May 4. (Exclusive)—M. B. Dudley, head of the Pilgrim organization, has just returned from New York, with the announcement that he has obtained ample financing for further development of the property by a banking syndicate.

In the mine a winze from the 350-foot level now is down about 100 feet, with statement of continuance of high gold values for the entire distance. Work on the 230-foot level has shown mineralized conditions across eighteen feet, with good value on both walls of the vein.

Much high-grade galena is being found in the Schenectady vein of the Chloride Consolidated Mines Company, with assays up to $110 in lead and silver. At 500 feet it is planned to connect the shaft with the Commonwealth tunnel workings. The company's executive offices are in Portland, Ore.

Heavy Output of Zinc Forecast at United Verde

CLARKDALE (Ariz.) May 4. (Exclusive)—Production of zinc in large quantity is a probability in the near future from the local works of the United Verde Copper Company, following a year of experimental work in laboratory.

At depth, in its Jerome mine, the company is reported to have developed a large quantity of zinc ore. This product is understood associated with construction of the new section of the 2200-ton mill, now well advanced. All machinery has been ordered and much of it is on hand.

The plans include an effort to further diminish losses incident to the smoke nuisance. Machinery is arriving for the new United Verde Extension mill at Clemenceau and is being installed under superintendence of E. L. Sweeny, consulting metallurgist.

VENICE OIL HISTORY GIVEN

First Search in District Made Four Years Ago by Milham Company Failure

Efforts to develop an oil field in the vicinity of Venice, where the Ohio Oil Company has completed two producers within the past four months, date back more than four years ago to the time when the Milham Exploration Company drilled several dry holes nearly two miles due southwest of Venice.

Milham drilled Del Rey No. 1 only a short distance back from the ocean, on the theory that an oil structure probably extended out into the ocean. Its wildcat well went to about 5000 feet. Although it penetrater a little oil formation it never encountered gas showings and finally was abandoned. Later, Milham drilled Del Rey No. 2, going to 6000 feet without developing anything of interest. Its lease of 350 acres was quitclaimed and the company pulled out. Since then, the old lease has been subdivided and many residences have been erected along the coast southwest of Venice.

About a year ago the Ohio Oil company started drilling Del Rey No. 1 due east of its Recreation Gun Club No. 1 well near Venice, and this venture proved to be a dry hole, also and the company moved over closer to the ocean and brought in its first successful producer there last December. Since then the company has leased much of the available property near its discovery well, and with the completion Saturday of its Recreation Gun Club No. 2, more than a score of operators are expected to start work on their leases in and near the Venice city limits.

Further southeast along the coast other tests for oil are preparing to start. The California-Ventura Oil company is ready to spud in a wildcat at Hermosa Beach. This project is five miles from Ohio's producing wells at Venice. Not far away the California-Ventura has another test, formerly the Western Oil Refining Company's Carlin Smith No. 1. It is being drilled deeper in search of an extension of the Venice field.

Casamera Oil Files Articles in Kern County

BAKERSFIELD, May 4. (Exclusive)—Articles of incorporation for the Casamera Oil Company, for producing and marketing petroleum products with headquarters at Taft, have been filed at the office of the County Clerk, naming the following directors: R. E. Graham, Taft; Glenn G. Patton, Bakersfield; Ethel Holson, Bakersfield; Frances Graham, Taft; Alfred Siemon, Bakersfield.

The company is authorized to capitalize to the extent of $75,000 with shares at $1 each.

Mine Held Rich in Manganese

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) May 4. (Exclusive)—Operations in the Queen Creek Company's property above the Magma are in manganese ore that is as black as coal. In it are chunks and veins of galena of very attractive sort, carrying silver. Operations are being pushed with expectation that something of material value will be developed before long.

Manganese is very abundant in this district, though generally of a grade that renders shipment unprofitable. If 40 per cent manganese had market value the camp would be a large producer of the material.

MIDNIGHT TEST MILL OPERATING

New Plant of National Exploration Company in Use at Prescott

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) May 4. (Exclusive)—The new Midnight test mill has gone into commission, operated by the National Exploration Company, represented by Walter Linesba. Very little of the old mill equipment on the property has been retained. Statement is made that extraction runs between 90 and 95 per cent. The ores carry silver and gold.

Production has started from the Mocey Metals property, which lies only about a mile from loading points on the Santa Fe spur from Humboldt to the Sheldon tunnel. Shipment of a test carload is reported to have given $7 a ton in gold, $11.80 in silver, $6.80 in copper and $9.60 in lead. About 20,000 tons of ore are reported available for stoping above the 400-foot level.

Surveys have been completed for a broad-gauge railroad proposed to be built from Hillside on the Santa Fe-Phoenix line to the Bagdad Copper mines, twenty-eight miles. Much of the distance is in rather rough country.

Six miles from Prescott is a four-foot body of iron ocher on ground claimed by J. I. Anderson, who is experimenting with a small mill in grinding material for sale to paint manufacturers.

New Deposit of Gypsum Opening

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) May 4. (Exclusive)—At a cost of $30,000 the Arizona Gypsum Plaster Company is opening new quarries at Curtis on the San Pedro River, sixty miles from this city. The crushing plant will have a capacity of 150 tons a day, with employment of about thirty men.

The supply of material is said to be ample for many years. Principal stockholders in the company are William Adamson of this city, A. K. Adamson of Los Angeles, and Shelton O. Dowell, the last named being secretary-treasurer.

Work at Delano Wildcat Stops

DELANO, May 4. (Exclusive)—The Helen Petroleum Corporation has suspended drilling in its wildcat well No. 1 on Sec. 23, 25-27, in the Jasmine district. Drilling stopped at 2220 feet.

According to officials of the company the shutdown is only temporary and drilling may be resumed at an early date. This is the only test well in the Northern Kern county area.

PIPE LINE NEARS DOOR OF HOBBS

Humble Company's Project Pushing to Goal

Completion Expected Within Next Two Weeks

Nine Producers Awaiting to Hook Up on Arrival

ARTESIA (N. M.) May 4. (Exclusive)—With nine completed wells in the Hobbs area ready to be connected with the pipe line, the Humble Pipe Line Company is stringing pipe within six miles of Hobbs and twenty miles north of Jal. It is believed that the line will be ready for use within two weeks.

More than thirty drilling operations are under way in this field. The latest locations in the sector include three wells for the Getty Oil Company.

Amerada Petroleum Corporation has staked the location for its State No. 1, 990 feet from the north line and 2310 feet from the east line of Sec. 30, 18-38, in Eddy county.

Other companies that will test the Hobbs section include the Sun Oil Company, which will drill a location made several months ago, 330 feet from the east line and 330 feet from the north line of Sec. 5, 19-38. The same company is building rig for its McKinley No. 2, 990 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the east line of Sec. 5, 19-38. The Humble Oil and Refining Company is rigging up for a fifth test on the Bowers permit, known as the Humble-Bowers No. 5, 2310 feet from the south line and 990 feet from the east line of Sec. 30, 18-38.

While practically all of the acreage surrounding the Hobbs area is now in the hands of the major operators, acreage transfers involving large sums are not infrequent. Recently the California Company is reported to have purchased eighty acres of Sec. 30, 18-38, for $80,000.

Production in the State No. 2-B of Cranfill and Reynolds 660 feet west of the east line and 330 feet south of the north line of Sec. 2, 21-31, was increased by deepening the well from 3764 feet to 3779 feet. The well, which is in the Lea field, is said to be capable now of pumping approximately 1200 barrels per day.

Vanadium Ore Find Reported High in Value

WINKELMAN (Ariz.) May 4. (Exclusive—An important strike of vanadium, said to run 25 per cent in that metal and to carry important values in other minerals, has been made in the Dripping Springs mine of the United Vanadium Mining Corporation, of which Walter K. Osborn is general superintendent.

The company recently started operation of a mill costing $35,000 on ledge matter that ran only about 2 per cent vanadium. The ore now being milled at the rate of thirty tons a day is rated worth $250 a ton. President of the corporation is J. G. Scarborough and its vice-president is Harry W. Watson, both of Los Angeles.

Each 1000-share certificate constitutes entire ownership of the 120 shares of stocks listed above. 500 shares constitutes one-half ownership, 100 shares one-tenth ownership, and smaller denominations in proportion.

Assuming shares in existence these years

The average price of International Insurance Shares over this period has been $15.75 per share. The average return has been $1.70 per share or an average annual return of 10.5%. Stock dividends of less than 100% together with all issued rights are sold and the cash proceeds become part of the dividend fund. Distributions are made pro rata twice each year, June 30th and December 31st.

An investment of $1000.00 in International Insurance Shares made in 1925 would have returned in cash dividends during the next five years $697.82, a yield of approximately 14% per year. In addition to this exceptionally favorable cash return the original investment at the end of that period would have had a market value of $1558.00.

MARKETABILITY

A daily market is maintained on International Insurance Shares based on the daily market price of the underlying securities, plus brokerage and accumulated dividends. We recommend International Insurance Shares as offering the maximum in the three essentials of a desirable investment: security, yield, and marketability plus enhancement of value.

ARIZONA MINES CHAPTER MEETS

Two-Day Conference Held at Bisbee Last Week

Copper Price Cut Expected to Stimulate Buying

Closing Down of High Cost Properties Forecast

BISBEE (Ariz.) May 4. (Exclusive)—There has been conclusion of a two-day session here of the Arizona Chapter of the American Mining Congress, with a comprehensive tour of the local mines, and of the Douglas smelters. The principal papers presented included: "History and Development of the Denn Mine," by Charles E. Bronson; "Incline Cut-and-Fill Methods of Mining at the Campbell Mine of the Calumet and Arizona Mining Company," by H. M. Lavender; "The Anode Plant of the Phelps Dodge Corporation at Douglas," by R. H. Mills; "Copper Leaching and Cementation Plants of the Copper Queen Branch," by O. E. Simmons; "Gelatine Dynamites," by L. Grageroff; "Sulphuric Acid Plant of the Calumet and Arizona Mining Company," by M. E. Jacks. A safety conference was presided over by H. C. Henrie, manager of the labor department of the Copper Queen branch.

Engineers of the Phelps Dodge and Calumet and Arizona corporations are making a join examination of the properties of the two organizations, their findings to be considered in event of a decision to consolidate. It is stated that no other properties are being considered in the proposal for consolidation.

Even larger activities in the mines of Arizona are believed likely to follow reduction of the copper price from 18 to 14 cents, with expected stimulation of demand for the metal. It is believed, however, that many smaller copper mines in Arizona will be compelled to close, unable to make profit at the lower figure. Most of the larger companies, operating their own reduction plants, will be able to operate with a degree of profit at even 12 cents. There must be consideration, also of a general reduction of wages in the mines and smelters of the Southwest, with about 25 cents a day lopped from the pay of each miner.

OIL TOWN LIMITS WIDELY STREWN

Bakersfield, Tex., Laps Over Into New Mexico and Still Spreading

Bakersfield, Tex., is one of the worst scattered towns on the oil map. Part of the community is in Hobbs, N. M., some of it is in Penwell, a portion of it is in McCamey, Tex., and fragments meander around in other parts of both States.

Two weeks after the Taylor-Link oil field was brought in, twenty-five miles from McCamey, Bakersfield sprang into a community of 1200 persons. After a time the oil field failed to look up like another Yates field, and the inhabitants began moving out.

Today there are less than 300 persons in Bakersfield, Tex., and there is only one store left and one restaurant.

OUTPUT IN KERN FIELDS BOOSTED

BAKERSFIELD, May 4. (Exclusive)—Five new oil wells, brought in during the past week in Kern county, added 1080 barrels daily to the output of this area.

The Bishop Oil Corporation brought in Pano No. 18 on Sec. 23, 28-27, of the Kern Front area with a yield of 110 barrels daily. The well was drilled to 2020 feet.

On the Maricopa Flat the Barnsdall Oil Company's Hazelton No. 8 on Sec. 17, 11-23, continues to flow 700 barrels daily of 17.8 deg. gravity oil. Bottom of the hole is at 3152 feet with the ten and three-quarter-inch at 3040 feet. This well is the third Barnsdall producer in the district.

The General Petroleum Corporation has completed its Heisen well on Sec. 27, 28-26, in the Poso Creek field for 175 barrels daily from a depth of 1560 feet. The oil is 15.6 deg. gravity with a cut of about 8 per cent.

The Ozena Oil Company, after several months of drilling, has completed its Kendon No. 2 well on Sec. 27, 29-21, in the McKittrick field. The well is doing about thirty barrels daily with the bottom of the hole at 2735 feet. The project is in wildcat territory and proves up a small area for shallow drilling.

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company, under an eight-hour test, produced at the rate of 150 barrels a day from its Fee No. 23 well on Sec. 23, 28-27, of the Kern Front field. Depth of the well is 2064 feet.

Head of Orinda Oil Visits City to Buy Casing

O. O. Green, president of Orinda Petroleum Company, Ltd., which is drilling a test on the Glorietta anticline across the San Pablo highway from the Orinda Country Club near Oakland, is a business visitor in Los Angeles for the purpose of purchasing a supply of thirteen-inch well casing.

Gas emanations from the well were so strong at 853 feet depth, at the completion of reaming operations, that drilling ahead was abruptly stopped pending setting of casing and cementing off. Mr. Green reports that gas pressure was so strong when the bit was pulled, that 500 feet of mud was forcibly ejected from the drill pipe and shot high into the derrick.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample 4 oz. ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Vitrophyre

CEDAR CITY (Utah) April 16.—Question: Inclosed find sample of rock. I would like to know if it contains any silver or iron. I have had lots of men look at it; they seem to think there is lots of iron in it and that it carries another mineral, but they do not know what that other mineral is. One engineer thinks it is of value in hardening steel, and, perhaps, a smelter will be erected. I do not think there is any silver in the sample. X.

Answer: Your sample is the rock vitrophyre, known also as porphyritic obsidian, (volcanic glass) and it shows phenocrysts of felspar in a black glassy groundmass. It contains quite a percentage of alkaline silicates, (soda, approximately 3 per cent, and potash slightly over 5 per cent.) Probably the greater percentage of the rock is of silica, at least 70 per cent, and there is not over 3 per cent iron in the sample.

Valuable Minerals

WEST HOLLYWOOD, April 16.—Q.: I am very sorry that the samples which you referred to were too small. I cannot supply more of samples Nos. 3, 4, 6 and 7; I am sending you more of Nos. 1, 2, 5, 8 and 9. No. 9 is closely associated with No. 8. X.

A.: Sample No. 1 is a valuable ore of copper known as bornite. The pinkish specimen is probably albite (soda feldspar) stained with manganese. No. 5 is a valuable arsenical ore known as realgar, (arsenic sulphide.) No. 8 is a grayish-green granular tourmaline with lepidolite, and No. 9 is high-grade ore of native bismuth mixed with bismutite, (bismuth carbonate.)

Five Samples

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—Q.: Find inclosed samples taken from three different ledges, in the Sierra Madre Mountains. Would be greatly pleased to have analyses made for anything of value. Column—In the Earth is very much enjoyed. R.

A.: Thank you! No. 1 specimen carries no uranium. It reacts for copper, iron and zinc. No. 2 is hornblende. No. 3, tetrahedrite, (low-grade fahlers variety) and not the gray copper ore of the mining boys in the hills. No. 4 is rock carrying some baryte with iron-manganese silicate; pyrite traces, and slight reaction for zinc. No. 5 is flesh-red feldspar, with more or less vermiculite mica.

Quartz Present

OATMAN (Ariz.) April 17.—Q.: Will you please identify inclosed mineral sample and tell me if it represents any commercial value? W.

A.: It contains black oxide of manganese, and represents but little commercial value unless concentrated.

Beryl Absent

CASPER (Wyo.) April 18.—Q.: Will be grateful to you if you will test the contents of boxed samples for beryl presence, (beryllium.) As the specimens number from 1 to 12, of course, I realize the imposition; however, if you will give your results of analyses, and inclose bill will mail check by return mail. The samples come from Laramie Mountain or "Peak." X.

A.: The writer has never received one penny for anything reported in this column, and the limit of samples at one time is five. The specimens were carefully tested and the results follow: No. 1 is quartz. No. 2 is milky quartz. No. 3 is ferruginous quartz, (two samples) carrying copper silicate. No. 4 reacts as quartz. No. 5, milky quartz. No. 6 is sericite, (microscopic potash mica) coated on quartz. No. 7 is quartz stained with copper mineral. No. 8 is yellowish citrine quartz. No. 9 is a friable, brownish-white mass of diatomaceous earth. No. 10 is quartz, stained brown with iron oxides. No. 11 is green-granular quartz containing muscovite mica, and probably of the aventurine variety, and No. 12 is quartzitic rock, very much on the order of No. 7. Bulletins of the United States Geological Survey give no localities in Wyoming where beryl occurs.

Beryllium Absent

ATOLIA, April 18.—Q.: The samples I am sending you I thought might carry beryllium, and they are from a locality near Atolia. M.

A.: The samples are oligoclase, (soda-lime feldspar) of high grade.

Five Samples

MONTROSE (Colo.) April 19.—Q.: It seems that the prospector needs the help of In the Earth continuously. I am sending you in separate container five samples which please test for commercial values. We have large deposits of all the specimens. K.

A.: No. 1 is hematite in jasper, and carries a little microscopic pyrite. No. 2 is biotite, (black mica of the mining boys in the hills.) No. 3 is fine-grained rock gypsum of commercial value for "plaster" and in the cement industry. No. 4 is not bentonite. It seems to be a siliceous and hydrous magnesium—aluminum silicate, and No. 5 is altered rock running high in silica, with hydrous iron-magnesium silicate. It may be that No. 1 will give returns for gold by fire assay.

Hornblende

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—Q.: Kindly analyze the piece of ore enclosed, found in Los Angeles county. Analyze for principal ingredients.

A.: The sample resembles "fake platinum ore." It contains microscopical pyrite as coating on one side, and probably represents no commercial values.

Massive Pyrite

SAN DIMAS, April 20.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of ore sent to me by my son in Northern Arizona. He thinks there might be a trace of silver in it (?) It was broken off of a ledge that looks like limestone under a sandstone ledge in Utah. F.

A.: The sample is approximately one-half of a boulder, and the named pyrite is of microscopical form distributed throughout the rock. It is possible that it could be used for sulphuric acid manufacture and by-products.

SHAFT STARTED ON GOLD GROUP

Cross Valley-Boreham Gets Development on Way

Hoist and Other Equipment Installed at Mine

Sharp Decrease in Pay Roll of District Noted

SACRAMENTO, May 3. (Exclusive)—The Cross Valley-Boreham Mining Company of Los Angeles has installed a hoist, compressor and other equipment on its gold property three miles east of Grass Valley, and started sinking of the new shaft to a depth of 600 feet. The plant is electrically driven. Ore has been opened on the upper levels, and the management is hopeful of blocking out a large tonnage with greater depth. A ten-stamp mill is on the ground.

Approximately 800 men are employed in the mines of Grass Valley, compared with nearly 1000 a few years ago, according to figures of mine operators. Consolidation of the Idaho and North Star properties put many miners out of jobs, and the general slowdown on mining has been in effect for several years.

Improvements for vigorous work on the Gold Leaf group of quartz claims near Redding, have been practically completed by D. F. Ryan, W. A. Standish and other Los Angeles capitalists, according to mining owners of the property. They recently took a purchase option on the property. They will install a fifty-ton mill before summer ends.

The Dolcoath Mining Company is planning to work its gold property near Taylorsville in Plumas county, on three shifts. Equipment has been installed, strong ledges opened and electric power transmitted to the mine. Recent work is said to have been particularly satisfactory. After several years of idleness the famous Bernard Hill gold mine, in the Klamath River field of Siskiyou county, is again turning out gold bullion. The property was lately released from several years of litigation, is now running steadily, and high values recovered from the milling product. The mine has regained among the premier gold producers of Siskiyou.

Buyers' Guide Aids Producers

SACRAMENTO, May 4. (AP)—Completion of a directory containing names and addresses of 1100 commercial and industrial organizations of California was announced today by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The directory, first of its kind to be compiled in the state, was produced to assist California producers to find markets and to serve as a buyers' guide.

Local Chapter of New Mining Society Planned

Meeting at the Engineers' Club in this city a few days ago representative mining men of Southern California were addressed by R. L. Kimmell of Sacramento, who presented the proposal that a local chapter of the new Mining Association of California be organized in Los Angeles.

An organization meeting is to be held here about the middle of May, at which a membership drive will be launched, according to reports. Those present at the recent meeting were Edwin Higgins, B. M. Snyder, R. L. Kimmel, W. B. Tucker, Walter Gordon Clark, Robert Henley, M. J. Holmes, Julian Boyd, A. E. Place, Louis Ball and F. B. Church.

F. B. Church was chosen as chairman of the organization committee and Mr. B. M. Snyder as secretary. At the organization meeting it is expected that all those who are interested in the mining industry will be present. Notice of the exact date will be sent out in the course of a few days.

Work Resumed on Jacalitos Hills Project

TAFT, May 4. (Exclusive)—John Knudsen has resumed drilling in his old suspended project in the Jacalitos Hills district. Drilling began again at 1620 feet, where Knudsen left off several weeks ago. The gray shale formation predominates at bottom. The well is located on Sec. 14, 21-14.

In the same region, on Sec. 28, 21-14, the Currency Petroleum Company is idling in its No. 1 project, in which it recently attempted a production test. The hole has been swabbed dry. Total depth of the project is 3610 feet. The six and one-quarter-inch casing was set at 2802 feet.

CATES TO TREAT LOW-GRADE ORE

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) May 4. (Exclusive)—That the low-grade ores of the Phelps Dodge Corporation are to be given much larger importance is declared in connection with the election of Louis S. Cates as president. Mr. Cates for many years has been a specialist on such ores, with large success in handling the low-grade Hay and Utah mines.

His first attention is expected to be given the corporation's Morenci branch, where a four-year development and construction program has been outlined, with expectation that about 25,000 tons of ore then will be handled in new works near Morenci, with an annual output of 165,000,000 pounds of copper. Even at this rate of depletion, the Morenci ore bodies are reported ample for twenty-five years' operation, with about 250,000,000 tons of ore already blocked out.

Two experimental plants now are under construction. There also is understanding that much low-grade milling ore remains for extraction in the Copper Queen properties at Bisbee. Work temporarily has been discontinued in the Warren shaft, near Bisbee, owing to a heavy flow of water, the men transferred to other sections of the mine.

Nearly 2000 men are employed in the Pilares (Son.) mines of the Moctezuma Copper Company, a Phelps Dodge subsidiary, which ships concentrates here from a large mill at Nacozari. It is stated that new ore in quantity has been developed in the south end of the Pilares property on the twentieth level and above.

LARGEST PUMP IN WORLD

OTTENDORF (Germany) May 4. (AP)—A pump so big it controls floods drains the marshland between the Elbe and Weser rivers here. Recently it reduced the water level on the submerged countryside by a whole foot in ten minutes. The pump is centrifugal, spouting a stream that fills a pipe nearly twenty feet in diameter. It is said to be the biggest pump in the world.

Heavy Showing of Gas Noted in Belridge Well

BELRIDGE, May 4. (Exclusive) The Rio Grande Oil Company is encountering heavy gas indications in redrilling the old Keystone Oil Company well now known as Garcia No. 1 on Sec. 18, 28-22, in the Belridge field.

Keystone stopped coring at 3681 feet and Rio Grande went back to 3050 feet to start redrilling.

The area is believed to be an extension of the Buttonwillow gas field, but Rio Grande hopes to strike an oil sand.

The Shell Oil Company has found oil at shallow depth in its Victoria No. 1 well on Sec. 24, 28-20 in the Belridge field. The hole has been washed out to 625 feet, bottom being at 725 feet. Production will run about twenty-five barrels a day, it is said. The well is in the vicinity of the new Belridge Oil Company gasser.

Imperial Gold Will Use Steam Shovel at Mine

Steam shovels will be used to mine the big gold ore deposit in the Imperial property, near Battle Mountain, Nev., according to announcement made this week at the San Francisco headquarters of the Imperial Gold Mines Corporation.

The company made this decision on recommendation of mining engineers, who spent much time on the ground last month, making a survey of physical conditions and a careful study of mining and milling costs which they think will not be more than $1.50 a ton when the property is brought into quantity production, considering the available water supply and the surface contour which permits transportation of ore from mine to mill by gravity tramway.

MORE CHANNELS FOR SEA RADIO

Order Reduces Separation Between Frequencies

Commission's Action Paves Way for Allocations

KHJ Will Broadcast All of Happy Go Lucky Hour

The Times Forum, KHJ, at 1:30 p.m. World-wide news at 12:30, 4:45 and 10 p.m. President Hoover at 7:20 a.m. over KHJ and KECA in address to American Red Cross.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Increased transoceanic facilities are provided for by the Federal Radio Commission in orders which will reduce the separation between frequencies, thereby permitting the doubling of the number of channels.

Improvement in transmitting equipment has made it possible for stations to operate within narrower limits, allowing for the insertion of additional stations without interference. The new regulations will not affect the width of the channel given to stations, which varies with the frequency, ranging from four kilocycles on frequencies between 1500 and 2200 kilocycles, to sixty kilocycles on frequencies between 21,960 and 22,780 kilocycles.

NEW SET-UPS PLANNED

The action of the commission is intended to pave the way for a new set-up of allocations in these bands next year, in conformity with the recommendations of the International Radio Consultative Committee, before which the commission's engineers will work out a new form of allocation.

The international committee recommended the splitting of the separation between channels, but need for a revision of the allocations for transoceanic communication has been felt for some time. The doubling of the number of channels, which is expected to result, will make it possible to provide better facilities for the handling of the world's international communications.

TODAY'S DIAL HIGHLIGHTS

KHJ brings good news to listeners-in with the announcement that it will broadcast KFRC's daily Happy Go Lucky Hour in its entirety—that is, from 2 to 3 p.m. Heretofore they have only broadcast the first half-hour. At 4 p.m. this afternoon the Viennese Quintet in forty minutes of excellent chamber music is followed by two concerts, the first at 6 p.m., when the Don Lee Concert Orchestra features the works of Mendelssohn, Chaminade, McDowell and others; while 7 p.m. brings a half-hour of orchestral and solo compositions, including "On Wings of Song," Mendelssohn, "Po Ling and Ming Toy," Primi, and two numbers from Grofe's "Mississippi Suite." Blue Monday's Jamboree at 8 o'clock tonight brings the Jamboreesdors in a two-hour visit replete with jolly songs and patter. At 10:05 p.m., Ted Fiorito's orchestra from the Mark Hopkins Hotel, San Francisco, with Dusty Rhoades as guest soloist. KFI at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon brings T. Lee, Jr., general manager of the Boeing School of Aeronautics, in a talk to students on "Aviation As a Life Work." At 6 o'clock tonight classical airs touched with dance rhythm of varied times abound on a program by the Rochester Civic Orchestra. Dvorak's "Slavonic Dances" will open the program, while the "Japanese Dance Suite" by Hoist will strike a more quaint and dainty note. At 6:30 tonight The Empire Builders bring to listeners the full color of the historical pageant staged at Lake Minnetonka in Minnesota. The pageant will be the high spot of a drama to be presented.

KECA at 6:30 tonight brings a ballroom orchestra and Two Shades of Blue. For those who like good dance music and blues singing, it should be worth your dial. Piano Capers at 8 p.m. and Harp Harmony at 8:30 are national network programs worthy of a dialing. In celebration of "Boys' Week" KNX at 7 p.m. features a group of students from the Hollywood High School in instrumental compositions.

KMTR at 7:35 p.m. offers Rosa Low, lyric soprano of operatic fame, in a recital of operatic and concert numbers.

A unique radio feature is to be inaugurated today over KGFJ when at 12 noon daily, except Sunday, a Japanese program of music and song will be heard. Oriental singers, instruments and compositions will be featured and the only language employed will be Japanese.

Texas-Pacific Plans Well on Right of Way

AUSTIN (Tex.) May 4. (Exclusive)—Application has been made to the Railroad Commission by Gholson & Company, contractors for the Texas and Pacific Railroad, for a permit to drill oil wells on the road's right of way, which traverses the new oil field in Ector county for one mile.

The application asks that the Railroad Commission make an exception in this case to the rule which prohibits the drilling of an oil well within 150 feet of a boundary line. It is the purpose of the Texas and Pacific to produce its own fuel oil if drilling is allowed. The cost of the supply of fuel oil for its locomotives last year was $3,700,000, the application stated.

"TIMES" THEATER GUIDE

MOTION PICTURES

Boulevard, Washington at Vermont—"The Big Party," with Lupe Velez on a five and ten-cent scale with songs by Dixie Lee.

Carthay Circle, Carthay Center—"All Quiet on the Western Front," musical accompaniment and sound effects. This is one which should not be missed.

Chinese, 6925 Hollywood—"Song of My Heart," John McCormack and his Irish tenor cast their magic spell around this gentle, sentimental tale.

Criterion, 642 South Grand—"King of Jazz," Paul Whiteman and his orchestra provide a spectacle of color, glamour and constant entertainment.

Figueroa, Fig. at Santa Barbara—"South Men Are Dangerous," rather good story of slight value about how to win back one's wife with Warner Baxter.

Filmarte, 1238 Vine—"Daughter of Heaven." A film based on a Chinese legend and humorously made in China with a native cast except for Noah Beery and Fuller Marshall.

Forum, Pico at Norton—"The Other Tomorrow." Hilda Love settles into a lot of dramatics over wine and life or what-not.

Fitzman's Egyptian, 6708 Hollywood Blvd.—"Montana Moon." Joan Crawford tries to decide between riches and her plodding silent man which makes an up-to-date western.

Loew's State, Broadway at Seventh—"Caught Short." Marie Dressler and Polly Moran imbue in roaming-house humor with hilarious results.

Marco, Hill nr. 11th—"Journey's End." A superb translation from stage to screen of a somber and splendid play.

Million Dollar, Broadway at Third—"Vagabond King." A spectacle of color and music is made from the popular operetta, featuring Dennis King and Jeanette MacDonald.

Palace, Broadway bet. 8th and 7th—"Montmartre." A romance of Devil's Island, featuring the gallant Ronald Colman.

Paramount, Hill at Sixth—"The Texan." Gary Cooper in a hit in this western film of love's regeneration.

Rita, Wilshire at La Brea—"The Vagabond King."

R.K.O., Hill at Eighth—"Framed." The old gangster gets pulled all over again, but not too badly. With Evelyn Brent.

Tivoli, Bdwy. at 8th—"Hello Sister." The time crowd reforms and becomes rather tedious. Olive Borden and Lloyd Hughes.

Uptown, Western at Tenth—"The Vagabond King."

Warners' Downtown, Hill at 7th—"Stairway." A story of minstrel backgrounds, in which Al Jolson, for once, avoids the mournful note.

Warners' Hollywood, Hollywood Blvd. at Wilcox—"Man from Blankley's." Reviewed in today's Times.

Wiltshire, 638 Alvarado—"The Vagabond King."

STAGE

Belasco, Hill at 11th—"June Moon." A smart satirical comedy of a "hick" song writer who makes good, in his Lardner's best style.

Biltmore, Fifth and Grand—"Strictly Dishonorable." Reviewed in today's Times.

Egan, Fig. at Pico—"For Cryin' Out Loud." The family gathers in the living room again and that's about all there is about their joys and sorrows. With Lorraine Vale.

El Capitan, Hollyw'd Blvd. nr. Highland—"Love 'Em and Leave 'Em." An appealing combination of humor and drama in the life of the working girl. With Isabel Withers.

Majestic, Bdwy. nr. 9th—"The Student Prince." This favorite combination of a mythical kingdom set to music is given an elaborate revival. With Allan Prior.

Mason, Bdwy. nr. 1st.—"Rah Rah Days." Waring's Pennsylvanians entertain with their well-known music and the show is just fair. Dorothy Lee, Evelyn Knight and others are capable.

Music Box, 6126 Hollywood Blvd.—"The Imaginary Invalid." Moliere's comedy is given a simplified treatment which creates amusement for everyone.

President, Bdwy. at 9th.—"The Blue Ghost." Ghosts and spooks at midnight speak for themselves accordingly by a cast headed by Bernice Elliott.

OLD STRUCTURE IN PERFECT CONDITION

HANFORD, May 4. (AP) — Kings county claims the oldest perfectly preserved building in the San Joaquin Valley. The "old adobe," as it is called, was erected in 1857 by Daniel Rhoads on his homestead three and one-half miles northwest of Lemoore on the Fresno-Coalinga highway. The property is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Buckner, the former a son of Kings county's first Sheriff.

GIANT METEOR BRINGS FRIGHT TO WIDE AREA

DANVILLE (Va.) May 4. (AP)—A giant meteor which blazed over Virginia and North Carolina last night at 9 o'clock caused fright among the residents of those States. A large ball of fire was seen passing through space, apparently close to the earth, which was bathed for several instants in a brilliant white light.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROF. R. GUERRERO

Encargado de la Sección Española de Este Diario

En el segundo párrafo de mi Plática anterior dice "chuleter" por "chuletera", y en el tercero, "parilla" por "parrilla".

En el séptimo párrafo del relato que vamos comentando, leemos que en cierto escaparate se anunciaban saldos de telas o géneros a precios ínfimos. Colegimos que eran ínfimos los precios, porque el escritor nos dice que denotaban franco estado demencial en el dueño del comercio. En este caso, la palabra "saldo" significa un resto de tal o cual clase de mercancías, que el fabricante o el comerciante venden a bajo precio para salir pronto de ellas. Esas ventas de saldos a precios reducidos obedecen a que los artículos de que se componen se han pasado de moda o de estación, o a que el surtido de ellos está ya incompleto o descabal; es decir, falto de algunos tamaños o algunos colores (the size line, the color line, is broken). Supongo lamen en inglés "remnants" a los saldos de que hablamos.

En contabilidad (accountancy), saldo (balance) es la diferencia entre las sumas totales del debe y del haber (debit and credit) de una cuenta. El saldo es deudor si la suma del debe es mayor que la del haber, y acreedor, en el caso contrario. Así decimos que "Fulano tiene un saldo deudor de $500 (debit balance) en los libros de tal o cual negociación"; y un banco comunica a alguno de sus clientes: "La cuenta de usted, cortada en esta fecha, arroja un saldo de $200 a su favor" (shows a balance of $200 in your favor).

Se da el nombre de "retales" (en América, "retafos") (odds and ends, scraps) a pequeñas fracciones sobrantes de piezas de géneros, encajes, listones, etc., que se venden a precios muy bajos para liquidar (dispose of) rápidamente esas cortas existencias. No es poco frecuente ver en las tiendas de géneros rótulos o avisos (signs) como el siguiente: "Gran Barato (en América, "Barata") de Retales de Sedas y Lanas Finas". Recordemos que "barato", empleado como substantivo, significa "bargain sale".

En el mismo párrafo séptimo hallamos esta expresión: "alarde de tacañería". "Alarde" significa en esta frase y sus análogas, "gala u ostentación que se hace, ya de vicios, ya de virtudes": "Pedro hace alarde de bondad"; "Juan hace alarde de cinismo". Puede emplearse el verbo "alardear", que es sinónimo de "hacer alarde": "Esta muchacha ha alardeado siempre de irresistible".

En el décimo párrafo de nuestro artículo, leemos: "¿Quién ha dicho que no haya voluptuosidad en el pago de una deuda? Será quien no las haya pagado nunca". Quizás se haya preguntado el estudiante por qué ha de emplearse en la última oración el subjuntivo "haya", y no el indicativo "ha". En mi sentir, es ésta una de aquellas oraciones en que es lícito emplear cualquiera de los dos modos, si bien el subjuntivo traduce con mayor precisión el carácter presuncional o hipotético de la frase citada. El señor Salvá nos dice en su Gramática que el presente de subjuntivo (futuro, como él le llama) sirve para los casos en que hay incertidumbre de parte del que habla, o cuando no se fijan el tiempo, lugar, etc., de la acción. Jovellanos, agrega adelante, empleó con oportunidad este tiempo en la Ley Agraria: "Ciertamente que se podrán citar algunas provincias en que la feracidad del suelo . . . o la laboriosidad de sus moradores HAYAN sostenido, etc." Aquí no determinó las provincias; pero si las hubiese señalado diciendo, "Ciertamente que se podrán citar las provincias de Valencia y Granada", habría tenido que recurrir al indicativo para conseguir la frase de esta manera: "han sostenido". En otra parte de sus obras leemos: "Mientras no tengamos una Academia de ciencias". El adverbio "mientras" significa un tiempo indefinido: pruébese a sustituirle "ahora" o "en el siglo último", y no podrá menos de variarse la frase diciendo, "Ahora que no tenemos", o, "En el siglo último cuando no teníamos". Fray Luis de Granada había así con el pecador: "Si quieres saber qué tantos SEAN los pecados que en tiempos pasados tienes hechos, discurre, etc."; y a buen seguro que no le hubiese apostrafado dando este otro giro a la frase: "Bien sabes cuántos SEAN los pecados", sino, "cuántos SON los pecados". En el primer caso se trata de averiguarlos; en el segundo, suponemos hecha la investigación. Con lo cual se explica por qué usamos de este futuro, sin que nos suene tan a propósito el presente de indicativo, en las locuciones: "No ha entrado hoy barco alguno, que yo sepa"; "La válvula, o como se llame . . .": "Donde haya prohibición, habrá monopolio". En tales ejemplos declaro que, si bien no tengo noticia de que haya entrado ningún barco, no poseo las necesarias para afirmar rotundamente que no ha llegado. Si hubiese yo hablado con el vigía, capitán del puerto, o quien tuviese que saberlo, diría sin vacilar por el indicativo: "Sé (en vez de "que yo sepa") que hoy no ha entrado barco ninguno". Manifiesto igualmente que no tengo certeza de que se llame válvula la parte del instrumento a que me refiero; y no determino la nación, reino o provincia donde existe la prohibición, contentándome con anunciar la máxima vaga de que en cualquiera punto donde pueda haberla, la acompañará el monopolio. Si no fuese tal mi designio, y quisiera hablar positiva o individualmente, diría: "La válvula", sin aditamento ninguno, o bien, "La válvula, pues de este modo se llama, etc."; "En Italia, porque hay prohibición, abundan los monopolistas".

SAVANT MAKES TADPOLE ALLY

UCLA Experimenter Finds Aid in Gland Study

Bakeys Frogs Assist Him in Important Research

Results to Be Given World in Lecture Today

Startling discoveries and new developments in the field of glandular science, made possible by a period of research covering sixteen years, will be announced today by Dr. Bennett Mills Allen, professor of zoology in the University of California at Los Angeles in the sixth annual faculty research lecture delivered at Royce Hall Auditorium.

Dr. Allen was recorded the honor of delivering the first research lecture on the new campus of the university. He will use the occasion to urge adequate laboratories and equipment for scientific investigation, not only in his particular field, but in other branches of science.

GLANDS AND GROWTH

In his lecture, entitled "Glands and Growth," Dr. Allen will deal with the thyroid gland and the pituitary gland, and with their effect upon growth and maturity in animals. It covers the principal results of his sixteen years of research.

The important new discoveries announced by Dr. Allen for the first time in numerous experiments performed on tadpoles he has successfully demonstrated that the thyroid gland is completely dependent upon the pituitary gland, and that the secretions from which it is rendered totally inactive. This makes Dr. Allen considered of extreme importance in the field of physiology.

IN PUBLIC EYE

The other discovery, which is of particular interest, concerns the effect of various substances in the pituitary gland upon the organ of sight. The transplantation of eyes of specimens caused a number of changes in the coloring of the tadpoles experimented upon, but this matter had no effect on the eyes but caused the sides of the tadpole body to contract, giving it a spindle type shape in place of its normal globular form. The removal of still another section from the pituitary gland and another of the two former sections tended to harden the body tissues and cause temporary stoppage of blood pressure.

Explaining his use of tadpoles on which to perform his experiments, Dr. Allen declares that they are "animals that are easily obtained in large quantities, are easily cared for and recover quickly from operations without danger from infection."

TRANSPLANTING DONE

Another announcement made at the meeting, which may have far-reaching effects upon the human race, is that of the discovery that the embryonic cells from which the pituitary gland develops can be transplanted to any part of the tadpole body, where it will grow and develop, forming its own connection with the blood stream. While this has never been tried in connection with the human gland it is believed that in cases of enlarged thyroid glands the excessive cells might be transplanted to another part of the anatomy, where it would grow and flourish.

"I hope in my lecture to show," Dr. Allen said, "the vastness of this field and the amount of work that must yet be accomplished to obtain a reasonable full knowledge of these interesting and important glands. Endocrinology is a science of tremendous importance in medicine in which much has been done, but it is one in which there is much to learn. We hope that by the study of tadpoles we may do its part in solving some of the complicated riddles of the functions and the manifold interaction of the glands."

WOMAN TO GET OPERA AUDITION

Mrs. Manning Honored by Call for Own Work from Metropolitan Company

For the first time in its history, so far as is known, the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York has sought an American woman composer for a hearing of her own opera. And that woman is a native daughter of California.

She is Mrs. Kathleen Lockhart Manning, 2811 Westshire Drive, and wife of E. E. Manning of the Southern California Telephone Company. Mrs. Manning left for New York on April 26 upon the request of the opera company for an audition of a recently completed opera, "Mr. Wu," based upon the story of that name by Louise Jordan Milne.

Mrs. Manning is a daughter of the late Otis Lockhart, a pioneer resident of Southern California. As a young girl she was a singer. She studied abroad and before she was 21 years of age made her debut in Covent Garden, London, where she met with signal success. At that time, it is said, she knew perfectly the roles of twenty-two operas.

Later she returned to her home in this city, and after her marriage to Mr. Manning she gave up all thought of an operatic career for one of music composition. In this field she has been eminently successful, more than sixty of her songs having been published by the Schirmer Publishing Company, not to mention a number published by other concerns. She writes both the words and music for her songs.

In addition to the opera hearing in New York, Mrs. Manning also has been invited to give an international broadcast of some of her own songs, another opera company is interested in an audition of a lighter opera than "Mr. Wu," which she has written and she took with her a number of new songs which her publishers are waiting to hear. She will remain in the East until about the 21st inst.

Alien Smuggling Case Up Today for Trial Dates

Caught in a net spread by immigration inspectors, George E. Flaherty, John Frank Smith and Eddie Collins are scheduled to appear today before United States District Judge Cosgrave to have their cases set for trial.

The three are accused of violating the immigration laws by landing nine alien Chinese or American soil, after an auto trip from Lower California. The Chinese are being held for deportation. An airplane owned by Flaherty was said to be waiting at a point in Imperial Valley.

Kansans will hold their monthly social reunion Thursday evening in Veterans' Hall, 246 South Hill street. The program will be followed by dancing.

SKIES DRIP RAIN, SNOW AND HAIL

Mountain Tops White and Streams Run Full

May Total in City Already Greatest Since 1921

More Showers Due Today; Tomorrow to Be Fair

With its mountains covered with snow, and streams running full Los Angeles experienced the heaviest May rain over the week-end since 1921, according to figures of the United States Weather Bureau. In the past twenty-four hours .18 of an inch of rain fell in Los Angeles, several times to the accompanying rattle of hail, bringing the amount for the storm up to 1.06 inches. Showers are predicted for today, followed by clearing weather with fair skies tomorrow.

Heavy snows are reported by the County Flood Control officials in the mountains. At Big Pines .50 of an inch of rain fell during the day and seven inches of snow. At nightfall it was snowing heavily. Mt. Wilson is covered with snow half-way down the mountainside and telephone lines are out of commission.

Snow will continue to drape the higher reaches, according to the weather experts, but tomorrow in Los Angeles temperatures will rise. The highest temperature here yesterday was 58 deg. and the lowest was 48 deg. There were three hours and fifty-eight minutes of sunshine recorded, despite the showers.

STRONG WIND TO SOUTH

A strong wind was blowing at points on the coast to the south. At aDna Point a heavy gale was throwing immense seas on the rocks. Rain figures there were .15 of an inch for the past twenty-four hours, bringing the storm total to 1.50 inches.

During the afternoon it hailed several times at Pasadena, Eagle Rock and Glendale. In this region thunder and lightning added to the storm.

A low-pressure area hanging over Nevada is the source of the disturbance, according to Weather Bureau officials. This has drenched the Antelope Valley and the Bakersfield region. The rainfall at Bakersfield yesterday was reported as .41 of an inch, bringing the total up to 4.86 inches for the season as against 4.44 last year.

Normal May rainfall in Los Angeles for the past fifty years is .45 of an inch, the records show. Los Angeles already has received more than twice that amount in the week-end storm. This brings the total for the season to 11.42 inches as against 12.51 last year and 14.80 normal. In 1921, 3.57 inches of rain was registered in May at the Los Angeles Weather Bureau.

SAN DIMAS TOTAL HIGH

San Dimas, too, reports the heaviest rain since 1921 with 1.17 inches for the past twenty-four hours and 3.63 for the storm. The total for the year is now 15.58 inches as against 15.09 for last year.

Heavy snows fell at Opid's Camp yesterday besides a heavy rain, county flood control officers reported. It was snowing heavily last night and 1.71 inches of rain had fallen during the day. At Oak Wild .48 of an inch of rain had fallen and at Santa Anita Dam .88 of an inch had been registered.

No rain was reported from Owens Valley but the skies were threatening.

At Sequoia Park the storm registered .65 of an inch last night with 28.61 inches registered for the season. There is thirteen inches of snow on the ground, according to John R. White, park superintendent. At Ash Mountain the downpour was but .22 of an inch.

MANY TOWNS AHEAD

Many towns are ahead of last year's total rainfall. At Redlands the rain was particularly heavy yesterday, 1.05 inches being recorded with 2.57 inches for the storm. Last year the rainfall measured 10.85 inches at this time and this year Redlands reports a downpour of 15.58 inches.

At Glendora 1.15 inches was recorded for the twenty-four-hour period making 3.95 inches for the storm.

With from five to seven inches of snow all along the crests of the San Bernardino Mountains and the roads all open, thousands of visitors passed the day in the snow.

From Santa Barbara a trace of rain was reported. The downpour

WINDJAMMER SAILS SEA OF TROUBLE

Taxicab Driver as Mate Proves Fatal Mistake

A WEIRD tale of shipwreck, mutiny and days of helpless drifting, ludicrous but for the loss of two men, was told at the port yesterday by the crew of the ancient two-masted schooner Alice, back home after a fifty-day voyage from Turtle Bay, only 450 miles distant.

Capt. S. P. Moon reported the loss of his chief mate, J. C. Winkler, and J. D. Feder, a seaman; the two men having deserted the ship in a skiff on April 29 off Rocky Point, when the Alice—her hull battered, food and water short and her rails a mere bundle of rags—drifted within sight of the coast. No trace of the two deserters has since been reported and Capt. Moon believes it would have been impossible for them to land through the rocky surf.

Surviving members of the crew were unanimous, however, in blaming the schooner's misfortunes on the missing mate, who had been signed on as navigator before the Alice departed San Pedro on March 2. Winkler admitted during the height of their troubles, the crew declares, that he had been a taxicab driver and yesterday Coast Guard officials confiscated a taxi driver's permit and badge among his effects. Briefly, the troubles of the 56-year-old windjammer were these:

Departing San Pedro for Turtle Bay on March 2, she made that port safely and was discharging a cargo of oil drums on March 15 when a southerly gale arose, which drove her ashore after both anchor cables had carried away. She was refloated after a Japanese fisherman had rammed a hole in her starboard quarter and the anchors recovered. The Alice then sailed to Miller's Landing to load a cargo of onyx for San Pedro and was in that roadstead when a northwester blew in and parted her starboard anchor chain. She put to sea for safety and then experienced her real troubles.

Capt. Moon says Winkler, as navigator, circled Cedros Island six times in trying to find his way to San Pedro. He was removed from duty on April 15 after openly attempting to incite mutiny among the crew and, Capt. Moon declares, secretly jettisoned a major portion of the fresh water and food supply. Rudolph Thurston, the cook, was then suffering from severe burns received when a gasoline explosion set fire to the galley, food and water supplies were low and weeks of rolling becalmed had ruined sails and rigging, but Capt. Moon attempted to stand offshore to catch a fair wind. Just a fortnight later, though, the Alice drifted within sight of the rocky surf off Rocky Point when Winkler appealed to the crew to desert and attempt to get ashore in the skiff. All except young Feder refused to leave.

A half-hour after the two deserters had disappeared shoreward into the fog a fair wind arose and took her northward. She was sighted a few miles off San Pedro Saturday afternoon by the Marine Exchange lookout and a Coast Guard cutter sent to tow her in. Despite the fact that either the Alice or her running lights were in sight of the lookout all night, she was not located by the cutter until 7 a.m. yesterday morning, then being towed to anchorage.

In addition to the missing deserters, the crew of the 115-foot windjammer included Capt. S. P. Moon, owner; Carl Erickson and Albert Gilbert, seamen, and Rudolph Thurston, cook.

SHULER CASE DECISION DUE

Finale in Contempt Action Scheduled for Today; Court Considering Charges Since Friday

Rev. R. P. Shuler, Trinity Methodist Church pastor, will know at 2 p.m. today whether he may proceed to a Methodist Church conference at Dallas, Tex., as he wishes to do, or is to be locked up in the County Jail for contempt of court as a result of his remarks about certain Superior Court judges and their acts on the bench.

At that hour Superior Judge Tappaan is scheduled to announce the fate of Shuler, after sitting all day Friday in a crowded courtroom hearing the case.

Attorneys A. W. Ashburn and Alexander MacDonald, representing the Los Angeles Bar Association, urged that the minister be punished on all seven counts in the association's affidavits, wherein he is asserted to be in contempt of court for his criticisms over his radio of Superior Judges McComb and Wood.

Judge Tappaan not only heard the bar association attorneys' request that Shuler be punished to the limit, five days in jail and a $500 fine on each of the seven counts, but also heard the minister's defense that he did not mean to be undignified in his remarks concerning the judges and the court and that he did not intend to influence judges, or prospective jurors in court cases. The judge also heard the minister contend that he could not see that he had done anything wrong and that he considered what he said in his radio talks to be for the good of justice.

As Shuler elected to act for himself, his counsel, Attorney Thomas A. Bunn having withdrawn from the case, it is probable that he again will appear in his own behalf today. Judge Tappaan has had his case under submission since Friday night.

SETBACK LINES APPROVED

Resolutions of intention for the establishment of setback lines in Sixth avenue from Jefferson Boulevard to the Southern Pacific right of way and in Kingsley Drive from Eighth and San Marino streets have been adopted by the City Council and set for hearing the 27th inst.

LEVY MAP APPROVED

The assessment district map for the improvement of Eastern avenue from Huntington Drive South to Valley Boulevard has been approved by the City Council on recommendation of the Public Works Committee.

BUDGET PRUNED TO FIT INCOME

Officials Strive to Keep Expenses Down

City's Finances Estimated as $660,000 Shy

Department Requests Total $5,000,000 Too Much

Fulfilling the warning of Mayor Porter and Budget Director Knox that rigid economy must be practiced in the city government, City Controller Myers's estimate of receipts for the forthcoming fiscal year anticipates only $35,000,000, or $660,000 less than the estimate last year for the present fiscal year.

In addition to the drop in income, Knox contends, the city at the end of this fiscal year will show a deficit of $638,000, which must be taken from the reserve fund. At the end of the fiscal year 1928-1929, balances returnable to the reserve, which has been built up over the past decade, amounted to $650,000. A year ago it was estimated that the reserve on June 30, 1930, would amount to $3,012,017, but the deficit will deplete this.

LOWER ALL AROUND

The estimates of Controller Myers, comparing this year and next year, show a loss in almost every item. For the coming year he estimates tax money as $19,700,000, as against $20,000,000 during the present year; $500,000 from Municipal Court fines, as against $1,000,000; $3,400,000 from fees, charges and sales, as compared to $3,500,000 this year; franchises, $550,000, as compared to $600,000 this year; $100,000 from rents, as compared to $60,000 this year, and $750,000 from interest, as compared to $500,000 this year.

It is possible, according to Knox, that tax income will surmount the estimates.

FIVE MILLION HIGH

Departmental requests, filed with Mayor Porter, amount to $30,388,205. The Mayor, Knox and D. O. Hoye, chief accountant for Myers, have been pruning away for the past two weeks, and expect to finish this work by the end of the week. Already they have chopped off $2,576,284, requiring additional cuts amounting to $2,781,921.

The Police Department requested $7,054,190. This was cut by $147,782, which makes the department's coming budget allowance $93,749 less than it receives this year.

GOAL WON IN CHURCH CAMPAIGN

First Congregational Goes "Over Top" in Drive for Building Fund

With $78,000 pledged during a rally at the morning services, the First Congregational Church yesterday went "over the top" in its drive for a building fund of $400,000 for a new church and educational building. The fund is now $402,000, members of the congregation having subscribed $324,000 at the outset of the campaign, April 27, last.

The new structures are to be erected at Sixth street and Commonwealth avenue, on ground donated by Mrs. Clara Shatto. Including furnishings, they will involve an outlay of $750,000. The balance required in addition to the sum already subscribed is expected to be realized from sale of the property now occupied, according to Dr. Carl S. Patton, pastor.

Plans for the new edifice and its adjoining building are being drawn by Allison & Allison, architects. The Richards-Neustadt Construction Company will have charge of construction.

IMPROVEMENTS VOTED

The final ordinances for the improvement of streets in the Joy-street and Marmion Way district and for the improvement of Two Hundred and Fifty-seventh street from Belle Porte avenue to Governor avenue have been adopted by the City Council.

WATER BONDS ENLIST RADIO

Mayor Porter and Other Leaders to Go on Air in Pleas for Passage of Needed Issue

With Mayor Porter scheduled to fire the opening gun in a series of radio talks on the vital necessity of the $38,800,000 water-bond issue and a constantly growing volume of water-bond indorsements from taxpayers and improvement organizations pouring in on the Citizens' Water Bond Committee at its headquarters at the Alexandria the campaign for the bonds is scheduled to strike its full stride today.

In a brief address to be delivered over radio KNX at 7:30 p.m. today Mayor Porter, it is expected, will strike the keynote emphasizing the serious water situation confronting Los Angeles and the imperative necessity of the water bonds.

Joseph Scott, as head of the Citizens' Water Bond Committee, actively carrying forward the campaign in behalf of the water issue, is scheduled to speak from station KMTR at 9 tonight.

Home owners' and taxpayers' associations, originally organized to protect property owners against excessive assessments or taxes, are alive to the realization that every dollar they have invested in their property and business rests for its security upon the success of the water bonds, it is pointed out by Scott.

He drew attention to the particular section of the new city charter which provides that all interest and annual principal repayments on water bonds must be paid by the City Water Bureau from water sales revenues and not from taxes.

Among civic organizations which have indorsed the bonds are Central Vermont District Chamber of Commerce, Mar Vista-Los Angeles Civic Club, Reynier Park Improvement Association, West Los Angeles Improvement Association, National Boulevard Association, Venice-Los Angeles Transportation Committee, Barnes City Improvement Association, Washington Boulevard Merchants' Association, Midway Park Improvement Association.

SCORES INJURED IN TRAFFIC

Fifty-five Hurt, Seven Possibly Fatally, Due to Wet Pavements and Poor Visibility

Wet pavements and poor visibility are blamed by police for a series of automobile accidents that sent fifty-five injured persons to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital between 4 and 10 p.m. yesterday and brought possibly fatal injuries to four women and three men.

Miss Sarah McKinna, a Gardena high-school teacher, is reported in a dying condition in the Hermosa-Redondo Hospital as the result of a crash on the Redondo-Riverside Boulevard near the Culler crossing. She has a crushed chest and fractured skull. Eyewitnesses told police she lost control of her car when the brakes failed to respond on a down-grade. The car sideswiped another machine driven by R. Halley of Los Angeles. Halley suffered a broken leg. His wife, who was riding with him, escaped unhurt.

Pinned under the wreckage of an automobile when it turned over following a collision with another machine, Mrs. Effie Lee, 50 years of age, of 1744 Webster street, suffered possible internal injuries, fractures of several ribs and concussion of the brain. Her condition was considered critical at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

The accident occurred at Rampart and Beverly boulevards. Mrs. Lee was in a car driven by Edward Larson, 42, of 812 Palm avenue, Long Beach. Larson was cut and bruised. Larson's car, according to police, was struck amidships by an automobile driven by J. C. Kelly of 2709 West Pico street. Kelly and Mrs. Marie Neal of the same address, who was riding with him, were not hurt, according to the police report.

In a collision between two automobiles on Roosevelt highway near Topanga Canyon Road, Guy Bagley of 1410 East Main street, Ventura, and Mrs. Mary Proper of 221 South Avenue 54, were seriously injured. Both were taken to the Santa Monica Hospital.

Bagley, according to a report at the Sheriff's office, drove one of the cars, accompanied by Miss Jessie Cook of 603 G street, Oxnard. Miss

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

CIUDAD HIDALGO is a lonely little town in the mountains of Mexico. It lies in a valley surrounded by mountains dense with forests of pine trees.

The visit of the scout party of the Automobile Club of Southern California was a great day in the life of Ciudad Hidalgo.

CONFETTI

The old adobe-framed streets were lined with school children who had been waiting for hours, stiff in their best clothes. They carried little baskets of confetti. They ran up to us but stopped, petrified with fright. An old lady pressed forward and said: "Con permiso, senor." Then they began hurling confetti until our ears were thick with it.

POR MEXICO

Six very lovely senoritas came out from the porch of an old sixteenth-century hotel and they, too, had baskets of confetti.

As they showered us, we did not know what to do. The social situation was entirely beyond us until our navy captain bent over and kissed the hand of the loveliest one, saying, "Por Mexico, senorita."

THE LITTLEST GIRL

A committee seized our leading car and marched us down to a little grove of trees where a long banquet table had been spread.

Two very small girls danced for us, dressed in peasant costumes, and we insisted that they be brought to the table and preside over the banquet. The littlest one was only 3 and she got sleepy and passed out against her father's shoulder. Her name is Teresa. The other one sat at the head of the table with the grace and assurance of an empress. She informed us that her name is Maria de la Luz Montoya.

THE BANQUET

We were offered country dishes, none of which I had ever eaten. One was young goat roasted on stone; there was a paste like the cornmeal of a tamale and this was called corunda. The piece de resistance of the feast was mole de guajolote, which is wild turkey with a rich chili sauce.

TIN PAN ALLEY

After the village band in sandals and blue overalls had played most excellently all the pieces we asked for, the village composer was introduced.

His name is Fernando Delgado. Like the others he was in overalls and barefoot sandals. He was handsome but very shy and did not look up from the ground as he sang the song he had composed.

It related to the first airplane that had flown over the village. He told what the people of all the different towns thought about it. The song was witty and satirical and very tuneful.

Fernando Delgado has real genius. He will live and die hoeing corn in Ciudad Hidalgo. The world will never hear of him; but he will be perhaps just as happy.

VIVA

When we got up to go, the President of the town, in his shirt sleeves, made a long and explosive speech in Spanish and vived for President Ortiz Rubio and President Hoover.

And as we went up the walk and out through the centuries-old stone gate, the two little spick and span sentries from the local garrison snapped to present arms

TEN ROBBERY SUSPECTS HELD

Three Believed Gangsters of San Francisco

Asserted Stolen Motor Car Also Recovered

Five Pistols Confiscated in Week-End Arrests

Ten men, three of them suspected San Francisco gangsters, were taken into custody on various theft charges, five pistols were confiscated, and one asserted stolen automobile was recovered in a series of week-end arrests.

William Harrison, 39 years of age, a tinner, one of a trio of suspects taken into custody in an asserted stolen automobile at 730 Wall street, has been identified, police state, as being wanted in San Francisco for robbery. The other two are Robert McDonald, 30, and Roy E. White, 24. White, police say, is an ex-convict. The car in which the trio was found is said to have been stolen from Louis Goldberg of 1735 Geary street, San Francisco. All are held in the City Jail on suspicion of robbery and grand theft. Harrison gave his local address as 715 West Sixth street.

SUSPICIONS AROUSED

Their explanations as to the possession of two large diamond rings, which they were said to have attempted to trade for an automobile, arousing the suspicions of police, Frank C. Calcagnini, 29, cafe proprietor, and Van N. Buehrer, showman, were held yesterday in connection with investigations of recent diamond robberies.

The pair were arrested in Glendale by Detective Lieutenant Blaze of the Glendale Police Department, who reported that the owner of an automobile for which they were dickering had become suspicious and reported them. Both deny implication in robberies.

While an effort is being made to identify the rings the detectives are making a thorough investigation of the suspects' recent activities. They are held in the City Jail on suspicion of robbery.

Calcagnini gave his home address as 1113 Wilshire Boulevard. Buehrer said he lives at 1413 West Ninth street.

After he is said to have arranged to hold up a gasoline service station in company with a police operative, John Ernest McManus, 27, a painter, was arrested near his lodging at 1402 West Pico street by Detective Lieutenants German and Sanborn. He had a .32 caliber pistol in his possession, the detectives said, and admitted planning the robbery.

THREE SEIZED IN AUTO

Three youths arrested in an automobile at Twenty-third street and Central avenue by Police Sergeant Adams answer descriptions of bandits who have been unusually active here recently, detectives say. They gave their names as James, 21, and Sam Cox, 19, of 4316 Lima street, and Tom Palmer, 23, of 131 South College avenue, Downey. Adams reported finding a revolver in the automobile. The youths denied implication in robberies.

On a tip that a bandit suspect was living in a room at 123 South Bunker Hill avenue, Detective Lieutenants Burris and Luquet raided the place and arrested Riley Myers, 28. In the room the detectives said they found one .45-caliber revolver, one .41-caliber Frontier model revolver, and one .25-caliber automatic pistol with the serial numbers filed off. The latter, they said, has been identified as stolen in a burglary.

SPANISH GALLEON MODEL EXHIBITED

Ship Built by Cortez in 1533 Is Reproduced Faithfully

Miss Irene Russell and Replica of La Concepcion

A MODEL of the cockleshell Spanish galleon which sailed on the trip resulting eventually in the discovery of California is on exhibition at Los Angeles Museum. The miniature replica is a galleon built in 1533 by Cortez, Conquistador of Mexico.

The Conquistador wished to explore and claim the Pacific Coast lying above Mexico before ships of rival nations rounded Cape Horn and sailed up. He ordered materials and tools freighted from Vera Cruz by bull carts to the shores of the Pacific. There the galleon, La Concepcion, was built. An eventful voyage, from which La Concepcion did not return, resulted in the discovery of Lower California and eventually of California.

Ferdinand Peretti of Los Angeles designed and built the model of the galleon now exhibited at the Los Angeles Museum. He used drawings and historical descriptions in the construction of the model.

CRASH VICTIMS MOSTLY WOMEN

Cook was cut and bruised. Mrs Proper was with her husband, J. H. Proper, and daughter Katherine, who were slightly hurt, it was stated.

Mrs. Irene H. Brown, 32, of 3858 Brunswick street, was probably fatally injured when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, R. F. Brown, ran over a fifteen-foot embankment near Los Feliz Boulevard and Riverside Drive. She was given emergency treatment at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital for internal injuries, two fractures of the left leg and fractured pelvis. Brown was not seriously hurt. He was given a sobriety test, but was found not intoxicated.

SEPTUAGENARIAN STRUCK

Thomas B. Stubbins, 76, 687 South Carondolet street, is thought dying at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by Arthur Rickertson of 1302 West Eighth street at Sixth and Rampart streets. Rickerston was held for questioning by police after he had declared the man a victim of a hit-and-run driver, but later admitting that his automobile had struck him.

Y. Meaguchi, 39, 1118 Cahuenga avenue, received a fractured skull when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Frank Karst of 8656 Cypress street at Jackson and Alameda streets. Physicians said Meaguchi's recovery is doubtful.

ASSESSMENT MAP APPROVED

The City Council has approved the assessment district map for the construction of a pedestrian tunnel under Wilshire Boulevard between Detroit street and Curson avenue.

M'CLELLAN'S FUNERAL SET

Supervisors' Offices Will be Closed Tomorrow During Rites for Veteran Chairman

Reuben P. McClellan, for fourteen years a Supervisor of Los Angeles county, a pioneer in the gold-rush days of Alaska and a colorful figure of the Pacific Coast, who died Saturday morning in the Santa Monica Hospital at the age of 71 years, will be buried tomorrow afternoon in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. The services will be conducted first at 2 o'clock in the Price-Daniel Mortuary, 11367 Santa Monica Boulevard, and an hour later there will be services at the grave.

Mr. McClellan had been in the hospital for sixteen weeks before his death. His confinement was caused by an attack of influenza and pneumonia. Death came when these ailments were superinduced by a heart attack at 6 a.m. Saturday.

Arrangements for the funeral include the closing of the offices of the County Supervisors and the suspension of business in many other county departments. Mr. McClellan had been chairman of the county board since 1910. He still had two years to serve of his fourth term.

LIVED IN MINNESOTA

Mr. McClellan, who was born in Mt. Kittarden, Me., and later lived in Minnesota, came to California in 1894. He established a residence in Sawtelle. He had married Miss Grace Loring, whom he met while attending Princeton University. They had one son, Neal Dow McClellan, who was killed while flying an airplane in 1925.

Four years after coming to California the gold rush of 1898 to Alaska started, and Mr. McClellan joined it. He collected a fortune in gold and then discovered the famous Great Bonanza copper mine at Kinnecott, asserted to have been the greatest copper mine discovery in history. Mr. McClellan's interests were later bought by the Guggenheim company.

With his fortune Mr. McClellan came back to his family in Sawtelle and in subsequent years established the State Bank of Sawtelle, the Bank of Palms, the Bank of West Gate and the State Bank of Santa Monica. In 1921 his wife, Mrs. Grace McClellan, died.

Two years later he married Miss Elma M. Brunty of Sawtelle. A year ago a son was born to them. He leaves the widow, the son, Reuben Frederick, Jr.; two brothers, Harry M. and Frank McClellan of Bellingham, Wash., and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Wheaton of Elk River, Minn.

BROTHERS TO RETURN

The two brothers drove from the home in Washington to Santa Monica three weeks ago when they were notified of Mr. McClellan's serious illness. They visited his bedside daily until they were given hope of his recovery. They departed for Bellingham Wednesday and had just arrived home when they were notified by a telegram of their brother's death. They made immediate preparations to return and are expected here this afternoon.

Although Mr. McClellan had been in a critical condition for weeks his death came as a shock to fellow-members of the county board. Expression of regret and personal tributes were paid by his fellow-members. Among the achievements of Mr. McClellan during his tenure of office was the acquirement of Big Pines Recreational Park by Los Angeles county, and legislation tending to gain the beaches for public use.

His love of the outdoors came from his early life in the woods of Minnesota. At that time he had joined a government surveying crew at the age of 17 years. At 19 he was a full-fledged surveyor and was appointed County Surveyor. Two years later he was appointed Minnesota State Surveyor.

ANIMAL LORE STUDIED

The lure of California touched him a few years later. Besides his business and political activities Mr. McClellan devoted much of his time studying animal lore. He hunted much and most of the game he procured he had prepared in natural groups which he presented to the local museums.

The most notable of these is the "buffalo group" at the Hall of Natural History in the Los Angeles Museum of History, Science and Art. He also had a valuable collection of Alaskan pictures and slides. He numbered among his intimates many world-famous authors and painters and up to a few days before his death he delighted in recounting many of his "sourdough" experiences with them.

Yesterday more than a score of telegrams of condolence were received at the family home from various parts of the country.

MASONIC FUNERAL

The services tomorrow will be under the direction of Rev. E. W. Mecum, retired, and Benjamin F. Bledsoe, who will conduct the Masonic ritual. The active pall bearers will be selected today from the membership of Masonic Lodge No. 373, of Sawtelle.

The list of honorary pallbearers prepared yesterday is as follows:

EXTORTION PLOT LAID TO BERMAN

Johnson-Lavine Defense Plans Announced

Will Accuse "Bright Boy" of Hatching Conspiracy

Woman Expected to Take Witness Stand Today

Formation and culmination of a $75,000 extortion plot will be charged directly to Jacob Berman, also known as Jack Bennett, when the two defendants, Morris Lavine and Miss Leontine Johnson, take the witness stand in the trial of their case.

Berman, now serving a seven-year sentence at McNeil Island for violation of Federal postal laws, will be pictured as the arch plotter, who planned the blackmail scheme in an attempt to inulct money from Los Angeles brokers and others.

He will also be charged with making Miss Johnson an innocent victim of his scheme, and arranging the sequel of events that led to the arrest of Lavine with $75,000 in marked money in his possession.

Blunt announcement that Berman will be made the target of their defense, and will be charged with framing the entire affair after he had learned of the anticipated publication of a series of articles, was made yesterday by Attorneys Rush and Bierne, counsel for Miss Johnson.

ON STAND TODAY

The appearance of Miss Johnson on the witness stand in her own behalf and as the only witness in her defense is expected late today at the conclusion of the testimony to be offered for the prosecution by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Dennison and McKay.

When the case is resumed today at 10 a.m., three witness will be called to close the State's case. Jacob Friedlander, former Corporation Commissioner; Abe Morris, broker, and Kent Parrot, attorney and politican, are expected to relate circumstances of a series of meetings held after information had been given them of the expected publication of a series of articles in the Los Angeles Examiner, described as an expose of the inne; ramifications of the Julian Petroleum collapse on account of overissue stock sales.

Following the close of the prosecution, motions to dismiss the charges against both defendants are to be made by defense counsel on the grounds that no crime has been shown and insufficient evidence.

WILL RECITE VERSION

Should Superior Judge Schauer, before whom the case is being heard, deny the motion, Miss Johnson will then give her sworn version of a long string of incidents and conferences that culminated in her arrest, and that of Lavine, on charges of attempting to extort $75,000 from Charles Crawford Friedlander, Parrot, Morris and others under a threat of exposure of secrets detrimental to their reputations.

Miss Johnson, according to her attorney, will tell of her contract to supply information for the series of articles. The information to be based on her acquaintance with S. C. Lewis, former head of the Julian corporation, for whom she worked as confidential secretary.

She will also tell of the entrance of Berman into the negotiations, of conferences she had with him and also her discussions with Lavine as to the preparation of the articles.

Miss Johnson will deny that she had any of the telephone conversations with Crawford as have been testified to in the trial, but will give from the witness chair her belief that Bennett plotted the entire affair from beginning to end after he had learned of the intended publication of the articles and a book that she was writing.

WOMAN SOUGHT

"Our client has a strong conviction," said Attorney Beirne yesterday, "that Berman plotted the entire extortion scheme in a move to curry favor with the District Attorney."

In connection with the preparation for the defense of Miss Johnson it became known that the authorities are searching for a woman, said to have been very friendly with Berman, and who disappeared about the time the latter left on his secret trip to enter Federal prison.

There were indications that in her defense the former Lewis secretary will attempt to show that some woman impersonated her over the telephone in asserted conversations with Crawford.

These telephone talks, which were overheard by Chief Investigator Matthews of the District Attorney's office, form a link in the connections of Miss Johnson to the alleged extortion. Matthews testified that he recognized the voice as that of the accused woman. Attorneys Rush and Beirne state that their client contends she never held such telephone conversations. Veiled threats were made in these talks, according to Matthews's testimony, and suggestions were made that certain names would be deleted in the articles if money was paid.

ANNULMENT SUIT SETS UP MISREPRESENTATION

Mrs. Helen Pilleman in her suit for annulment of her marriage to Raymond W. Pilleman says he represented that if he was married before March 1, 1928, he would inherit $135,000. She says he agreed to give her $5000, and settle on her a share of the property acquired. But after the marriage, she says, she learned that there was no $135,000 fortune, and she could not imagine why he wanted to marry her, as he left her the day of the ceremony, and she has not seen him since.

WINE-MAKING CHARGED

It is cruelty for the husband of a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union to make and sell rhubarb wine, Mrs. Charity J. Fielder asserts in her divorce complaint on file against Fred M. Fielder, yesterday. Fielder's asserted bootlegging activities, including the manufacture and sale of grape, rhubarb and blackberry wine, caused Mrs. Fielder much embarrassment, she says.

FILM PARTY OFF TODAY FOR BORNEO

University Scientist to Aid Photographing of Talkie in Jungles

An expedition of eleven motion-picture cameramen and technical experts will leave today at 8 p.m. by train for Victoria, B. C., where they will embark for the Malay Peninsula and Borneo to film a jungle sound picture. Prof. Bruce Magill Harrison of the biological department of the University of Southern California will accompany the expedition to gather specimens and also to act as a technical adviser to the party.

The expedition, in addition to filming the scenes of the jungle story, will also make sound pictures of the region which Charles Darwin termed "topsy-turvy land."

Harry Garson, film producer, will be in charge of the party, working under the direction of the Universal studio.

Sculpture for Hollywood Site Proposal Made

A thirty-foot sculptured granite column surmounted by a bronze female figure, the work of Elizabeth Stone of Monrovia, is proposed for erection at Hollywood Boulevard and Vermont avenue by L. G. Muller, a Hollywood business man of 1739 North Vine street. The figure stands with outstretched arms above the column, which bears the words "Welcome to Hollywood."

ELIZABETH STONE

Muller has submitted his proposal to Los Angeles and Hollywood Chamber of Commerce committees which are promoting the erection of monuments at various places in the city. He would raise the $100,000 which he believes necessary for the work by soliciting among business men, he said.

There is a large triangular plot at the Hollywood-Vermont corner which it has been proposed by various interests to beautify by landscaping and erecting thereon a monument and Muller's suggestion is one of a number submitted.

HOLDING COMPANY DISSOLVED

Dissolution of the Arden Investment Company, a holding company for the family of Superior Judge Crail, was ordered by Superior Judge McComb, on petition of Joe Crail, Jr., an attorney. Assets of the company, which yields an income of $5000 monthly, will be divided among members of the family, Judge Crail, his wife, Attorney Crail, and other children.

METAPHORS OF WARFARE STIR SPIRITUAL STRIFE

Pastor Contends True Philosophy Summed in Phrase of Jesus Ignored by Teachers

Eight words spoken by Jesus contain the essence of the teachings of the science of psycho-analysis, according to the opinion expressed yesterday by Dr. Sheldon Shepard in his sermon at the [illegible] Church.

"Those eight words, containing a wonderful philosophy, are 'Resist not evil but overcome evil with good,'" said Dr. Shepard. "In the light of that instruction, the world has gone on fostering a spirit of strife. We are still in fight the world, the flesh and the devil. We are exhorted to resist, temptations, wicked-ness of character, wicked-ness of plans, and to slam-dam our way to success. And the psycho-analysts give us the prescription of the utter opposite of all this antagonism. There is nothing under God's heaven that is any stronger when you overcome it be the taste for food, the pinch of poverty, or you want to overcome. Put God first from mind. Fill your mind with something else, something else, something else, never rebel, resist or fight anything. Look for something else, right something else. And then, try to overcome. And then, try to do good to you can. We co-operate with the forces of the in-finite and overcome evil with good by meeting with them to do good evil also."

CHRIST'S VALUE IN SOCIAL LIFE TOLD

[illegible] Should Anybody Join a Church? is the question discussed [illegible] by Dr. John Snape at the [illegible] Church. Dr. Snape said:

"The church is the collective re-ligion of the community. [illegible] the presence of the [illegible] in home is dead—it has no [illegible] life," said Dr. J. George [illegible] in sermon yesterday at [illegible] Lafayette Church. [illegible] the heart-beat of the [illegible] plan and atmosphere, [illegible] life. "If we only could [illegible] these facts, it would [illegible] to our mothers [illegible] would help us to settle [illegible] their chores. ◆ "There is no one in the wide world who can take your mother's place, and there is no remorse like that which comes from ill-treating, abusing or being unkind to one's mother."

ATTACHMENT TO GOD HELD HIGHEST LOVE

"Love for the Supreme" is the theme of a sermon preached yesterday by Swami Dhirananda at Figueroa Playhouse. The speaker said in part:

"There is an intrinsic connection between the two commandments of Jesus, to love God and one's neighbor. We cannot truly love our neighbor if we do not love God. Real love of others draws its inspiration from love of God. Nor can we properly serve our neighbor if the love of God, the true ideal, does not burn brightly in our hearts, for thus alone can selfishness or other extraneous motives of service be consumed. Action without an ideal is a travesty and action without attachment is a triumph. We can kill attachment to results of action, which is the cause of all sorrow, by being attached to God."

VIRGIN HEART SOLE CRADLE OF CHRIST

"The Birth of Christ in Man" was discussed yesterday by Bramacharee Nerode at Mt. Washington Center. Excerpts from the sermon follow:

"Across the ages shines the glory of the Son of Man, born of the Virgin Mary. Christ is born only of the virgin heart which has taken the vow of purity and truth. As swaddling clothes or penurious circumstances did not stand in the way of the coming of Jesus, so is the spiritual birth of man unconditional so long as he prepares the soil of his life for divine illumination. When Christ dawns on the mind of man the dove of peace descends on his life and the heavens of unknown joy and strength are flung open before his mental horizon."

CITY'S "MEANEST MAN" SCORED BY MINISTER

"The meanest man in Los Angeles or any other city is the hypocrite who hides his devilry under the cloak of religion," declared Dr. Bruce Brown in his sermon yesterday at South Park Christian Church.

"Our standard of judging men is not the standard of Jesus," said Dr. Brown. "We judge by appearances; He judged by motives in the heart. The persons he condemned were 'good,' according to our standard. They moved in the 'best circles,' went to church, gave money to the poor, kept the law, the Sabbath and everything else they could get their hands on—and so became prominent and influential in their communities. The Nazarene called them liars, thieves, murderers and 'white tombstones.' Jesus was not a discreet preacher."

CHRISTIANITY HELD "SYNTHESIS OF GOD"

"America's Opportunity" is the subject of a sermon preached at First United Brethren Church yesterday by Dr. William M. Bell, a member of the board of bishops of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ. Bishop Bell spoke in part as follows:

"Let us not consent that American civilization shall go along somehow, for it will go on the rocks except it go the Christ way. Christianity constitutes a mighty synthesis of God. Let us work within this synthesis. The church for the new era needs the eye of the eagle and the courage of the lion for kingdom pioneering. Its mighty work calls for a faith unterrified by the resistence of iniquity in the social order; a faith that affirms without fear, and sacrificing to the full to bring it to pass; the approximate Christianization of our modern world; a faith that works for and expects a Christ-saturated Christian unity and favors immediate unity in action and service."

SUN OF LOVE SEEN RISING ON MANKIND

"The fact that denominations no longer cut one another's throats but work peacefully together is one indication that the world is growing better," declared Adjt. Frank Howell in his sermon yesterday at Salvation Army Temple.

"I can remember when the Salvation Army flag was torn into shreds whenever it appeared, and that by the Church of England," said Adjt. Howell. "Today we have no better friends than the rectors and bishops of that great church. We have learned to bear and forbear. That is the brotherhood of man and a proof of the fatherhood of God."

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS READ FROM EZEKIEL

A lesson-sermon on "Everlasting Punishment" was presented yesterday at all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. One of the scripture selections included the exhortations of Ezekiel: "When a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness and committeth iniquity, and dieth in them, for his iniquity that he hath done shall he die. . . . Repent, and turn yourselves from all your transgressions, so iniquity shall not be your ruin. Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed, and make you a new heart and a new spirit, for why will ye die, O house of Israel? For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God: wherefore turn yourselves and live ye." A correlative passage from the Christian "Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "It is error to suffer for aught but your own sins. Christ, or Truth, will destroy all other supposed suffering, and real suffering for your own sins will cease in proportion as the sin ceases."

SCRIPTURES UPHOLD EVOLUTION THEORY

A man of Genesis would be arrested as beyond the pale of ordinary decency if he walked down Wilshire Boulevard's Miracle Mile, asserted Dr. Frank Dyer in his sermon yesterday at the Rita Theater. The Genesis man was a crude development who lived stark naked among the trees, the speaker explained. He said that the Bible is in striking agreement with all anthropological science; that all records convince that man's ancestors were a simple lot.

"St. Paul developed the great argument when he said of Adam, 'The first man is of earth earthy, the second man is of heaven,'" said Dr. Dyer. "The problem of religion and civilization is to have the second man supplant the first. St. Paul said that our race has a new head. 'I would have you know that the head of every man is Christ.' He is the second Adam and is from heaven. He is the world's supreme God man. There is a miracle man in us all. That alone explains man's continuing escape from the likeness of the first Adam toward the stature of the new man, the Christ."

NEW ENGLANDERS TO MEET

NEW YORK TESTS OUR TASTE

"Strictly Dishonorable" Pair Arrive

Margaret Perry and Brock Pemberton

BROCK PEMBERTON, theatrical producer, arrived here yesterday to be present at the Los Angeles premiere of "Strictly Dishonorable," one of the current season's Broadway hits which brought him added fame in the field of drama. The play opened last night at the Biltmore Theater.

On the same Santa Fe train with Pemberton was Margaret Perry, who achieved stardom overnight in New York when, with but a few hours' notice, she stepped into the stellar role of the piece, previously played by Muriel Kirkland. Broadway critics acclaimed Miss Perry the find of the season.

"Strictly Dishonorable" is the first play sent to the Pacific Coast under the new Erlanger regime and is expected to determine the degree of response on the part of Los Angeles theatergoers to New York theatrical troupes. It was written by Preston Sturges, who figured recently in a $7 elopement with Eleanor Hutton, New York heiress and grand-daughter of the late C. W. Post, breakfast-food king. Fifteen companies are now playing the comedy in various parts of the world.

THOSE WHO KNOW GOOD FOOD INSIST ON ICE REFRIGERATION

Those who know good food demand that salads be fresh and crisp . . . that their color be natural and appetizing to the eye. A highly developed sense of taste immediately detects the flat taste of food which has been subject to moisture-robbing substitutes for ice refrigeration.

To people like this . . . there is no substitute for ice. They realize that certain foods, such as lettuce, preserved in a circulation of clean, washed air remain fresh, crisp and green.

They know the value of a constant coldness (modern ice boxes maintain a temperature under 50°) and they know that all foodstuffs in their ice box are untainted and unchanged by any unpleasant odors or gases. They INSIST on ice.

Of course in dollars and cents there is no comparison. With beautiful porcelain and pastel colored refrigerators selling in the modest price range of $30 to $70 . . . with operating costs for twelve years only equivalent to the initial cost of the average chemical electric refrigerator . . . there can be no comparison . . . either in economy or in performance.

The Union Ice Company will take in your old-fashioned ice box on a new scientifically designed refrigerator, with easy terms . . . and a generous trade-in allowance.

Stop any red, white and blue Union ice truck and end your refrigeration problems today.

When a Red, White and Blue Union Ice truck stops in front of your house . . . you know you are getting the advantage of 50 years of satisfactory ice service. Each delivery salesman of the red, white and blue trucks is hand picked, trained and backed by The Union Ice Co.

TEN ROBBERY SUSPECTS HELD

Asserted Stolen Motor Car Also Recovered

Five Pistols Confiscated in Week-End Arrests

Ten men, three of them suspected San Francisco gangsters, were taken into custody on various theft charges, five pistols were confiscated, and one asserted stolen automobile was recovered in a series of week-end arrests.

William Harrison, 39 years of age, a "lineup" one of a trio of suspects taken into custody in an asserted stolen automobile at 750 Wall street, has been identified, police state, as being wanted in San Francisco for robbery. The other two are Robert McDonald, 30, and Roy E. White, 24. White, police say, is an ex-convict. The car in which the trio was found is said to have been stolen from Louis Goldberg of 1735 Geary street, San Francisco. All are held in the City Jail on suspicion of robbery and grand theft. Harrison gave his legal address as 124 West Sixth street.

SUSPICIONS AROUSED

Their explanations as to the possession of two large diamond rings, which they were said to have attempted to trade for an automobile, arousing the suspicions of police, Frank C. Calcagnini, 28, cafe proprietor, and Van N. Buehrer, showman, were held yesterday in connection with investigations of recent diamond robberies.

The pair were arrested in Glendale by Detective Lieutenant Blake of the Glendale Police Department, who reported that the owner of an automobile for which they were shadowing had become suspicious and reported them. Both deny implication in robberies.

While an effort is being made to identify the rings the detectives are making a thorough investigation of the suspects' recent activities. They are held in the City Jail on suspicion of robbery.

Calcagnini gave his home address as 1113 Wilshire Boulevard. Buehrer said he lives at 1412 West Ninth street.

After he is said to have arranged to hold up a gasoline service station in company with a police operative, John Ernest McManus, 27, a painter, was arrested near his lodging at 1402 West Pico street by Detective Lieutenants German and Stephens. He had a .22 caliber pistol in his possession, the detectives said, and admitted planning the robbery.

THREE SEIZED IN AUTO

Three youths arrested in an automobile at Twenty-third street and Central avenue by Police Sergeant Adams answer descriptions of bandits who have been unusually active here recently, detectives say. They gave their names as James, 21, and Sam Cox, 19, of 4216 Lima street, and Tom Palmer, 22, of 131 South College avenue, Downey. Adams reported finding a revolver in the automobile. The youths denied implication in robberies.

On a tip that a bandit suspect was living in a room at 122 South Bunker Hill avenue, Detective Lieutenants Burris and Lingert raided the place and arrested Riley Myers, 28. In the room the detectives said they found one .45-caliber revolver, one .45-caliber Frontier model revolver, and one .38-caliber automatic pistol with the serial numbers filed off. The latter, they said, has been identified as stolen in a burglary.

SPANISH GALLEON MODEL EXHIBITED

Miss Irene Russell and Replica of La Concepcion

A MODEL of the cockleshell Spanish galleon which sailed on the trip resulting eventually in the discovery of California is on exhibition at Los Angeles of La Concepcion, a galleon built in Mexico. The miniature replica is said by Cortez, Conquistador of Mexico.

The Conquistador wished to explore and claim the Pacific Coast lying above Mexico before ships of rival nations rounded Cape Horn and sailed up. He ordered materials and lands freighted from Vera Cruz by hull carts to the shores of the Pacific. There the galleon, La Concepcion, was built. An eventful voyage, from which La Concepcion did not return, resulted in the discovery of Lower California and eventually of California.

Ferdinand Perett of Los Angeles designed and built the model of the galleon now exhibited at the Los Angeles Museum. He used drawings and historical descriptions in the construction of the model.

CRASH VICTIMS MOSTLY WOMEN

Cook was cut and bruised. Mrs Proper was with her husband, J. H. Proper, and daughter Katherine, who were slightly hurt, it was stated.

Mrs. Irene H. Brown, 32, of 3859 Brunswick street, was probably fatally injured when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, R. F. Brown, ran over a fifteen-foot embankment near Los Feliz Boulevard and Riverside Drive. She was given emergency treatment at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital for internal injuries, two fractures of the left leg and fractured pelvis. Brown was not seriously hurt. He was given a sobriety test, but was found not intoxicated.

SEPTUAGENARIAN STRUCK

Thomas B. Stubbins, 74, 607 South Carondelet street, is thought dying at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by Arthur Rickertson of 1302 West Eighth street at Sixth and Bampart streets. Rickertson was held for questioning by police after he had declared the man a victim of a hit-and-run driver, but later admitting that his automobile had struck him.

Y. Mesguchi, 38, 1118 Cahuenga avenue, received a fractured skull when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Frank Karst of 3636 Cypress street at Jackson and Alameda streets. Physicians said Mesguchi's recovery is doubtful.

ASSESSMENT MAP APPROVED

The City Council has approved the assessment district map for the construction of a pedestrian tunnel under Wilshire Boulevard between Detroit street and Curson avenue.

M'CLELLAN'S FUNERAL SET

Supervisors' Offices Will be Closed Tomorrow During Rites for Veteran Chairman

Reuben P. McClellan, for fourteen years a Supervisor of Los Angeles county, a pioneer in the gold-rush days of Alaska and a colorful figure of the Pacific Coast, who died Saturday morning in the Santa Monica Hospital at the age of 71 years, will be buried tomorrow afternoon in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. The services will be conducted first at 2 o'clock in the Price-Daniel Mortuary, 11567 Santa Monica Boulevard, and an hour later there will be services at the grave.

Mr. McClellan had been in the hospital for sixteen weeks before his death. His confinement was caused by an attack of influenza and pneumonia. Death came when these ailments were superinduced by a heart attack at 6 a.m. Saturday.

Arrangements for the funeral include the closing of the offices of the County Supervisors and the suspension of business in many other county departments. Mr. McClellan had been chairman of the county board since 1910. He still had two years to serve of his fourth term.

LIVED IN MINNESOTA

Mr. McClellan, who was born in Mt. Kittarden, Me., and later lived in Minnesota, came to California in 1894. He established a residence in Sawtelle. He had married Miss Grace Loring, whom he met while attending Princeton University. They had one son, Neal Dow McClellan, who was killed while flying an airplane in 1925.

Four years after coming to California the gold rush of 1898 to Alaska started, and Mr. McClellan joined it. He collected a fortune in gold and then discovered the famous Great Bonanza copper mine at Kinneecot, asserted to have been the greatest copper mine discovery in history. Mr. McClellan's interests were later bought by the Guggenheim company.

With his fortune Mr. McClellan came back to his family in Sawtelle and in subsequent years established the State Bank of Sawtelle, the Bank of Palms, the Bank of West Gate and the State Bank of Santa Monica. In 1921 his wife, Mrs. Grace McClellan, died.

Two years later he married Miss Hima M. Brunty of Sawtelle. A year ago a son was born to them. He leaves the widow, the son, Reuben Frederick, Jr.; two brothers, Harry M. and Frank McClellan of Bellingham, Wash., and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Wheaton of Elk River, Minn.

BROTHERS TO RETURN

The two brothers drove from the home in Washington to Santa Monica three weeks ago when they were notified of Mr. McClellan's serious illness. They visited his bedside daily until they were given hope of his recovery. They departed for Bellingham Wednesday and had just arrived home when they were notified by a telegram of their brother's death. They made immediate preparations to return and are expected here this afternoon.

Although Mr. McClellan had been in a critical condition for weeks his death came as a shock to fellow-members of the county board. Expression of regret and personal tributes were paid by his fellow-members. Among the achievements of Mr. McClellan during his tenure of office was the acquirement of Big Pines Recreational Park by Los Angeles county, and legislation tending to gain the beaches for public use.

His love of the outdoors came from his early life in the woods of Minnesota. At that time he had joined a government surveying crew at the age of 17 years. At 19 he was a full-fledged surveyor and was appointed County Surveyor. Two years later he was appointed Minnesota State Surveyor.

ANIMAL LORE STUDIED

The lure of California touched him a few years later. Besides his business and political activities Mr. McClellan devoted much of his time studying animal lore. He hunted much and most of the game he procured he had prepared in natural groups which he presented to the local museums.

The most notable of these is the "buffalo group" at the Hall of Natural History in the Los Angeles Museum of History, Science and Art. He also had a valuable collection of Alaskan pictures and slides. He numbered among his intimates many world-famous authors and painters and up to a few days before his death he delighted in recounting many of his "sourdough" experiences with them.

Yesterday more than a score of telegrams of condolence were received at the family home from various parts of the country.

MASONIC FUNERAL

The services tomorrow will be under the direction of Rev. E. W. Mecum, retired, and Benjamin F. Bledsoe, who will conduct the Masonic ritual. The active pall bearers will be selected today from the membership of Masonic Lodge No. 373, of Sawtelle.

The list of honorary pallbearers prepared yesterday is as follows:

EXTORTION PLOT LAID TO BERMAN

Johnson-Lavine Defense Plans Announced

Will Accuse "Bright Boy" of Hatching Conspiracy

Woman Expected to Take Witness Stand Today

Formation and culmination of a $75,000 extortion plot will be charged directly to Jacob Berman, also known as Jack Bennett, when the two defendants, Morris Lavine and Miss Leontine Johnson, take the witness stand in the trial of their case.

Berman, now serving a seven-year sentence at McNeil Island for violation of Federal postal laws, will be pictured as the arch plotter, who planned the blackmail scheme in an attempt to inulct money from Los Angeles brokers and others.

He will also be charged with making Miss Johnson an innocent victim of his scheme, and arranging the sequel of events that led to the arrest of Lavine with $75,000 in marked money in his possession.

Blunt announcement that Berman will be made the target of their defense, and will be charged with framing the entire affair after he had learned of the anticipated publication of a series of articles, was made yesterday by Attorneys Rush and Bierne, counsel for Miss Johnson.

ON STAND TODAY

The appearance of Miss Johnson on the witness stand in her own behalf and as the only witness in her defense is expected late today as the conclusion of the testimony to be offered for the prosecution by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Dennison and McKay.

When the case is resumed today at 10 a.m., three witness will be called to close the State's case. Jacob Friedlander, former Corporation Commissioner; Abe Morris, broker, and Kent Parrot, attorney and politician, are expected to relate circumstances of a series of meetings held after information had been given them of the expected publication of a series of articles in the Los Angeles Examiner, described as an expose of the inner ramifications of the Julian Petroleum collapse on account of overissue stock sales.

Following the close of the prosecution, motions to dismiss the charges against both defendants are to be made by defense counsel on the grounds that no crime has been shown and insufficient evidence.

WILL RECITE VERSION

Should Superior Judge Schauer, before whom the case is being heard, deny the motion, Miss Johnson will then give her sworn version of a long string of incidents and conferences that culminated in her arrest, and that of Lavine, on charges of attempting to extort $75,000 from Charles Crawford Friedlander, Parrot, Morris and others under a threat of exposure of secrets detrimental to their reputations.

Miss Johnson, according to her attorney, will tell of her contract to supply information for the series of articles. The information to be based on her acquaintance with S. C. Lewis, former head of the Julian corporation, for whom she worked as confidential secretary.

She will also tell of the entrance of Berman into the negotiations, of conferences she had with him and also her discussions with Lavine as to the preparation of the articles.

Miss Johnson will deny that she had any of the telephone conversations with Crawford as have been testified to in the trial, but will give from the witness chair her belief that Bennett plotted the entire affair from beginning to end after he had learned of the intended publication of the articles and a book that she was writing.

WOMAN SOUGHT

"Our client has a strong conviction," said Attorney Beirne yesterday, "that Berman plotted the entire extortion scheme in a move to curry favor with the District Attorney."

In connection with the preparation for the defense of Miss Johnson it became known that the authorities are searching for a woman, said to have been very friendly with Berman, and who disappeared about the time the latter left on his secret trip to enter Federal prison.

There were indications that in her defense the former Lewis secretary will attempt to show that some woman impersonated her over the telephone in asserted conversations with Crawford.

These telephone talks, which were overheard by Chief Investigator Matthews of the District Attorney's office, form a link in the connections of Miss Johnson to the alleged extortion. Matthews testified that he recognized the voice as that of the accused woman. Attorneys Rush and Beirne state that their client contends she never held such telephone conversations. Veiled threats were made in these talks, according to Matthews's testimony, and suggestions were made that certain names would be deleted in the articles if money was paid.

ANNULMENT SUIT SETS UP MISREPRESENTATION

Mrs. Helen Pilleman in her suit for annulment of her marriage to Raymond W. Pilleman says he represented that if he was married before March 1, 1930, he would inherit $135,000. She says he agreed to give her $5000, and settle on her a share of the property acquired. But after the marriage, she says, she learned that there was no $135,000 fortune, and she could not imagine why he wanted to marry her, as he left her the day of the ceremony, and she has not seen him since.

WINE-MAKING CHARGED

It is cruelty for the husband of a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union to make and sell rhubarb wine, Mrs. Charity J. Fielder asserts in her divorce complaint on file against Fred M. Fielder, yesterday. Fielder's asserted bootlegging activities, including the manufacture and sale of grape, rhubarb and blackberry wine, caused Mrs. Fielder much embarrassment, she says.

FILM PARTY OFF TODAY FOR BORNEO

University Scientist to Aid Photographing of Talkie in Jungles

An expedition of eleven motion-picture cameramen and technical experts will leave today at 8 p.m. by train for Victoria, B. C., where they will embark for the Malay Peninsula and Borneo to film a jungle sound picture. Prof. Bruce Magill Harrison of the biological department of the University of Southern California will accompany the expedition to gather specimens and also to act as a technical adviser to the party.

The expedition, in addition to filming the scenes of the jungle story, will also make sound pictures of the region which Charles Darwin termed "topsy-turvy land."

Harry Garson, film producer, will be in charge of the party, working under the direction of the Universal studio.

Sculpture for Hollywood Site Proposal Made

A thirty-foot sculptured granite column surmounted by a bronze female figure, the work of Elizabeth Stone of Monrovia, is proposed for erection at Hollywood Boulevard and Vermont avenue by L. G. Muller, a Hollywood business man of 1739 North Vine street. The figure stands with outstretched arms above the column, which bears the words "Welcome to Hollywood."

ELIZABETH STONE

Muller has submitted his proposal to Los Angeles and Hollywood Chamber of Commerce committees which are promoting the erection of monuments at various places in the city. He would raise the $100,000 which he believes necessary for the work by soliciting among business men, he said.

There is a large triangular plot at the Hollywood-Vermont corner which it has been proposed by various interests to beautify by landscaping and erecting thereon a monument and Muller's suggestion is one of a number submitted.

HOLDING COMPANY DISSOLVED

Dissolution of the Arden Investment Company, a holding company for the family of Superior Judge Crail, was ordered by Superior Judge McComb, on petition of Joe Crail, Jr., an attorney. Assets of the company, which yields an income of $5000 monthly, will be divided among members of the family, Judge Crail, his wife, Attorney Crail, and other children.

Pastor Contends True Philosophy Summed in Phrase of Jesus Ignored by Teachers

Eight words spoken by Jesus contain the essence of the newest of the sciences of psycho-analysis, according to the opinion expressed yesterday by Dr. Sheldon Shepard in his sermon at the Hollywood Church.

These eight words, containing a fascinating philosophy, are "Resist not evil," which Dr. Shepard declares will end all fear, all evil and all destruction, the cause of all fear. We are still fighting the world, the flesh and the devil. We are exhorted to resist evil, the world, the flesh and the devil

TOO RICH TO BE LOVED

"America is too rich to be loved," said Owen Young recently. This is a clean-cut word, explanatory of the attitude of Europe toward the United States today. It has nothing to do with mercy or justice in payment of debts, nor of gratitude for help given. It is an assay of human nature.

Great wealth or power breeds suspicion. The underdog gets the sympathy on general principles. He may have stolen the leg of lamb from the ice chest, or pilfered the family dinner; but the fact of being under begets sympathy.

And so America is too rich to be loved!

What can Uncle Sam do about it? He can give all his wealth away and beggar himself as the Communists would have him do, and then be unable to conduct his mighty enterprise and be unable to further succor the weak in time of stress. He can surrender prestige to rid himself of the world's jealousy, and then be powerless to move humanity to peace and prosperity.

Or he can forget the ingrates and go on his way caring for indigent races and projects. He can give tangible sympathy to the earthquake and famine sufferers abroad and inspire them with his own ideals. He can become the big father of waif nations. He can be unafraid of carping critics and see straight on questions of morals, sobriety and justice. And that is his present course.

SUPERVISOR McCLELLAN

Los Angeles county has lost, with the passing of R. F. McClellan, not only a chairman of its Board of Supervisors, whose experience it will be impossible to duplicate, no matter who is chosen to succeed him, but a strong and conscientious worker, whose example was an inspiration to all with whom he came in contact. Though he had passed his seventieth year and had been ailing for some weeks, his death has come as an unexpected blow to his friends in the city and his associates on the county board, for his unabated activities gave little evidence that the end was so near.

Few public servants have so long a record, and so successful a one, in a single field of continuous public work as that associated with the name of the chairman who has made his first and final resignation. Fourteen years, the most vital period in the growth of Los Angeles county, claimed the attention of Mr. McClellan and to that period he contributed all the strength of his mind and spirit, so that he has left the impress of his personality on our county structure for all time to come.

After five years of service he was elected to the chairmanship of the board and filled that office for nine years unbrokenly through the many political changes that swept others from county leadership and changed county personnel. His talents for keeping the improvements needed in county management abreast of its unprecedented growth, without increasing the burdens of the taxpayers, were so well recognized that no force was able to shake public confidence in his administration.

When he first was elected Supervisor in 1916 the ledgers of the county were in the red $1,500,000. By reorganization and careful planning he wiped out this deficit and without abating any expenditure needed for vital purposes he showed a substantial surplus at the close of each fiscal year. But his services to the people of Los Angeles transcended the expert knowledge of finance from which they gained so many benefits.

He originated and founded the Regional Planning Commission and took a leading part in the accomplishment of our present Civic Center. He fathered the Big Pines camp playground and aided every movement for public health and recreation.

He fostered and championed flood control and water and forest conservation and to him we owe to a large degree the saving of water and the protection from forest fires so ably carried on in Los Angeles county. He aided in the establishment of nationally known health centers and health schools and increased materially the scope of the county free-library service.

Nor will the people of the Santa Clara Valley easily forget his strenuous help on their behalf after the terrible St. Francis Dam catastrophe; how he worked for three days and nights without ceasing in the rescue work, not sparing himself physically, in spite of his years, to aid with his own hands those suffering and in distress, and how he applied himself to the cause of bringing county relief in generous measure to all who had lost homes or health in that unforeseen disaster.

The county has lost a friend and an administrator and the people a champion of all that makes a community strong and prosperous, a man who not only gave them the best of a brain far above the ordinary, but the treasure of a heart always open to the call of humanity. The growth of Los Angeles county will be a perpetual monument to his memory.

THE NEW UNION SCHEME

The plan for drastic reorganization of the American Federation of Labor now maturing in councils of eastern leaders, as revealed in a recent dispatch from Cleveland, is a matter in which the public as well as employers and workers should be vitally interested. For the labor organization, consummation of this plan would be revolution and probable capture by the Communist and other radical elements which have been "boring from within" for years, despite nominal opposition from the present leaders. For the public and employers, it might mean the tying up of vital industries and some such situation as England faced a few years ago in the general strike.

There is nothing new, of course, in the "one big union" idea. This was the central scheme of the old Knights of Labor, which the American Federation of Labor defeated and forced from the field nearly fifty years ago; it was the big idea of Debs; it was the big idea of the I.W.W. But the present plan is a modification of it, proposing to bind together not all workmen whose only common interest is the fact that they work for wages, but workmen whose common interest is that they work in a single industry. In the scheme the craft unions, the locals which are at the bottom of the present federation plan, would be abolished, absorbed into a general organization—with all their agreements and contracts torn up, all working arrangements repudiated and whole industries potentially paralyzed.

For public consumption, it will be urged by the promoters of this new plan that it is a more effective plan, putting labor on a more nearly equal bargaining basis and enabling it to deal with employer groups instead of individual employers. It will also be urged that under it there will be no more "jurisdictional disputes" or strikes by one craft union against another, and that in this way industry will be a gainer. But the private reasons in favor of the scheme, from the labor leader's viewpoint, are much more interesting to him. He will see in the plan the power of complete dominance of an industry by one man or a small group of men, with unlimited or at least greatly enhanced opportunities for extortion. The decision as to peace or war in any particular industry, with the "one big union" idea effective, will not be up to a number of separate unions with diverse ideas, often pulling in different directions and acting as checks on one another, but will be made by a majority vote of all concerned—which means, practically, a small group of leaders or perhaps a single head, with ability to lead a crowd.

Such a scheme would be particularly dangerous in the motion-picture industry, where, under the new plan, actors, extras, cameramen, laboratory workers, set builders and so on would all be merely members of a single organization which would act as a unit, bound by the will of the most numerous group. One craft might be perfectly satisfied both with pay and with hours and working conditions, but would be required to strike because some other craft was dissatisfied and could muster a majority of the whole union. The same situation would be brought about as union leaders now try to achieve through the "sympathetic strike," but in a much simpler manner.

If such an organization is attempted here, the producers who permitted their studios to be partly organized on the craft plan, instead of adhering to the open shop on which the industry was brought up, will reap the reward of a peck of trouble.

To what extent radicalism is back of this new plan, whether it was just a bright idea on the part of a few schemers, or whether it was concocted by the Chicago and New York racketeers who have exploited the closed shop for their personal gain to the limit, is not yet known. Its close resemblance to the scheme of the soviet councils of Russia is noted in the Cleveland dispatch. Attention is also called to the fact that the United Mine Workers, which is the chief support of President Green in the present federation, was organized on this plan and, though it has now collapsed, had the coal-mining industry under dominance for many years. Apparently Cleveland has been unable to learn whether Green has been putting the idea out or whether it is being forwarded behind his back by men anxious to oust him and take control for themselves.

That Communist influence in the American Federation of Labor has been gaining ground for some years is a known fact. For example, the busiest figure in local labor circles is J. W. Buzzell, who has never denied that he holds his office as secretary of the local labor council because the Communist group supports him.

The plan is likely to meet a lot of opposition, of course, when local labor leaders wake up to the fact that it will practically take their jobs and their influence away from them. They will be got into it, of course, on the promise of being made lieutenants with better pickings than they can now obtain, but will soon discover that union affairs are being run from higher up and that they will be merely messenger boys with no knowledge of what is really going on and no opportunity to take advantage of it.

The situation is one on which it will be well to keep a close eye. Industries will do well to be prepared for such a move by instituting, if they do not already have it, the open shop, which alone can guarantee industrial peace, continued production and prosperity for all concerned.

THE CHICAGO PLAN

While most people will wish more power to the elbow of the Chicago Crime Commission in its program to rid that city of its twenty-eight biggest gangsters, racketeers and beer and vice barons, it must be borne in mind that the methods to be used are good only for temporary and emergency use, and unless they are supplemented by such a stiffening up of the processes of criminal justice as will in time make them unnecessary, they will, in the long run, do more harm than good.

Despairing of getting convictions against these men, the commission will seek to harass them in every way possible, legal and extra-legal, and thus driving them out of business. It is not a new expedient; it has been tried many times and it always works the same way. It is a confession that the ordinary processes have been crippled and that what is, in essence, a vigilance committee, must act as a crutch until the ordinary processes are again able to function.

The proper way to deal with criminals is to obtain evidence against them, prosecute them, convict them and punish them. Anything else is perilously akin to lynch law. There are times when other than legal measures are necessary, if criminals are not to get completely out of hand; and such a time appears to have come about in Chicago—whether because of political interference with the courts and prosecutors, an antiquated criminal code, inefficient or corrupt police, or a combination of all of them. But, vigilance committee methods, if too long continued, result in serious abuses.

SCREENINGS

Will Hays says the screen creates demands for comforts. That was what it created the other night when two parties behind us talked all through the show.

SUGGESTION TO MAYOR

To forestall any further Communist demonstrations here why not advocate a law compelling all members of the party to work.

GOOD LUCK

Even we can see why it is good luck to be a woodpecker.

THIS is National Hearing Week, for the benefit of the hard of hearing. So if the boss has been deaf to your suggestions that you ought to have a raise, this may be your chance. Anyhow, it is your chance to encourage one of the kindliest and most sympathetic movements in America, for the hard of hearing are a strangely sensitive lot. For some inexplicable reason, they are much more sensitive than the blind or the maimed. They shrink from having people shout at them; they often shun friendship with people who are eager to know them better. We know one stone-deaf woman, in Pasadena, who isn't that way, and we wish all the hard-of-hearing folks could know her. For we never have seen any group of people who weren't delighted to be in Miss Smith's company, or to hear that she was coming to any gathering they were to attend. She has learned lip-reading and is so far above the average person in intelligence and general cultural information that she is a delightful conversationalist.

Day and Night Lip-Reading Classes

No, there's no reason why deaf or partly deaf people should shun company, but many of them do—so many that some years ago Lucy Ellen Case, a local teacher of lip-reading, organized some of her pupils into a social group which since has grown into the Los Angeles League for the Hard of Hearing, with 160 members. Every Saturday the league has a party at its clubhouse, 2026 West Ninth street, at which dancing, bridge and social conversation are enjoyed. All of them are lip-readers, and they can say a lot without ever uttering a word. It is astonishing to the outsider to see a group of these folks holding a silent but spirited conversation, without any use of their hands, and often laughing aloud when nothing vocal has been said.

The league also works for the general welfare of the hard of hearing, and it is largely due to the efforts of its members that lip reading now is taught in the Metropolitan High School and the Fremont High School, there being classes both day and night, the latter for the benefit of employed people. Mary Rogers Miller, teacher of the adult classes in lip-reading in the public schools, is the present president of the league.

Deaf Don't Like Talkies

Oddly enough, the deaf do not like talkies, not because they object to the noise, but because the titles which used to accompany motion pictures are disappearing. No one else is quite so hopeful that at least one first-class theater will stick to silent pictures.

For these deaf and partly deaf people of Los Angeles are far from willing to join the rocking-chair brigade. Many are young and lovely folk who want to take part in all that's going on and lead normal lives. Their laudable ambition is to encourage all deaf people to come out of their shells instead of retiring into them, to catch deaf children young and help them become full participating members of society, to encourage adults to learn lip-reading and become socially and economically independent, and to work in many other ways for the welfare of the deaf.

They are doing a fine job in an unselfish way. But they could do far more if they had more money. We lucky folks who have escaped this handicap couldn't do a squarer thing than celebrate Hard-of-Hearing Week by sending some contribution or, better, an annual pledge to the Los Angeles League for the Hard of Hearing, 2026 West Ninth street.

Blind, But Has Seen the World

Among the many poems we have received lately were three from a blind woman in Santa Monica, who still has seen the world and can write about it, by use of a writing board for the blind. She writes:

My airship is a dainty craft,
It rides the ether wave.
It never has an accident,
Its voyages are brave.

It takes me down to Ecuador,
To China or Japan,
To any port beneath the sun
That's ever seen by man.

I get aboard—and I am there!
What magic this has wrought!
The magic which brings all in reach—
My aircraft's name is Thought.
LORETTA CALKINS BROWN.

ENCHANTMENT

The weeping willow tree, enchanted lady
Whose lover has gone away,
Dips long green fingers in a lily pond
Where the pale moon floats beside a flower
And goldfish play among reflected stars.

I, too, am sad, for my lover is away . . .
But I see the red of eucalyptus flowers
And hear the call of quail and meadow lark
Among the sage.

And near the jacaranda tree,
Where white jasmine glorifies the wall,
My brother, the mocking bird, sings
And bids me and my sister, the willow,
To cease from weeping.
ADELINE TOWNE HANSEN.

CHOOSING YOUR CAREER

V.

REAL ESTATE

BY J. C. NICHOLS

(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

This is the fifth of a series of twenty-four articles designed to help young men and women find careers which appeal to them and for which they are fitted. Each article has been prepared by a leader in some one field. J. C. Nichols is widely known for his real estate developments in Kansas City, Mo. He is a member of the National Conference on City Planning, American Society of Landscape Architects and National Conference for State Parks and vice-president of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges. He was a delegate to the International Housing Conference in Paris. He was educated at the University of Kansas and at Harvard.

If it is your idea in picking a job to try to enter a calling that will enable you to get rich quick, don't choose real estate.

This is not said in disparagement of the financial rewards that are available to those who excel in the handling of property, but the publicity that has been given the successes of a few speculators has created a wrong impression in many minds.

Still, the saying that anyone who renders a needful service will be rewarded and that the amount of his reward will measure his service is nowhere more true than in the field of real estate. The fact is, nearly all the casualties among real estate men have resulted from a lack of real understanding by the unfortunates of the nature and possibilities of the things they were trying to do.

If you can find enjoyment in doing every day the things which are the plain duties of a realtor, you will be happy. If you do them, well, you will be a success.

Nowhere is the need for specialization more strongly apparent than in the handling of real estate. Think of the complicated character and manifold uses of property today and you will realize it is impossible for a man to excel in all fields.

A distinction must be made between city and country property. Country property may be subdivided into large farms and ranches, small farms and suburban farms, referring to those in the environs of growing cities which, because of the approach of urban development, are constantly undergoing changes of value through prospective changes in use.

City property is a field in which there are many suborders. Recalling that the use of land in the city is three-fold, commercial, industrial and residential, it is apparent that there is need for selecting a specific field to which your efforts may be devoted, if a good piece of work is to be done.

If, as a realtor, you are interested in urban real estate you should be the leader in every activity that has to do with the physical development of your city. City planning has been defined as "the art of exercising such foresight as will promote the orderly and sightly development of a city and its environs with due regard for health, amenity and convenience and for its commercial and industrial advancement."

You should hold yourself accountable for your influence in persuading the people of your community to see that it is necessary to make a great plan—a great diagram toward which the city can be built.

You must assume the responsibility for property values through the improvement of living conditions. It must be your constant aim to make your city more efficient and practical as well as more beautiful and a finer place in which to live. Your judgment must be trustworthy when the creation of traffic ways is the topic of the hour, and you should set the example for the people of your community by keeping your vacant business and residential lots neat and clean.

You must take responsibility for seeing that streets are well paved. You must guard against fire hazards, which result from the improper control of building activity. You should make warfare on every unsanitary condition within the city and you should be equally concerned with such things as the furnishings and decorations of the city's streets, lamp-posts, fire plugs, poles, wires, street signs, trash receptacles. In general, you must make war on ugliness, not only because it depresses the value of property, but because it makes human life less enjoyable.

The opportunity for specialized service creates a demand for special information. As a result, you must be a constant student to be a progressive realtor. There is no place in this calling for the laggard or the drone. There is no field of useful information but has some contact with real estate; government, sociology, economics, engineering, even religion, have some relation to this business which is concerned with the housing of the activities of people in their shops and offices, in factories and industrial plants and at home.

When you realize that the duty of the realtor is to eliminate monotony from the city landscape by creating impressive architecture, masterful highways, residential areas of appeal and charm, civic order and beauty—by means of proper building restrictions and the separation of home, business and industrial areas through city planning and zoning—it is apparent that the career of a realtor is one of the most inspiring in all our complex life of today.

Courage, the ability to take great pains, patience and those attending virtues which we think of as fundamental to success in every walk of life, are needed by any man who aspires to success in this field. But for sheer variety of interest and for the inspiration that comes from knowing your efforts are influencing the daily lives of your fellow-men, nothing surpasses, if it can equal, the adventure in real estate.

LETTERS TO The Times

[Name and address of writer must accompany all letters for this column. Letters of a personal nature or involving contentious religious questions are not acceptable.]

Emotional Juries

TUJUNGA, April 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In one of our courts a man was on trial charged with having deserted his wife and children for a younger and more desirable woman. The man had money and was defended by a high-powered lawyer, in response to whose hypnotic ballyhoo the jurors were "visibly overcome," and several women among them "wept aloud." Regardless of the facts in the case a verdict was promptly rendered in favor of the defendant, who was afterward showered with congratulations by those of the jury who were sufficiently recovered from their emotional orgy to do so.

These mawkish scenes are not an occasional occurrence, but have come to be a regular part of court proceedings. Nor is it the sob sisters alone who put on the show—the brothers are right there, too, with a full quota of sobs and tears.

There was once a tradition that the palladium of justice was with "twelve good men in a jury box," but these days one smart lawyer with a flair for melodrama, supported by an emotional jury, can turn the trick and outdo justice every time.

MAE GUTHRIE TONGIER.

Look Beneath the Surface

SANTA MONICA, April 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It is a great satisfaction to loyal Americans to read such editorials as the one in this morning's Times titled "For Better Enforcement." Evidently the day of real editors has not yet passed, as one would judge by some newspaper editorials of the present. There are yet men with us not only endowed with the mind, but also with the soul of true Americanism, who can think, in this thoughtless age of narrow self-interest, of the dangers and perils that threaten our republic and who stand, not only for the equality of all its citizens, but for those yet higher principles of practical morality that work for the good of all and we can discern in the present ardent attack upon our Constitution, something far blacker and more threatening than appears upon the surface.

WARREN H. FROST.

Agrees to Disagree

SAN DIEGO, April 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In stating his reasons for reading The Times, Mr. Hunt might have added any name to his letter, for it expresses my sentiment from A to Z. It is most peculiar how some of us agree so thoroughly on most points and disagree so radically on this one of prohibition. Although practically a teetotaler, I feel very bitter on this subject, since I believe it will be the ruination of our dear country. But your paper in every other respect is all I could ask, and I could not think of giving up your fine editorials on all other subjects. F. J. MARTIN.

INVENTIVE INDIAN

The American Indian of the pre-Columbian times is given the credit of being considerable of an inventor, by Baron Erland Nordenskiold, a Norwegian student who recently made an address before the Royal Anthropological Society at London. He says that the Indians of this country were responsible for several valuable discoveries of world-wide importance. Hammocks, quinine and rubber were used by the redmen before the arrival of Columbus. They also had a decimal system of counting by means of knots on a series of strings. The Baron says they also made use of the poison-gas method of warfare when they burned pepper in fires to drive back their enemies.

Canada's Clever Wolves

The wolves in some parts of Western Canada have increased in numbers so rapidly that they have become a serious menace to the residents, and large parties of men are organized for the purpose of keeping the animals down. Ordinarily this could be done by the use of traps, but these animals have become so wise that they will walk around a trap, but never touch it.

PEN POINTS

The filling-station boys do everything except look to see if your hair needs another shot of grease.

Why does it take a medical student four years to learn how to say: "Very serious; see specialist; $10 please."

The reason a writer thinks people dumb is because they never trouble to write him until they have a grievance.

Well, when the world starts lifting its hat to money it will no longer be an accessory to the schemes of money-getters.

"Gentlemen are born." So is home brew, in a sense. But a little too much of this or that makes a mess of it.

The price you pay for the right stocks doesn't matter. Nobody ever got poor by going with the fellows who own the country.

Early census returns indicate there are 2,000,000 inhabitants who can't speak English, not counting those who say: "There's a lotta baloney."

Americanism: Fad-following parents shouting encouragement while a social-service worker chases a poor kid that still has tonsils.

A bank is an institution that denies you a $50 loan and trusts $500,000 to a $15 manager.

You can't expect much from a land that elects officials who promise lower taxes and free service.

If you must say college is worthless, always specify whether it's pique or an silk.

Since Texas bankers offer $5000 for dead bank robbers, no bank robber is any poor shot or drunk enough to stand in front of a bank while you shoot him.

Of course knocks are more common than praise. The guy who gives you good eggs does deserve praise; that's what you pay for.

Then, too, the census report of those who can't speak English may include those who say "Da da"—meaning "Daddy" or "Mother" or "Come on with the bottle."

Correct this sentence: "Even though the prisons are overflowing," said the governor man, "we must keep on convicting offenders or else in failing liberate the others."

Most men are deceived by flattery.

Religion was never designed to make our pleasure less.

A great many people buy automobiles for a quick turnover.

There isn't much difference between men and spoiled children.

Some of us could contribute to the happiness of others by merely keeping still.

A NEW PLANET

A large new planet has been found, and press and pulpit now resound with praises of the bright-eyed men who brought the sphere within our ken. For countless ages it has flown on its course, unseen, unknown, in orbit bearing to the east, of little use to man or beast. Some able savants, in their lair, remarked, "A planet must be there," and pointed to a speck of sky about a billion furlongs high. I can't imagine how they knew, how they could make a guess so true. There was no star to indicate that their prediction could be straight; and yet they pointed through the mist, and said, "We wot and also wis that there's a planet large and fine just north of Section Thirty-nine." Then all the boys aimed telescopes upon the distant ether slopes, and kept them so, watch year after year until they spotted that old sphere, which said to be of mighty girth; for fairly dwarfs this poor old earth; we feel, when of its size we read, that Earth is small and cheap, indeed, a tawdry thing of pocket size, in which no true distinction lies. But still the earth, however small, has seasons, summer, winter, spring and fall; in winter we may freeze our thumbs and thaw again when summer comes, and all the seasons, as they slide, some pleasant sentiments will provide. Here there is change from day to day, and outworn things must pass away. But in that sphere they never have found there is no change; the whole year 'round. It is dark and frozen place, no flowers are growing on its face; there is no sunshine anywhere to break the aspect of despair; so I won't move there for quite while, however much its boosters smile and try to sell me corner lots or acreage for garden plots. This small cheap abode on which I dwell has always pleased me passing well.

LEGACY TANGLE ENDS IN SUICIDE

Woman Divorces Hindu to Obtain Money

Inheritance Withheld Due to Other Bars

Body Found in Apartment Following Shooting

Disappointment over the failure to receive a promised legacy and concern which followed the divorce from her Hindu husband formed a tangle train of circumstances which police yesterday blamed for the death of Mrs. B. N. Chatterjee, whose lifeless body was found in her apartment at 1777 North Vermont avenue with a revolver bullet in her heart. According to the conclusion of the body after it had been found by the manager of the apartment, Mrs. Chatterjee had been dead about two days.

Detectives assigned to the investigation learned from friends of the dead woman that she had recently divorced her husband that she might become eligible for a legacy from relatives in Wapanucka, Okla., and that when she found that other complications barred her from the money, she became despondent.

Examination of the effects of the dead woman revealed that she had been married to a Hindu physician who at one time practiced in the West Indies and who was later deported to India from the United States when he visited this country and became stranded. In Mrs. Chatterjee's apartment were a number of books of Hindu philosophy and religion. Police were unable to find any suicide note, but, according to letters found in her room, she had pleaded with her former husband to send her funds that she might join him in India.

Mrs. Chatterjee's maiden name was understood to have been Olive West, and she is believed to have a sister teaching school in Santa Barbara. Efforts to get in touch with the sister and relatives in Oklahoma were to be made today by the police and members of the Coroner's office staff. The body was taken to the County Morgue.

VETERANS WARNED TO ASK FOR EXEMPTION ON TAXES

Veterans entitled to tax exemption are urged by Chief Exemption Deputy Katherine Alcorn to file their statements and claims immediately. While the exemption claims may be filed any time between the first Monday in March and the first Monday in July, Mrs. Alcorn stated that exemptions claimed by ex-service men thus far this year are below the usual number.

Exemption may be claimed on both personal and real property to the extent of $1000 when the total amount of property involved does not exceed $5000. Last year approximately 41,000 veterans made application for exemption on property totaling $40,000,000. All veterans with an honorable discharge or release from active duty showing services rendered the United States during the time of war are entitled to the exemption on presentation of their credentials.

WOMAN FAILS TO WIN SUIT AGAINST DENTIST

A judgment was given the defendant in the suit for $27,000 brought by Mrs. Clara A. Heim against Dr. Leo J. Fogel, Santa Monica dentist, for asserted malpractice, tried before a jury in the court of Superior Judge Archbald. Mrs. Heim, wife of Harry C. Heim, a carpenter, asserted the dentist was guilty of negligence in the treatment of her jaw after extracting a wisdom tooth.

With the slogan, "Save a Life," Municipal Judge Valentine, presiding in Traffic Court, has sent a letter to every Los Angeles attorney urging co-operation in the campaign for careful driving.

"Practically every traffic accident is due to careless driving in some form," Judge Valentine said. "Elimination of carelessness in driving means instant relief from the heavy death toll we now are forced to pay for our automobiles."

INTEMPERANCE CHARGED

Mrs. Josephine Emmick Hale thought she was marrying Walter William Hale, according to her divorce petition on file yesterday, but found she had entered into an alliance with John Barleycorn. She says Hale got drunk on the honeymoon and stayed that way from then on.

VISITOR TO CITY FROM PERU FETED

Cousin of South American President Honor Guest at Consul's Dinner

Ricardo Salcedo, wealthy young Peruvian and cousin of Auguste Legula, President of Peru and who is here investigating sound pictures, was the guest of honor last night at a dinner given at the Beverly-Wilshire apartments by Consul and Senora Manuel Ayulo of Peru. Covers were laid for ten.

Salcedo is planning to install sound pictures in many of the motion-picture houses of Peru, he announced. He has been a guest of various studios for the past two weeks. He expects to leave shortly for Paris and plans another visit to Los Angeles before returning to Peru.

Everybody Everywhere Gets the DOLDRUMS*

*A dull, depressed feeling that often comes "the morning after the night before," caused by faulty digestion and elimination.

Millions of people suffer from the "Doldrums." In themselves Doldrums are bad enough, but when not checked they can lead to serious chronic conditions. When the "Doldrums" attack—do not delay—dispel the cause of the trouble, pleasantly, with Picot

THE "DOLDRUMS" plays no favorites! Regardless of sex, age or occupation, there's scarcely a soul who doesn't sometimes suffer from that dull, "all-fagged-out" feeling known as the "Doldrums."

Modern living causes the "Doldrums." Too much concentrated food, eating too fast, faulty elimination, lack of exercise, smoking too much, irregular hours, and often partaking of party concoctions may cause it. Imperfectly digested foods clog the intestines and form toxins which are absorbed by the bloodstream before they can be eliminated. A systemic upset follows.

A Menace to Health

Sufferers from the "Doldrums" too often treat their trouble lightly. When not acute, they fail to realize that this disturbance takes toll of their complexion, reduces their vitality, and weakens their resistance to disease. They fail to remove the causes of their headaches, fatigue, and sluggish feeling ..often with serious consequences.

If you're a victim of the "Doldrums"..If you feel dull and listless..if your complexion is sallow and your vitality low..avoid habit-forming drugs and take Picot Grape Flavored Salt instead. If the "clinkers" of imperfectly oxidized food are making you miserable..if you tire easily..if you have that "I'm-sick-of-working" sensation..take Picot.

How Picot Works

A little Picot in half a glass of water, preferably before breakfast, works four ways:

1st. Relieves gas pressure.
2nd. Sweetens the stomach.
3rd. Stimulates the appetite.
4th. Cleanses the intestinal tract of poison-forming waste.

Picot is a harmless, non-habit-forming combination of grape tartrates and an effervescent base with real grape extract for flavoring... ideal for every member of the family. Reduces excess weight safely. You'll like its mild but thorough action, and, most of all, you'll like the way the "Doldrums" disappear.

For banishing the "Doldrums," and as a safe, sane and pleasant laxative for all the family..keep Picot always handy in your bathroom. Get it at your drugstore today.

At Monrovia .52 of an inch was reported giving 2.84 inches for the storm and putting the mark at 15.73 for the year, over half an inch more than last year.

RIVERSIDE AHEAD

Riverside also is far ahead of last year's figures. With .54 of an inch of rain yesterday and 2.96 inches for the storm the total for the year now stands at 11.87 as against 7.25 last season. Orange also is far ahead with .84 of an inch yesterday, 1.80 inches for the storm. The total of 14.58 is exactly four inches more than had fallen this time last year.

At Whittier the rainfall was .32 of an inch with 1.94 for the storm. Escondido reported 1.33 inches of rain yesterday and 4.75 for the storm. It rained heavily in Glendale yesterday also, 1.10 inches being reported with 2.87 for the storm and 12.34 for the season. Pomona is ahead of last year's figures by three inches. More than half an inch fell there yesterday giving 3.31 for the storm and 15.23 for the year.

Ontario is 5.38 inches more than last year. Sixty hundredths of an inch fell yesterday bringing the storm total to 3.94 and the season to 17.01. At Upland .85 of an inch fell yesterday, bringing the year's total to 17.89 as against 15 inches even last year.

WOMAN HIKER DIES IN BATTLE WITH SNOW

The story of a woman's all-night struggle in the heavy snow drifts in the San Antonio Mountains north of Ontario, and her resultant death from exposure a few minutes before rescuers got her to shelter, was recounted to authorities yesterday. The woman was Mrs. Mildred Percy, 35 years of age, and former head of the Chicago Child Welfare League.

She had been spending the winter in Pasadena and Friday she went to Ice Canyon Resort for the week-end. Saturday night she determined to go to Kelly's Camp, five miles farther into the mountains. Other persons at the resort advised her against the trip and warned that the snow was unusually deep and that she would encounter heavy drifts.

LOST IN SNOW

But clad only in ordinary knickers, a sweater and a turban she started out alone. During the night when snow began to fall, other hikers in the Ice Canyon Resort became uneasy and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Turner of Pasadena, decided to follow her. They found her tracks in the snow and it was apparent that Mrs. Percy was lost. In some places she had gone in circles.

They found her floundering in a deep drift three miles from where she had started. She was exhausted and numb with cold. When the Turners sought to turn her back she persisted in her determination to reach Kelly's Camp and refused to return with them, but finally collapsed.

OTHER HIKERS MET

The Turners were unable to carry her, so they scooped out a hollow in the snow beside a fallen tree and covered her with all the wraps they could spare. They met two other hikers, J. R. Spivey, Jr., and Kenneth Taylor, as they were approaching Ice Canyon and sent them back to the resort for a stretcher while they returned to the exhausted woman.

They found her blue with the cold and almost rigid. When the stretcher arrived Mrs. Percy was placed on it and the four rescuers fought their way back to the resort, but the victim was dead. A doctor was summoned and efforts were made in vain to resuscitate her.

Mrs. Percy's two children lived with her in Pasadena. She also leaves her husband, Carl Percy, a welfare worker of Oakland, from whom she had separated; and her father, M. R. Powlinson, 70 Fifth avenue, New York City.

SAN JOSE RAIN SETS RECORD FOR MAY

SAN JOSE, May 4. (AP)—San Jose experienced its heaviest May rainstorm since 1915 during the twenty-four hours, ending at 5 o'clock this afternoon, when the precipitation measured .70 of an inch. San Jose seasonal rainfall is now 10.66 inches, as against 8.58 this date last year, and normal of 14.31. Little, if any, damage to agriculture is expected to result from the storm. Mt. Hamilton had two inches of snow last night, and total precipitation of .65 of an inch of rain to noon today.

SAN DIEGO BACK AREA COVERED WITH SNOW

SAN DIEGO, May 4. (AP)—Real Christmas weather, with hail and heavy snowfalls, settled over San Diego's back country today.

By evening mountain downs about sixty miles east of here were covered with a blanket of snow ranging from four to seven inches deep.

Rain, which has fallen over this city and country intermittently since Tuesday, turned into hail in the back country last night and by morning snow was falling at Julian, Pine Hills, Cuyamaca Lake and Palomar.

UNUSUAL RESULTS GAINED IN USE OF CANCER EXTRACT

An unusually gratifying result in the treatment of a sailor from the navy hospital in San Diego who was brought to this city to receive injections of the Coffey-Humber extract was revealed yesterday by physicians in attendance at the clinic at the Pacific Electric Club Building where the weekly cancer treatments are being given.

The sailor, J. W. Miller, had been afflicted for seventeen months with a growth described as a carcinoma of the esophagus, which finally, three months ago, shut off the passage of food and water to his stomach, and since then it had been necessary to feed him through an artificial opening into his stomach. Treatment with the Coffey-Humber extract progressively minimized the growth until last Wednesday when, after sixteen treatments, the patient's esophagus was open, and he has been eating and drinking through his mouth freely since then, it was declared at the clinic.

More than 1000 patients are now being treated in Los Angeles county with the Coffey-Humber extract, which is more than half the number in the whole State. Yesterday 480 treatments were given at the clinic and an additional 170 at various hospitals in the city. As previously, the treatments were administered by Dr. John D. Humber and his wife, Mrs. Agnes Humber.

While there was an understanding yesterday that the 18th inst. will be the date of the beginning of a permanent clinic at the Kaspare Cohn Hospital for treatment of cancer with the Coffey-Humber extract, it was said officially that the date will not be announced until next Saturday. At the same time, it was said, the location of several other permanent clinics and the dates of their openings will be announced.

Young Speaks at Temple Church

The structure and functions of the State government was the subject of an address given last night by Gov. Young at the Temple Baptist Church. The Governor explained the plans for the establishment of a prison in Southern California for youthful first offenders which would care for mshy men now sent to San Quentin prison in company with older criminals.

Gov. Young said his administration had sought to consolidate the many State bureaus under thirteen department heads, and described briefly the work of each section.

RECREATION EXPERT WILL GIVE ADDRESS

Local representatives of the Playground and Recreation Association of America yesterday announced that Lebert H. Weir of New York, recreationalist and park expert, will be in Los Angeles city and county during the week of the 12th to 17th inst. He will be the guest of the City Park Commission, the Playground and Recreation Commission, the Board of Education and the County Department of Recreation Camps and Playgrounds. He will speak on "National Progress in Public Recreation Service" on the evening of the 16th inst. at the Chamber of Commerce.

Change Favored in Traffic Law

Because Section 2 of the traffic ordinance makes it unlawful for anyone other than a police officer or one deputized by the Chief of Police to direct traffic, the Traffic and Street Lighting Committee has recommended an amendment legalizing the use and operation of pedestrian signals, where a citizen, wishing to halt traffic while he crosses a street, presses a button.

STURGES PLAY ARRIVES HERE

'Strictly Dishonorable' Draws Large Audience

Heroine Proves Nouveau Cinderella Type

Speak-easy Romance Naive in Its Qualities

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Conviction that even the philandering artist can be inherently chivalrous, and that the pretty girl is in some way or other still protected from what might seem disaster in the large city, is with a degree of ingenuity re-established in "Strictly Dishonorable," which opened last evening at the Biltmore Theater. In a sense, one might term this the newest of Cinderella dramas, did he not simultaneously trace its genealogy back to the palmy days of "Nellie the Beautiful Cloak Model."

The appeal of the naive—that is what Preston Sturges's play must have had for the New York showgoer. "Strictly Dishonorable" has been the outstanding hit of the season in the eastern metropolis. It comes to the Coast with the bells literally dangling from it, and certainly gauged by the initial reception it promises to be an event both of curiosity and interest.

I personally would suggest not elevating your anticipations too high on going to see it. There is always the danger with New York successes that they may be overrated, and there is the further fact to consider that what may please there because of its seeming novelty often eludes in its attractions the playgoer elsewhere.

This is a fair warning and a necessary one, because while "Strictly Dishonorable" may disappoint somewhat for those who have expectations keyed too high, it is not altogether wanting in qualities of charm and uniqueness. "Serena Blandish," seen here not so long ago, touched on a somewhat similar delicate motivation, and even did it a trifle better in spots than this play, but the Sturges piece is designed for a perhaps broader popular approval, and is far more actual.

The idea in this play is the chief thing. It deals romantically with a young southern girl who comes to Manhattan, and is ingenuously dazzled by its glamour. She is engaged to a chap whom she met in the South, and he brings her to visit his family. They live in West Orange, N. J., and she learns soon to detest both the place and them.

She comes to New York with her fiance, and seeing the town, they arrive by mistake at an Italian speakeasy, frequented by a respectable jurist and an Italian count who is singing at the Metropolitan, under a stage name. Both these gentlemen occupy apartments above the cafe. And thereby, it may be said, hangs the story.

The girl and her fiance have a tiff. He leaves the cafe without her. She is bored with him anyway. The count fascinates her, and is in turn fascinated by her extreme and rather wilful guilelessness. He invites her to spend the night in his apartments. With a mixture of childish innocence and naughtiness she complies, but the naivete that leads her into the romantically compromising situation, inevitably proves a formal safeguard. The count finds her too child-like to be made love to injudiciously, and bids her good-night, tucking her into bed, and giving her a large teddy bear for company.

That the count should subsequently decide to marry the girl may by some who want to look deep be considered as bearing out the title, "Strictly Dishonorable." What chance, if any, have they to be happy together? I know this interpretation has been put on the ending, but it is a decidedly far-fetched one.

Rather distinctly "Strictly Dishonorable" is the Cinderella narrative in a new variation. Its characters, its background, and its heroine are a little different from the others that have gone before. But it is the same old story of the girl of painfully restricted life in quest of the Prince Charming.

Isabelle Parry, the heroine of "Strictly Dishonorable" is one of the offspring in a large family. The other sisters were married. There were left for her small choice of two village swains, one of whom suffered from a nervous twitch, the other who threatened to shoot her if she wouldn't marry him. Hence she wouldn't.

The gentleman from West Orange came and paid court to her. He looked like a potential Prince Charming, but he turned out not to be. Then New York and the titled tenor.

Of course, it is the rather racy incident of the girl's visit to the tenor's apartments, her skillfull disrobing in his presence which perhaps roused much of the comment the play has garnered. The first act is rather weak in incident, and the third is really the best in actual entertainment. Humor is not wanting in many of the lines, but there have been many plays that have outdone this in brightness of even the more superficial order. Altogether, "Strictly Dishonorable" is not something to incite such critical ecstasies as were bestowed upon it in New York, even though it may have its points of charm and appeal.

Skil in the playing of certain roles was not too marked in the production as given last evening. To be sure, there was much delicacy in Miss Margaret Perry's realization of the stronger outlines of the central character of the southern girl, but nuance, and especially the humorous sort of nuance, was occasionally lacking in her interpretation. She improved visibly in the later scenes, but her portrayal as a whole was too studied. She is personally very attractive in the role.

Lino Manzoni as the count was effective, because of him being the Italian type, and on account of his enthusiasm. It was not the supremely convincing interpretation from an acting standpoint that could be demanded in the more subtle situations.

A really able characterization was provided by Lee Baker as Judge Dempsey, except that you never thought of him particularly as a judge, but rather as the source of humor. Ralph Locke and Jerome Daley offered creditable impersonations.

Noted Film Players Reunited

Edmund Lowe and Dolores Del Rio

In a scene from "The Bad One," coming to the United Artists Theater screen Wednesday. The two have appeared together in several productions in the past.

NOTED STAR IN NEW ROLE

Norma Shearer is said to play the most unusual role of her career in "The Divorcee," which comes to the Criterion Theater on the 14th inst., following the run of "The King of Jazz."

With Ursula Parrott's novel of martial infelicity as his inspiration, Director Robert Leonard has used "Ex-Wife" as the basis of the most startling talking picture in which Norma Shearer has appeared, the Criterion reports.

She plays the role of a woman who, convinced that her husband has been unfaithful, matches his infidelities in what is called an amazing manner.

Announcement that "The King of Jazz" has only a week more to run at the Criterion has brought an immediate response from those who do not wish to miss what is declared to be the best of the motion-picture revues.

Oliver Credited as Art Director of Fox Picture

The art director of "Song O' My Heart" at Grauman's Chinese Theater, Harry Oliver, has probably had more field experience in selecting true atmospheric settings and locale for backgrounds of motion pictures than any other art director in Hollywood, it is said.

During his long association with motion pictures, Oliver has traveled in France, Italy, England and Ireland in search of colorful backgrounds for motion-picture productions. He spent some time in Italy designing the settings for "Ben Hur" and made two pictures in France for Rex Ingram. Last summer he journeyed to Ireland, where he filmed some scenes for "Song O' My Heart."

Oliver has had a long association as art director for Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, and designed settings for many of their productions.

Mei to Portray Feminine Roles at Philharmonic

Music, dancing and drama are combined in the repetoire of plays which Mei Lan-fang, China's foremost actor, will present at the Philharmonic Auditorium for a week starting on the 13th inst.

Mei will portray the roles of leading women characters in the plays. Among those to be presented are dramatizations of ancient Chinese legends, namely "The Suspected Slipper," "Fox Spirit in the Body of a Beautiful Woman," "The Heroic Maid," "Vengenance on the Bandit General" and others. Through his pantomimic gestures, and with the aid of Miss Soo Yong, mistress of ceremonies, the audience is acquainted with the action of the stories.

"Ingagi" Will Continue Run

"Ingagi," the film record of African jungle life which has been breaking records at the Orpheum for the past three weeks, enters its fourth week at the Broadway house today. A special midnight performance has been announced for tonight.

This is the second time the Orpheum has found it necessary to extend the run of this picture. "Ingagi" is claimed to be an actual record of wild life in the Belgian Congo as photographed by Sir Hubert Winstead and his party of scientists during a three-year trek into the interior.

'Student Prince' in Fourth Week

Seats for the fourth week of Lillian Albertson's stage production of "The Student Prince" go on sale at the Majestic Theater today.

This Sigmund Romberg romance of a royal prince who loved a Heidelberg maid has been meeting the approval of patrons at every performance, it is said. Allan Prior and Elvira Tanzi have the leading roles.

R.-K.-O. Theater Announces List of New Films

Numbered among the players in new films listed for this month at the R.-K.-O. Theater are Lowell Sherman, Alice Joyce, Richard Dix and Constance Bennett. Sherman and Miss Joyce are co-featured in the Radio picture, "He Knew Women," beginning the 15th inst. Adapted from the play, "The Second Man," by S. N. Behrman, it deals with the philandering methods of a modern lady.

The following Thursday, Richard Dix will be seen in "Lovin' the Ladies." This is comedy drama adapted from the original play, "I Love You," by William Le Baron. Lois Wilson, Rita La Roy and Allen Kearns are among the supporting players. Melville Brown directed.

For the week starting the 22nd inst., Constance Bennett is starred in the Pathe picture, "Rich People." In the supporting cast are Regis Toomey, Robert Ames, Mahlon Hamilton, John Loder, Polly Ann Young and Ilka Chase.

Duffy Selects "Gorilla" Cast

Henry Duffy has completed the cast for "The Gorilla," Ralph Spence's mystery comedy, which the Duffy Players will offer at the Hollywood Playhouse starting Saturday.

In addition to Clifford Dempsey and Frank McCormack, who will be seen in their original roles of Mulligan and Garrity, the dumb-bell detectives, the cast will include Flora Bramley, recently at the President in "Your Uncle Dudley;" John Maurice Sullivan, Gale Gordon, John De Wesse, Edward Seabrook, Walter Marshall, Philip Morris, John Manning and Victor Donald.

Rehearsals of "The Gorilla" are now in progress under the direction of Edwin H. Curtis.

ALAN MOODY PREMIERES HIS FARCE

Kay Hammond Plays Lead Role in New Offering at Vine Street

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Alan B. Moody, described somewhat enigmatically in the program as a new comet, is the author of "The Questionable Elaine," a comedy which was accorded a premiere last night at the Vine-street Theater under the management of no less than Mr. Moody himself. The large audience which witnessed the three short acts was under some misapprehension throughout as to exactly what sort of comedy "The Questionable Elaine" would eventually become; and, indeed, no final decision was arrived at with the curtain. Perhaps it was Mr. Moody's intention that the interrogation implied in the title of his play should extend to the play itself. I dunno.

For its locale, Mr. Moody chose the house of Lady Claston, Berkeley Square, London, and an apartment in St. John's Wood ten days later. Herein come, at sluggish intervals, various members of what are usually referred to by the players as "our set." Out of a series of incipient discourses emerge, at various intervals and from various members, what I might in a moment of utter abandon refer to as "epigrams." Emerges also the disclosure of an unrest in the soul of one Elaine Claston, who, weary of Piccadilly, Pall Mall and Pimlico, would take unto herself a lover.

The only prospect at hand is Lester Risdenbut he has been precisely thus for nigh onto eight years. For Elaine, there is nothing exciting in that. So rather than be cheated entirely out of the love that is so justly her due, she—easy now—invents one! His name, suggested by the maid, is the Hon. Rupert Fartheringay.

From this promise Mr. Moody develops an occasional complication, his smash second-act curtain bringing the questionable Elaine to the floor in a dead faint as there issues from the Continental phone the voice of a fellow who calls himself—hold tight—Rupert Fartheringay!

But it is for his last seance that the author reserves his trump card—the disclosure that this dream lover materialized out of thin air is none other than—and if I betray a confidence here, it is solely in the interests of inescapable truth—the very Leslie Risden who for eight years has stood for all that it is unimaginative, all that is farthest from the ecstatic dreams of young womanhood in our set!

This piece needs speeding up; it needs definite establishment as comedy, farce, satire, or slapstick; it needs people who abide a little faithfully by the rules of our set or any other; most of all, it needs cohesion. Its cast is acceptable in some particulars—Kay Hammond, who received an ovation from her many admirers, tried palpably to keep the ball rolling, even succeeding at such moments as the one following her too-free indulgence in gin and bitters. Grayce Hampton gave more than a faint semblance of pointed character to the "deliciously profane" Lady Claston. Lydia Knott and Byron Alden proved satisfactory in bits. A bad case of miscasting, Dennis D'Auburn lacked the necessary quality required of what, however much we may puzzle over the term, was nominally the hero. Others were Symona Boniface, Elwyn Eaton, Ernest Murray and Josephine Challen.

"The Questionable Elaine" is Mr. Moody's first commercial play. His activities in connection with the Community Theater Guild of Santa Monica have been, they say, highly laudable. Coming into the larger Vine street, it is possible that, at the beginning, he finds its comparative exactions a little bewildering. One has the sense, now and again, of there being too much theater for too little play.

Apetz Lectures at Fox Carthay

Daily lectures on life on the western front are being made by Lieut. William Apetz, former Prussian marine, who is in charge of the war museum established at the Carthay Circle Theater in connection with the showing of "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Lieut. Apetz and Hans Morehart furnished much of the technical data for the Universal war drama, and built miniature duplicates of French and German trenches. Various types of arms, trench telephones, radio and hospital kits, the German soldier's relief pack and equipment, are displayed and their service outlined in each talk.

HUGE GAIN MADE IN CROP INCOME

Returns in Southland Area Increase $15,000,000

Los Angeles County Leads With $66,755,023

Commerce Chamber Report Shows Soaring Values

Reaching a new high level in agricultural return, the ten southern counties of California produced $368,051,266 in soil products during 1929 from 1,901,650 acres. These figures, compiled by the agricultural department of the Chamber of Commerce and released in its monthly market and field report, "Southern California Crops," indicate an increase in crop values last year over the previous season of close to $15,000,000.

Maintaining premier position in this area, as well as nationally, Los Angeles county produced $66,755,023 in soil products, which, with live-stock and live-stock products, gives this county a total agricultural income of over $92,000,000. Los Angeles is the only county which recorded live-stock values, the report states, an item which adds materially to the agricultural wealth of most counties in the south.

ORANGE SECOND

Orange county ranked second in income last year, returning $41,323,000. The county is making tremendous strides in agricultural production, according to the report, and now leads all counties of the State in value of oranges, ranking second in lima beans and sugar beets. Few sections are as versatile in production, it is pointed out, as Orange county produces an extremely wide range of crops.

San Bernardino county, with a soil products return of $35,393,623, ranked third in the southern counties, while fourth on the list was Imperial, with an income last year of $30,379,308 for crops alone. Other counties reported as follows: Ventura, $24,063,738; Riverside, $23,033,881; Kern, $15,637,155; Santa Barbara, $12,780,442; San Diego, $11,414,451, and San Luis Obispo, $6,971,215.

The chamber report emphasizes the fact that these returns are for soil products alone.

CITRUS FRUITS LEAD

The principal crop in point of value, according to the report, is citrus fruits, with a total F.O.B. income of $110,250,923, a slight reduction from the 1928 figure. This represented oranges, $81,238,631; lemons, $20,374,875 and grapefruit, $2,547,417. The combined citrus acreage in the ten southern counties is now 190,003 bearing acres.

Stimulated by the increasing dairy herds in this area, alfalfa hay has become an important crop during recent years, according to the chamber's agricultural department. In 1929 the crop was planted on 253,223 acres of land, which produced 974,958 tons valued at $17,396,084.

With the high price range for lima beans, the southern counties' income for this crop reaches the highest point in several years, with a return of $13,280,033 reported. Cotton brought a larger income than ever before in spite of the reduction in price since the first of the year. The 106,900 acres of this crop planted last season returned $8,778,698.

WALNUT INCOME LARGE

Walnuts, planted on 75,695 acres, returned growers $10,974,129, which represents an increase of $2,000,000 over 1928, but not equal to the 1927 crop, which brought $13,000,000. Ventura county is now the leading walnut-producing section of the State, according to the report, with a crop valuation of $3,291,718 last year.

Returns for other important crops in Southern California last year were reported as follows: Avocadoes, $711,547; apples, $756,099; apricots, $2,676,061; peaches, $2,798,719; pears, $797,372; grapes, $8,104,244; berries, $1,412,676; grain hay, $5,157,397; sugar beets, $1,545,455; barley $3,219,548; lettuce, $11,541,544; celery, $3,200,852; cantaloupes, $11,440,842, and tomatoes, $1,631,729.

The Southern California crop report issued by the Chamber of Commerce was prepared from county records by Ross H. Gast under the direction of Dr. George P. Clements, manager, agricultural department, and is available upon request to the organization.

AUTO DRIVER TO BE SENTENCED

Motorist Who Killed Three In Safety Zone Faces Prison Term

Thomas Bell, 36-year-old plumber, today is scheduled to appear before Superior Judge Aggeler for sentence on charges of manslaughter and driving while intoxicated.

Last week Bell pleaded guilty to two counts of manslaughter and one of driving while intoxicated. At that time he was on trial charged with the murder of two persons killed when he drove his automobile through a safety zone at Avalon Boulevard and Fifty-ninth street. Since the complaint was filed against him, one other person died as a result of injuries. Four others were seriously injured.

Those killed in the accident were J. I. Bailey, Alois Kuebler and Ira Hamilton.

Assessor Will Address Club

"Local Assessment Taxation" will be discussed by County Assessor E. W. Hopkins at a meeting of the county and municipal government and the State affairs sections of the City Club at noon today. At the open forum of the club this evening Frank C. Touton, vice-president of the University of Southern California, will speak on "Twentieth Century Trends in Education."

Wednesday's luncheon program will be featured by an address on "Crime and the Child," by Mrs. Florence L. Galley, prominent social welfare worker of Detroit. A community sing will be conducted at noon next Friday.

Eagle Fledgling Soars to Record

Hard Trip Ended

Frank Goldsborough arrives at Grand Central Air Terminal here, thirty-four hours from New York.

YOUNG FLYER ATTAINS GOAL

Frank Goldsborough Cuts Fourteen Hours From Junior Transcontinental Record

Conquering wind and rain in a belated attempt at attaining his goal, Frank Goldsborough, 19-year-old transcontinental flyer, set down his airplane American Boy at Grand Central Air Terminal yesterday, ending a flight that began at Westfield, N. J., April 28, clipping almost fourteen hours from the junior record established last year by Dick James. He landed at 1:15 p.m., shortly after hopping off from Colton, where unfavorable weather conditions had detained him since late Friday, and announced his flying time from the Atlantic Coast as 34h. 3m. James's record was 48h.

Goldsborough was escorted into the city by a convoy of planes that set out to blaze the trail on his last short lap when aviation officials feared he might lose his bearings in the heavy weather. The escorting pilots found him at the Colton Airport, ready to hop off, although unaware of their mission.

The youthful flyer made the cross-country trip in a Fleet biplane powered with a 100-horsepower Kinner motor. He planned on reaching Los Angeles in three days, but a minor crack-up at El Paso and numerous forced landings due to storms delayed his arrival. His itinerary included fuel or overnight stops at Wheeling, Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Tulsa, Springfield, Fort Worth, Midland, El Paso and Tucson. After leaving Tucson last Friday he was forced down at Yuma and later, just before darkness, at Colton.

On his arrival yesterday Goldsborough went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Kimball, 2452 South La Brea avenue, where he will be a guest until tomorrow, when he expects to start his return flight.

Goldsborough is the son of Lieut. Bruce Goldsborough, who disappeared with Mrs. Frances Grayson in the ill-fated Dawn, a Sikorsky amphibian, on an attempted trans-Atlantic flight nearly two years ago. He is a graduate of Flushing High School, Flushing, L. I., and lives with his mother, grandmother and great-grandmother at Jackson Heights, N. Y. He holds a private pilot's license and up to the time of his eastern hop-off, had eighty-four flying hours to his credit.

Masonic Club at University Play Sponsor

Inaugurating a series of entertainments, "Kempy," a three-act comedy, will be presented by a group of Santa Monica players the 23rd inst., under auspices of the Masonic Club of University of California at Los Angeles.

The play is to be staged in the new clubhouse, 10886 LeConte avenue, Westwood, under direction of Mrs. Martha Wentworth. It is now in rehearsal, the cast including Edith Mattern, Mary Morgan, Anita Williams, Leon McReynolds, Zulene Brandon, Tyrus Moorehouse, Thomas Fox and Hugo Kahn.

In addition to the auditorium, the new clubhouse has a dining-room, kitchen and study and, according to C. H. Dodds, president, is serving as a gathering place for all Masonic affiliated organizations.

MRS. HUNNEWELL WILL READ "SILVER CORD"

Sidney Howard's famous play, "The Silver Cord," will be the subject of Mrs. Alice O. Hunnewell's dramatic recital in the May Company Exposition Hall today at 2 p.m. This play, with its theme of all-consuming mother love, is considered the greatest of Sidney Howard's plays, having been a "best-seller" both as book and Broadway production. Mrs. Hunnewell, who is known as California's outstanding dramatic recitalist, is a member of the faculty at U.C.L.A. This is the fourth of her series of recitals in the May Company's new downtown cultural center.

STREET EXTENSION PLEA GIVEN COUNCIL

A petition asking for the extension of Fourteenth street at a width of sixty feet from Georgia street to Bond street and from Valencia street to Toberman street has been filed with the City Council by property owners. The petition was referred to the City Engineer and the Street Opening and Widening Committee.

IMPROVEMENTS ORDERED

The City Council has adopted the final ordinances for the improvement of Glen street, the improvement of Burwood avenue, Highgate avenue and the improvement of Garey street from Second to Third streets.

CENSUS TALLY WORK RUSHED

Figures on Most of County's Cities Due This Week

Particular Interest Attaches to Beverly Hills Count

Trial in Refusal-to-Answer Case to Be Set Today

With the staffs of the five United States census district supervisors in the county engaged in a final check of their districts and working at top speed to tabulate the figures for the areas which have been completely checked, it was said yesterday by the supervisors that the totals for virtually all the important cities in the county outside of Los Angeles itself probably will be announced before the end of this week.

Of the larger communities, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica and Long Beach probably will know their official populations by Wednesday, it was said. Particular interest is being attached to the count in Beverly Hills because of the hope of local boosters that its percentage of increase since 1930 may exceed even the 1011 per cent of Culver City, which is the greatest increase revealed to date for any community in Southern California.

In an effort to assure the counting of every inhabitant of Santa Monica within the two days which will be devoted to a recheck of that area, John L. S. Cooke, secretary of the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce, yesterday made an appeal to the civic pride of any uncounted ones who may exist in the coast city. Unofficial estimates of the city's population have placed it at 45,000, and civic leaders there are anxious to see the boasts based on this estimate certified as correct by the government.

The first person in Los Angeles county to be arrested on a charge of refusing to answer questions asked by census enumerators will appear today before United States District Judge McCormick to have his case set for trial. He is Ralph Crossman of Glendale, an inheritance clerk in the county treasurer's office.

It is charged in an information filed in court that Crossman refused to give the birthplace of his father the date of his own birth and the date of his marriage. He is now at liberty on bond of $50.

SCHUYLER, ATTORNEY, SUCCUMBS

Well-Known Corporation Man Dies Unexpectedly at Beverly Hills Home

Walter Schuyler, nationally known corporation lawyer, residing on Schuyler Road, Beverly Hills, died at his home yesterday morning at 1:15 o'clock following a heart attack. With his wife he returned from a year's sojourn in Europe but two weeks ago.

The Schuyler home is one of the show places of Beverly Hills and is situated adjacent the Doheny home. He had lived here quietly since it was built eight years ago. He was born at Colorado Springs, Colo., July 2, 1874, and was graduated from the law department of the University of Denver. With his brother Karl Schuyler, also a lawyer, he was attorney for the Mid-West Oil Company. He moved to Los Angeles eight years ago and has not practiced law since his coming here.

He has traveled considerably and his European trip from which he just returned was an extensive one, including many of the Mediterranean and French resorts. He leaves his widow and one brother.

He was a member of the Los Angeles Country Club and was a Mason. No arrangements have been made for the funeral pending word from his brother who resides at Denver.

ROBBERY SUSPECTS TO PLEAD

Gore and Adler Will be Arraigned Today on Bank Banditry Charge

Pleas to a charge of robbing the Seaboard National Bank of $3200 on April 24, last, are scheduled to be entered today before Superior Judge Wood by Charles Gore, 21 years of age, and Harry Adler, 23.

The complaint charges that the defendants drove up in front of the bank and Adler entered and held up H. L. Brink, branch manager, taking $3200. Later, Adler told police that Gore did not know about the hold-up, but thought he was entering the bank to obtain change for a $20 bill.

Attorneys for Gore demanded a sanity trial before Superior Judge Doran, but it was refused. Whether the attorneys will enter a twin plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity when the case is called today was not indicated. Gore is the son of Michael Gore, theatrical magnate.

Straw Hats to Fit Personality

Personality in straw hats? Well, just watch the straws that bloom in Los Angeles on "Straw Hat Day," the 13th inst. The dealers promise personality in every one of them. They say that the building of straw hats to fit the individual personalities of wearers has been one of the big steps in the hat-making industry this year.

There will be straws to suit the man with the long, sour face; straws for the chubby-faced man who always wears a smile; straws for the man who laughs, straws for the one who takes life with a frown.

INJUNCTION ARGUMENT SET TODAY

Stock Exchange Petition in Julian Matter Up Before Appellate Court

Arguments are scheduled to take place today before Division Two, District Court of Appeal, on petitions of some sixty members and former members of the stock exchange to restrain Superior Judge Tappaan from hearing any further proceedings in the $12,000,000 Julian Petroleum Corporation stockholders' recovery suit.

Alternative writs temporarily staying Superior Court action were granted in response to four petitions bearing the names of sixty-two brokers. Request for an alternative writ was made in a fifth petition presented by Edward Dunk and Gerald C. Lambert, but this application was denied because, it was said, the situation presented was covered by another petition.

Today's proceedings in the Appellate Court are to determine whether or not the temporary restraining orders shall be made permanent.

One of the chief arguments advanced in the numerous petitions is that the stock exchange is not such an association as can be sued in its association name. It is further contended that the only statute, which attempts to confer that right is unconstitutional.

POSTPONEMENT EXPECTED IN GRIDER TRIAL

The trial of Frank C. Grider, original Julian case juror, will be called in Superior Judge Wilson's court at 10 a.m. today, but probably will be continued until a later date because the defense attorney, William Beirne, is engaged in another case.

The prosecution charges that Grider sold a house to Jacob Berman, alias Jack Bennett, for $16,000 during the first Julian case trial with a promise to acquit Berman and others of the charges pending against them.

According to James P. Costello, deputy District Attorney prosecuting the case, the State probably will not oppose the continuance motion.

TONSORIAL CLEAN-UP UNDER WAY

Barber Examiners Open Drive for Betterment of Conditions in Shops

Betterment of conditions in the barber business is the aim of a campaign launched by the State Board of Barber Examiners that threatens to bring wholesale revocation of licenses, it was stated yesterday by C. E. Rynearson, secretary of the board.

Rynearson said the board has revoked two licenses in this district and suspended two others since the clean-up got under way. Five other cases await disposition at the next board meeting.

Establishments described as "graft shops" are being subjected to keen scrutiny. Rynearson said the heads of these shops seek to mulct gullible customers by prevailing upon them to pay for expensive treatments for various troubles existing only in the minds of the "outlaw" operators.

"The board is determined to wipe these shops out completely," said Rynearson. "They are a disgrace to the barber profession and the board has the solid backing of all the legitimate barbers in Los Angeles in its campaign against these grafters."

The State Board of Barber Examiners will hold examinations for barbers seeking State licenses beginning today at 1233 East Seventh street. Four days will be devoted to the tests.

New Passenger Service Started by Western Air

A new airplane passenger service connecting Dallas, Tex., with the Pacific Coast over two routes, with a flying time of twelve hours, was inaugurated yesterday by the Western Air Express. The company announced, however, that the first west-bound plane on the new schedule had been forced to land last night at Phoenix, due to storms, and probably will continue its journey this morning.

The first route of the new line will carry passengers from Dallas via El Paso, Tucson, San Diego and Los Angeles to San Francisco, leaving Dallas at 5 a.m. and arriving at its destination at 7 p.m.

The second route with a scheduled start at 9 a.m. from Dallas will go via Amarillo and Albuquerque, where it will connect with the Kansas City plane and its passengers continue through Holbrook and Kingman, Ariz., arriving in Los Angeles at 8 p.m.

A return ship from the Pacific Coast was due yesterday at Dallas at 7:15 p.m. but was forced to return to Los Angeles because of heavy rainstorms en route.

Kearns and Aide Again Lose in Damage Action

Jack Kearns, prize fight promoter, and Theodore Hayes, trainer, have lost again in a damage suit brought against them over an automobile accident. The case has been in court three times.

As in the previous two trials, Superior Judge Archbald has held in favor of Edward S. Ryan and Lester R. Gates, the plaintiffs, allowing the first a judgment for $3400 and the second one for $5000. In each instance the case was reopened for the admission of newly discovered evidence.

The plaintiffs asserted they were injured on January 13, 1925, on Valley Boulevard when a car driven by the defendants sideswiped their automobile, forcing them off the road into the ditch.

PIRATE GOLD DRAWS MAN ON WIERD SEA

Strangely wrought golden ingots plundered from the Incas of Peru, loot from the burned city of Panama taken by the pirate Sir Henry Morgan and buried on the lonely Cocos Island in the Pacific Ocean off the Panama Canal, will once more lure modern treasure-hunters with the expedition which will leave Los Angeles during the latter part of this month, headed by S. E. Torsak.

Torsak said yesterday that although scores of expeditions have searched the tangled jungle growth on the ocean speck and have brought back nothing more than the bites of countless insects, he has definite information where two treasure hordes are buried that will total in value many millions.

He cautiously told how he had traced the origin[al] the early [buc]ccaneers from the [bur]ned office of the [Bri]tish London and that [in]formation has been [ob]tained from channels in [Pa]nama that the treasure [will] be in the form of [gold] bars offered the [ear]liest explorers by the [Ind]ians as ransom and that [a] fleet of gold and [silver] from the City of [Panama] loot of Sir [Henry Morgan] sacked the [City] in 1671.

Police Uniform Work Delayed

An additional two weeks has been granted to Los Angeles manufacturers of new police uniforms by the Police Commission in order to enable them to comply with the specifications, following an inspection of eleven sample uniforms by Sergt. C. C. Jackson, recently appointed inspector of uniforms by the commission.

During the last week Jackson has been busy ripping open samples to see that they comply with the specifications. He found no two of the eleven samples alike and called in the Police Commission and representatives of the manufacturers for a conference, with the result that the extra time was allowed certain manufacturers, who were unable to obtain the sufficient quantity of the required serge to fill their orders.

OIL COMPANIES' FIGHT DECIDED

Rio Grande Gets Judgment Against Eureka

Latter Corporation Loses Counter Action

Ruling Rendered by Court on Disputed Point

A judgment for $15,737.23 was given the Rio Grande Oil Company against the Eureka Petroleum Corporation for gasoline sold to the latter between January 1, and May 6, 1928, by Superior Judge Yankwich in a decision just handed down after a trial of several days. The hearing of the case was held several weeks ago, after which Judge Yankwich took his decision under submission.

Two suits were before the court, counter-actions brought one day apart by the two companies. The Eureka Petroleum Corporation sued the Rio Grande Oil Company for damages for asserted breach of contract. It was contended that on October 18, 1927, it entered into an agreement with the Rio Grande company, whereby the latter agreed to sell Eureka a minimum of fifteen and a maximum of thirty tank-cars of gasoline a day at 10 cents a gallon, including the 3 cents for State tax. The tank-cars hold 12,000 gallons each. Later the price was raised to 10 1-4 cents a gallon.

SHORTAGE CITED

The Rio Grande company delivered all the gasoline demanded by the Eureka corporation up to March 1, 1928. Thereafter, the Eureka corporation complained, it demanded a 12,000-gallon tank-car, but received only a portion of the amount demanded, and complained of a shortage at the time the contract was terminated on May 6, 1928. The shortage, it asserted, amounted to 705,000 gallons of gasoline. Contending that gasoline was worth 15 1-2 cents a gallon in the open market, the Eureka Corporation asked for damages in the sum of $37,012.50, being the difference between the agreed price and the market price.

The Rio Grande Oil Company, in its suit, sought to recover $15,737.23, asserted to be due for gasoline sold to the Eureka corporation and not paid for. In answer to the latter's suit, the Rio Grande company asserted that in December, 1927, checks in the sum of $9671.10 given them by the Eureka company in payment for gasoline were not honored by the bank on which they were drawn and have never been paid. By reason of this the Rio Grande company canceled its contract. Thereafter, the company asserted, it sold the Eureka company gasoline on a day-to-day basis and at prices which were changed from time to time.

COURT'S FINDINGS

The Rio Grande Oil Company was represented at the hearing by Attorney H. L. Dunnigan while the law firm of Finlayson, Bennett & Morrow and Attorney H. L. Knoop, represented the Eureka company.

Judge Yankwich's decision holds there was no breach of contract on the part of the Rio Grande company. On the contrary, his decision says, the agreement was properly canceled because of the Eureka company's failure to pay for gasoline.

A feature of the opinion is the portion wherein Judge Yankwich discusses the question as to who has the say about the amount of gasoline to be delivered in a contract which designates a maximum and minimum. It was argued by the Eureka corporation that as the Rio Grande company is the larger concern and a jobber, the choice lay with the Eureka company. Judge Yankwich, however, held that from the nature of the contract the Rio Grande company was bound to deliver only the minimum. As to the difference between the minimum and maximum, they could, if they chose, deliver it, but were not compelled to make such delivery.

COUSIN OF KING FIESTA GUEST

Princess Entertained at Casa de Adobe

Mrs. Florencia Sepulveda (left) and Princess Maria de Bourbon

PRINCESS MARIA DE BOURBON, first cousin of King Alfonso of Spain, was the honor guest and an interested spectator at the annual fiesta yesterday at the Casa de Adobe.

Despite the rain which continued most of the afternoon, the affair drew one of the largest crowds in its history and many Spanish families of pioneer days in Southern California were represented. Mrs. Florencia Sepulveda Dodson-Schoneman acted as hostess and the program featured songs and dances reminiscent of nearly 100 years ago, when Los Angeles was a pueblo consisting of only a dozen or so adobe houses.

In 1850, only three American families lived in what is now Los Angeles, according to J. Gregg Layne, vice-president of the Southern California Historical Society, who spoke on "El Pueblo in 1850." The first English-speaking school, the speaker said, was established in that year with an appropriation of $80 a month for its maintenance. The only church was that which still stands facing the Plaza and the first newspaper, La Estralla, came into existence about 1855. Prior to that time the town had only a talkative barber, one Peter Biggs, whose shop served as a clearing-house for news of the community.

Real-estate values were somewhat lower than today, Layne said, citing as an illustration that a lot on Broadway, 120x165 feet, could be purchased for $50. Early records, he added, indicate that $12,000 was considered a reasonable tax valuation on 100,000 acres of land in the San Fernando Valley.

Spanish influence prevailed to such a degree in those pioneer days, the speaker asserted, that even the names of newcomers were changed in many instances. One of the first non-Spanish settlers was a Dutchman who bore the names of John Sunday on his arrival. He soon became known as Juan Domingo and became a successful vineyardist. Many other names were altered for a similar reason.

Other speakers were Joseph Scott, president of the board of trustees of the Southwest Museum and Dr. James A. B. Scherer, museum director. Senorita Rosalinda Garfia sang a group of Spanish songs and the California Dancers offered several picturesque numbers. Music was provided by Garcia's orchestra.

ALIMONY PROBLEM AIDED

Policeman Frank Kenewell, father of five children, defendant in a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Caroline Kenewell, was in Superior Judge Guerin's court on a question of alimony. "I get only $180 a month," he protested when the court suggested that Mrs. Kenewell ought to have $120 a month to support her children, "and a policeman must eat." "So must a policeman's children," replied the court. S. S. Hahn, attorney for Mrs. Kenewell, offered to forego a fee, to which the court agreed.

CHAMBER WORK HELPS BUSINESS

Letters Praise Efforts to Boost Sales

New Industrial Directory Being Compiled

Distribution Gets Results from Buyers

Responding to the urgent need for aiding business and industrial firms in this area to solve their individual problems during the business disturbance period the Chamber of Commerce is engaged on one of the most constructive campaigns in its history, according to the views expressed in scores of letters from business men here, received by President Austin of the chamber.

The commendation and credit that is being bestowed upon the chamber follows the action of the organization in urging the beginning of various kinds of building, supplemental to the Hoover stabilization program, the campaign to increase the consumption of locally made and jobbed products, and the campaign to extend the markets for these same products into both the domestic field of the eleven western States and foreign countries, President Austin said. This work is separate from the intensive efforts being made by the chamber to "sell" Los Angeles county to new non-competitive industries.

DIRECTORY REVISION

President Austin said that to make the campaign still more effective, work is now being completed on a new and revised edition of the manufacturers and foreign trade directory, showing the firms in this and neighboring counties engaged in manufacturing, together with the various jobbing and distributing firms, and the various products manufactured, classified both by trade names and commodities. Through recently placing this directory in the hands of prominent western buyers, 1500 local firms reported to the chamber that they had received correspondence as a direct result of the information which the book contains. In addition to this number, 1700 buyers requested specific data and directories from the chamber's domestic trade department.

In revising the directory, officials of the chamber have obtained direct evidence of the rapidity with which the foreign-commerce idea is being grasped by local manufacturers, said Austin, declaring that the former listing of 600 exporting and importing firms will be increased to 1000 in the issue now being compiled.

SURVEY BEING MADE

To assure the authenticity of all material in the directory industrial and trade engineers of the chamber are now engaged on a survey covering the entire Los Angeles metropolitan area. This includes parts of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, as well as Los Angeles. To date, this survey shows substantial gains both in the number of industries and in the volume of manufactured output, as compared with the last industrial census of 1927.

The new directory is issued without expense to the firms mentioned and is published in an edition of 15,000 for distribution not only in the western States but in foreign countries as well. In addition to the use of the directory, the campaign is being carried on through the agency of speakers appearing before dinner meetings, clubs and other gatherings with personal contact work in the East, the western States and in foreign countries by engineers and trade commissioners employed by the chamber.

HEALTH OFFICER HONORED

Dr. Pomeroy Asked to Aid in Organization of White House Conference on Child Care

Dr. John L. Pomeroy, county health officer, has been asked to assist in the organization of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection and to serve on the technical advisory subcommittee on nutrition service in schools in recognition of the outstanding child health program he inaugurated in Los Angeles county.

The summer health schools, conducted throughout the county each year during July and August and in which more than 2000 physically - below-par children have been directed back to the road to health, and also the child hygiene and parental conferences, of which seventy-five are held weekly at sixty different localities throughout the county, have created especial interest in the survey of the White House conference of the child-health conditions of the United States.

DR. J. L. POMEROY.

Los Angeles county has the largest county health department in the United States, according to a recent announcement of the California State Board of Health; the department has jurisdiction over an area of 3400 square miles and renders service to thirty-four incorporated cities.

SUMMER HEALTH SCHOOLS

The summer health schools were started as a demonstration in child health in 1925 by Dr. Pomeroy, who conceived the idea of making use of idle school equipment during the summer months for the building up of physically below-par children. The plan was sponsored by the Los Angeles County Tuberculosis and Health Association and received the co-operation of the county school board. Last summer sixteen health schools were maintained in various county districts, each with an attendance limit of thirty boys and girls between the ages of 7 and 8 years, selected by the school nurse from tuberculosis-contact children, cardiacs, convalescents from communicable diseases or other severe illnesses and those generally undernourished and physically below par. Not actually ill, child or one with active tuberculosis was admitted.

This year summer health schools will open July 1 and continue for eight weeks. The daily program of the health schools begins at 9 a.m. and includes morning inspection and physical exercises under supervision of the nurse; lessons in personal hygiene, health habits and safety; sun baths supervised by a physiotherapist, also posture instruction for the development of chest and lungs and the correction of orthopedic defects; handicraft and supervised play.

LUNCHEON PREPARED

A hot luncheon is prepared by a dietitian. Orange juice is served mid-morning and mid-afternoon. There is an hour of sleep in a darkened, well-ventilated room, supervised by the nurse. School is dismissed at 3 p.m.

"The summer health school is primarily a demonstration in child health," Dr. Pomeroy says. "The objective is to carry the standards of normal healthful living demonstrated at the schools into the home. For this reason parents are requested to attend various conferences at the health schools regarding the health problems of their own child. The summer health schools are also designed to serve as a practical demonstration in school health which can be adopted into the school curriculum throughout the school year. A health-adjustment room for each public school is the ideal. This movement has been launched as an outgrowth of the summer health-school program in the Monrovia schools."

Another outstanding piece of child-health work which has received official recognition at Washington, D. C., is the organization of a "well-baby" clinic by Dr. Pomeroy under the Bureau of Maternal and Child Hygiene and conducted at the chain of health centers built in the ten health districts of the county. Here well babies are weighed, measured and checked as to progress and mothers instructed by a child-hygiene physician as to how to care for them and keep them well.

THEFT OUTWEIGHS LACK OF INTENTION

James Mason, 22 years of age, entered the apartment of Betty Jones at 1454 Crown Hill avenue with a pass key hoping to find something to eat, he told arresting officers, according to testimony in Municipal Judge Ballard's court, where he was undergoing preliminary hearing on a burglary charge. After entering, he took a fountain pen and pencil, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Holland established. Lewis Schaffer, defense attorney, contended that his client did not commit burglary because he did not intend to steal when he entered the apartment. Judge Ballard over-ruled the motion to dismiss and ordered the man held for Superior Court trial.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

by Honore Booth

FASHION EXPERT OF HARPER'S BAZAAR

NEW YORK, May 4. (Exclusive) The Easter bonnet will be followed by a parade of such hats as will startle those of us of the "felt for winter, straw for summer" turn of mind. The development of fabrics for hats during the last months makes one of the most fascinating pages of fashion history. New straws, new wools, new materials and new combinations. The result of the more supple and varied materials is more subtle manipulation, more interesting draping and cutting.

Extremes

It is curious to note that in a season which has introduced some of the most formal and largest hats that have been worn, a season in which Suzanne Talbot's directoire bonnet with its wide hair brim, tunnel-like in the front and cut away to practically nothing in the back, has had a success, there is a swinging back to th beret for formal and informal wear. "No hats," says Paris, "are being worn by the smartest women." Which means that the choicest of the chic are donning the little knitted and fabric caps for all times of the day. The tweed of the suit is echoed in the hat, a soft little affair which is without body or defined shape. The wearer puts it on as it suits her best.

Materials

The material range is amazing Linen, and what adorable things Agnes does with it! Shantung, pique made their debut during the Palm Beach season, and will continue into the summer, so great was their success. Big hats are being made of braid, and transparent braid is being combined with other materials, such as hair lace, for garden party and bridesmaid hats, with bewitching results. Descat has made berets in antelope, though this is a spring rather than a summer fashion. Belting is everywhere, for entire hats and as trimming. Milan sailors are staging a sensational comeback, and are even being revived in the shapes of old. I saw one by Reboux set rather high on the hat, with a band of pink grosgrain facing the brim on the top. Agnes draws satin ribbon through the base of the crown so that it shows close to the face, beneath the brim, like a bandeau. Mado designs a felt suit hat and trims it with starched gingham. Taffeta looks formal and packs informally, a good thing to note before you plan a summer's travel wardrobe. Maline edges panamalac. Panamalac cloth, as treated by Germaine Page has threads drawn to give an openwork effect. The look of linen is achieved by stitching georgette over a maline hair foundation. Eyelets in the scalloped edge of a brim may be bound with cellophane in the pastel shade of the hat. Germaine Page stitches velvet on a maline hair braid. Velvet is important. Marcelle Lely trims a hemp beret with orange feathers. Leather and Chinese bangkok—the procession continues almost without end.

A Word About Shapes

Femininity prevails in the hat field as much, if not more than elsewhere, hence the poke bonnet, the cart wheel. The "floppy" undulating brim is another manifestation of this feeling. The beret-turban type of hat is simple but not severe or masculine. It is most successful where it is most subtly draped. Be jaunty, be stately, but do not lose the note of graciousness which the soft modern hat so ably bestows.

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers hints on weaning and feeding the child from 4 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, colitis for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, sties and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

BUTTERMILK AN EXCELLENT SUMMER FOOD FOR BABIES AND CHILDREN

Mothers whose babies have "done beautifully" on lactic acid milk want its praises sung to high heaven, and they think I should do the singing. One mother said, "I don't see why you don't tell all mothers about lacic acid milk." I do, but like all things, the mother is seldom interested until she tries it herself.

For a good many years we have been talking up the good points of buttermilk without much success. People still ask me, "Can I give it to my children instead of sweet milk? And is it nourishing?" As hot weather is approaching, we feel that buttermilk deserves another warble, at least, because the baby who has diarrhea or who is inclined to vomit, will find buttermilk an even better food than sweet milk when he gets over the acute stage of his ailment.

BUTTERMILK CAN BE MADE NUTRITIOUS

There are several ways of making buttermilk, in addition to the obvious one of riding out in the country and buying it of the farmer or having it delivered at the back door. Churned buttermilk lacks all fat, since the cream in it turns into butter. Naturally a milk lacking all fat is not as nutritious as a whole milk. But we can make up this lack in the buttermilk by adding about four ounces of sweet cream to a quart of buttermilk and thus having just as nutritious a milk as it was before churning.

The buttermilk made with lactic acid, or Bulgarian bacillus tablets, or acidophilus cultures ordinarily contain whole milk, so they lack nothing at all of the nutrition that was in the sweet milk, and in addition have the beneficial lactic acid.

We have a leaflet which tells you exactly how to make these various types of buttermilk, and also gives the standard formulas in use for infant feeding. If you wish to obtain it send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for the lactic-acid-milk leaflet.

LACTIC ACID ASSISTS DIGESTION

The reason why lactic acid milk is easier than sweet milk for babies to digest is this: The curd of cows' milk is tougher and harder to digest than the curd of breast milk. Even if the baby's stomach secretes the normal amount of acid the cows' milk requires larger quantities of it so that it takes more to reduce the curd to an acidity fluid, which is the first step in digestion. So we add some extra acid to the milk, in the form of lemon juice, or lactic acid, or something of the sort, and this gives the stomach enough acid to take care of that tougher milk curd.

At one year we usually put babies on sweet milk, feeling that they no longer need that help, but if the older child likes buttermilk better than sweet milk he may continue to drink it.

It is preferable to buy fresh churned buttermilk and add the sweet cream to it, or to make your buttermilk at home. Then you know exactly the grade and freshness of the milk used in making it.

A Bedtime Story

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

THE HOME OF MR. AND MRS. KILLY

In wasted time is something lost.
Of which we ne'er can count the cost.
—Killy the Sparrow Hawk.

It was true that Killy the Sparrow Hawk and Mrs. Killy were living in a hollow in a tree. The tree was beside the Long Lane. A large branch high up had died and this was hollow. Yellow Wing the Flicker had hollowed it out. Peter could remember when Yellow Wing had been at work there. He used to hear the rat-a-tat-tat of Yellow Wing when he used another limb nearby for a drum.

So when Danny Meadow Mouse told Peter that the Killys had a nest in a hollow in a tree, Peter remembered that old home of Yellow Wing's. He hopped out in the Long Lane, where he could look up at that dead limb. Sure enough, right on top of it sat Killy the Sparrow Hawk. He was sitting very straight, as is his way. A little way below him Peter could see a round hole. That was the entrance that had been cut by Yellow Wing the Flicker long ago. While Peter was staring up at it, a face appeared in that doorway. Mrs. Killy was looking out.

"I thought as much," said Peter to himself. "They have taken possession of Yellow Wing's old home and I suppose that by now they have eggs there. I wonder if they built a nest inside. I know Yellow Wing didn't. I have talked with Mrs. Flicker and she says that building a nest in a hollow like that is a waste of time. She says that when she makes the hollow she leaves some tiny chips at the bottom, and these make the best kind of a bed. She says all the Woodpecker family do this way. But Winsome Bluebird and Skimmer the Swallow and Jenny Wren and Tommy Tit the Chickadee and Cresty the Flycatcher and Speckles the Starling and Bully the English Sparrow all build nests inside the hollows in trees or the houses they use. I wonder if Mrs. Killy does? I wish she would come down here where I could talk to her."

As if in answer, Mrs. Killy came out and circled overhead, while Killy left his perch and disappeared through the round doorway of the home. A moment later she came down and caught a big beetle just a little way from where Peter was. She flew over to a post to eat this beetle and Peter hopped over to the foot of the post. You see, although Mrs. Killy was a hawk, Peter wasn't afraid of her. She was too small for Peter to fear.

"I thought as much," said Peter to himself

"How do you do, Mrs. Killy?" said Peter in his most polite manner.

"Hello, Peter," said Mrs. Killy. "What are you doing here?"

"I was on my way home," replied Peter, "but thought I had better stay over in the bushes along the Long Lane until I can be sure that none of the big members of your family is around. I didn't know that you were living over here until just now."

"There are many things you don't know, Peter Rabbit," replied Mrs. Killy.

"I know it," replied Peter humbly. "I know it and that is why I am always trying to learn more. For instance, I know where your home is. I know when that house of yours was made, and by whom. But there is one thing about it I don't know and that I want to know."

"What is that?" inquired Mrs. Killy.

"Have you built a nest inside there?" Peter inquired.

"Have I built a nest!" exclaimed Mrs. Killy scornfully. "Of course I haven't. Why should I go to all that trouble? That house was good enough for the Flickers and it is good enough for Killy and me. No, sir, I wasted no time building a nest. There is a nice bed of old chips in there for my eggs and that is all I want."

"How many eggs are there?" asked Peter.

"What business is that of yours, Peter Rabbit?" demanded Mrs. Killy rather sharply.

"None whatever," replied Peter rather meekly. "I am just curious."

HUNTING THE GREENS

In many country districts it is not unusual to see people out in the meadows with big baskets on their arms hunting for the early spring greens. The practice of using green vegetables at this season is widespread, as man seems to instinctively yearn for the tender green leaves at the end of winter.

Greens are nature's true spring tonic. They are blood purifiers and builders of the highest order. If you are searching for the best blood tonic for rosy cheeks and good rich blood, then eat plenty of greens. If some of them are used in their raw state they will contribute a goodly amount of vitamins which are needed to build up a general resistance.

When you help yourself to greens you are taking a dose of the very best medicine in the exact form that nature, herself, prepared for your use. Greens are among the most alkaline-forming of all foods. They contain large amounts of iron and calcium in an easily assimilated form. Those who are suffering from acidosis would do well to eat greens two or three times every day. When the old-fashioned grandmother ordered greens for that spring fever she was prescribing the very best treatment. After the winter diet the blood of most people is sluggish and flooded with acids. The greens are just the food which will correct this condition.

In many sections the greens are gathered only at springtime, but they should be eaten whenever possible throughout the year. All varieties of greens have the virtue of providing cellulose or roughage to scour out the intestines and relieve constipation. The bulk which they supply is soft, and for this reason they are nonirritating laxatives. They cannot cause overweight, no matter how much of them is eaten. ## REESE FAVORED BY ROTARY CLUB

David J. Reese

SANTA BARBARA, May 4.—On a unique mission of neighborly goodwill, a large delegation of Santa Barbara Rotarians is making ready to leave within the next two or three days for Oakland. There, at the annual conference of the second district of Rotary International, embracing the States of California and Nevada and the Territory of Hawaii, they will exert their best efforts to elect as the next district governor the past president of the Ventura club, D. J. Reese.

A dozen years ago the Santa Barbara Rotary Club sponsored and fostered the organization of a baby club in their neighboring town, and through the years a spirit of family good will has existed between the two organizations. One of the charter members of the Ventura club, now grown to a membership of seventy-five, was Dave Reese.

Reese in all that period has been an active and enthusiastic member, serving on every committee, on the directorate and for one year as president. Incidentally, during the past years, Reese has spoken before many Rotary clubs throughout the district. Two years ago he was head of the Ventura committees which invited and arranged for the entertainment at Ventura of the annual presidents' and secretaries' district conference.

Now, carrying on in its attitude of neighborly interest, the Santa Barbara club is recommending Reese to the 136 clubs of the district as governor for the coming year. The Santa Barbarans have circularized all the clubs and have contacted many of them individually. As a result, already many delegates to the Oakland meeting from Southern California districts are instructed to vote for Reese and to work for his election.

In the event the movement succeeds the Venturan will be the first district governor from this section of the State. As matters stand, his nomination is the only one in prospect from south of the Tehachapi.

The Santa Barbara delegation to Oakland will be headed by George Wilson, incumbent president; George McClellan, president-elect, and Fred Schaurr and Fred Jackson, who have organized the committees to give the Reese-for-governor movement momentum.

Reese is a pioneer Venturan. He was an educator, and for many years a newspaper publisher. He has served as State Civil Service Commissioner under four Governors. He has been active in Masonic affairs and is a Past Grand Master of California. Last year he was president of the City Planning Commission in his home town, and he is now finishing his second year as president of the Chamber of Commerce. His present business is manager of a flourishing building-and-loan association.

"CITY FELLERS" FISHING

MOORPARK, May 4.—"City fellers" are taking advantage of the open fishing season, and have come to Serpe Creek, where there is more water than within the last three years. Some large catches are being made. Thousands of steelhead trout were planted in the creek some time ago, and they are furnishing fine sport for visiting fishermen.

GLIDER PILOT INJURED

Jack Barstow in Hospital With Broken Vertebra; Doctors Say Condition Not Critical

SAN DIEGO, May 4. (AP)—Jack Barstow, first-class glider pilot and holder of an unofficial world's gliding record, was resting easily at a hospital here today recovering from injuries received last night when his sailplane was hurled to the ground by a capricious gust of wind.

Physicians said the 24-year-old San Diego glider enthusiast would be confined to a bed for two months and that he would be forced to use crutches for perhaps another two months. His ultimate recovery is assured, however, the doctors said. Barstow is suffering from a broken vertebra.

Barstow had been sailing through the air off Point Loma, near here, for eight hours and one minute in an attempt to officially break the world's record for motorless flight when the mishap occurred. He also suffered cuts about the head and mouth, but physicians said these were superficial.

William Van Dusen, official observer of the flight, said a strong wind was blowing when the mishap occurred at 6:30 p.m. Barstow came by a group of watchers at about an 800-foot height, veered sharply toward the by-standers, and then swung quickly away again, disappearing over a small hill. Several persons followed in the direction he had taken and found him lying in the wreck of his ship in a small canyon. The right wing of the plane was sheared off near the body. Barstow was conscious and remained so in an ambulance which rushed him to a hospital here.

Barstow already had ridden out two near-gales when his flight suddenly was ended. The winds which tipped the left wing of his plane sharply upward, sending the right side into the ground, were not of extreme violence, by-standers said, but rather of a gusty nature, coming alternately from several directions. The youthful pilot seemed to have no trouble during the afternoon riding out the straight winds and rain squalls which prevailed during the major part of his flight.

He circled close to the crowd watching him several times and frequently communicated with his aides by shouting to them. His replies could be heard clearly most of the time. Once he shouted down that he expected to remain in the air twenty-four hours. Barstow's wife was in the crowd that saw him disappear over the hill.

Barstow went up Tuesday on his first long flight and only the fact that he had failed to carry a barograph kept him from officially making a new world's record.

PROBATION HEARING CONTINUED

Youth Accused of Murder Makes Plea in Court at Ventura

VENTURA, May 4.—Hearing of the application for probation, and request that the charge against him be reduced, of Milton W. Prentice, 18-year-old San Nicholas Island sheepherder, is slated to go into its second day Monday before Superior Judge Henderson.

Prentice is accused of murder for the killing of Steve Semerenko February 23 when the man was aboard his fishing smack, anchored in a cove off the island.

The hearing was started last Tuesday morning, at which time sheep and cattle ranchers from various channel islands testified as to the bitter feeling existing between the islanders and fishermen who, they feel, are stealing their sheep. Further testimony is expected to be offered Monday.

Ramona Play Halted by Rain Storm

HEMET, May 4.—The third and fourth performances of the Ramona pageant, scheduled here yesterday and today, were canceled because of rain and the pageant association management announced extension of the schedule another week.

In addition to the regular fifth and sixth performances next Saturday and Sunday afternoons, the play will be presented on Saturday and Sunday, the 17th and 18th inst. Tickets for the performances yesterday and today will be honored on any of the four future dates.

This is the eighth year that this classic has been presented in the picturesque canyon theater between this city and San Jacinto and yesterday was the first time that a performance had been prevented by rain.

Large crowds milled through the streets here yesterday and today, hundreds having driven long distances despite the threat of rain. Hotel accommodations were taxed last night by those who stayed over in hopes that the performance could be given today.

Program of New Streets Completed

SAN DIEGO, May 4.—San Diego's major street plan, the result of years of work, has been completed by the planning commission and the commission has asked the Council for a conference preliminary to official adoption.

The plan has as its object a network of wide straight traffic thoroughfares radiating from the business centers and extending into every section of the city.

The conference probably will be held some time this week to agree on any changes that may be deemed necessary. However, it is not expected that any material changes will be made, as the commission, some time ago, asked for and received suggestions on the plan from various officials.

Two problems are taken up in the major street plan as prepared under the direction of the traffic commission by Kenneth Gardner, city planning engineer, and his assistant, Glenn Ricks. The first phase is that of new streets to be opened such as Atlantic street from the marine base to Rose Canyon.

The second provides for widening and straightening old streets. As an example of this is the commission's plan for making a cross-town artery of Thirty-second and Bancroft streets from the bay to Mission Valley; the lower half of the artery to be on Thirty-second and the upper on Bancroft.

To complete the first part of the program for the city south of the San Diego River the plan provides for opening 121 miles of new streets. The opening and widening program provides for improvement of forty-one miles of existing streets.

New Publisher at Alhambra

ALHAMBRA, May 4.—E. S. Kellogg has resigned as publisher and general manager of the Alhambra Post-Advocate, one of the Copley newspapers, and will be succeeded by E. F. Elfstrom, it was announced yesterday. The change is effective Monday.

Kellogg has been at the head of the paper since it was established in 1924. He has not made known his future plans.

Elfstrom comes to Alhambra from the Hollywood News, where he has been in charge of foreign advertising. He began his newspaper career as private secretary to E. W. Scripps, founder of the chain now known as the Scripps-Howard Newspapers. No changes in the staff personnel will be made, Elfstrom said.

WALNUT TREES ARE SLOW IN FOLIATING

MOORPARK, May 4.—With the announcement here that the Ventura county apricot crop this year will probably bring about $1,000,000, it is stated that the fruit in the Moorpark section will come within 80 per cent of last year's heavy crop. Walnut trees have been slow in foliation. There may be a light crop in this section this year.

Because of lack of rains at the right times, bee men in this area look only for a fair honey crop this spring.

OLD LANDMARK PRESERVED

Palm Springs Club to Care for Palms

An Ornament to Golf Course

World's largest date-bearing palm and its mates will be used in landscaping club grounds.

PALM SPRINGS, May 4.—Old-timers here were made happy today by the announcement that what is believed to be the world's largest date-bearing palm, which, with its mates, has stood as a district landmark for many years, will be preserved as one of the attractions of the Desert Palms Club.

Original plans for the development of the club's sixty acres, on the newly paved Palm Springs-Indio highway, specified landscaping for an eighteen-hole golf course with the palm grove directly on the fairway.

When Harry L. Lewis, chairman of the club's board of governors, heard that the trees might have to be sacrificed he immediately squelched the proposal. "Cut them down," he exclaimed, "I should say not. We'll rearrange matters so those trees will shelter the clubhouse itself."

Advices are that the rearrangement decided on will place units of the group building plan in a setting that will be unique in the history of club development. From a distance the place will have the appearance of an oasis, which illusion will be enhanced by the greens to be maintained in an otherwise arid region by the club's own waterworks plant, which likewise will provide a bountiful supply of water for the swimming pool and other needs of the club.

Chicken Cannery in Valley Opens

RESEDA, May 4.—The Runnymede Chicken Cannery began operation yesterday in its new plant just erected and equipped at a cost of $40,000. The cannery has put in the finest machinery on the market.

At the close of the first day's operation the output of the plant was packed in cases and shipped to Los Angeles, where it was placed on sale. The new cannery will get its raw material from the hundreds of chicken ranches in San Fernando Valley. Dr. H. D. Hilton is the government inspector attached to the plant. He will make his home in Reseda.

TUJUNGA SHOWS BUILDING GAIN

TUJUNGA, May 4.—According to local records more than $30,000 in building was done here within the last month, which is twice as much as that for the same period in 1929, according to Joseph W. Forster, building inspector. For the first quarter of this year about $50,000 in building has been done. For the same period last year there were $31,843 in building permits.

AUTOMOBILE IN AERIAL STUNT

Car Does Ground and Lofty Tumbling Act

Driver Escapes Serious Injury

Death Averted by Very Slight Margin

PASADENA, May 4.—When his automobile leaped two eighteen-inch curbs, "looped-the-loop," struck an iron lighting pole fifteen feet above the base, and finally came to rest on all four wheels heading in the opposite direction, Robert J. Rutherford of 3358 Atwater avenue, Los Angeles, narrowly escaped death this afternoon in the "freakiest" automobile accident ever brought to the attention of local police.

Had it not been for the big light pole, the automobile would have dropped another fifteen feet and landed on the Santa Fe tracks at the north end of the cut under South Fair Oaks avenue, where it would have been demolished by the Grand Canyon Limited, which roared over the spot a minute after the accident, according to Detective Lieutenants Henry Collins and William Cropsey.

Witnesses reported that the automobile, traveling at a rapid rate of speed down South Fair Oaks avenue, skidded on the wet pavement. Out of control, it hurtled over the street curbing on the left side of the street, hurled a second curb across the sidewalk, and turning a complete loop in the air smashed a cross piece from the light pole and dropped right-side-up into the small canyon following the railroad cut into this city. The impact with the pole demolished the machine and headed it in the opposite direction from that pursued in its aerial "hop."

Rutherford, bleeding from numerous cuts, is reported to have staggered up the bank and to have prevailed upon a passing motorist to drive him to a Los Angeles hospital before the local police arrived at the scene.

Late this afternoon, he is asserted to have informed the detectives that he was not seriously injured and would call at a local garage tonight to view the remains of his new automobile.

The accident occurred about 100 yards north of the Hotel Raymond.

Antelope Valley Pioneers Dead

LANCASTER, May 4.—Nicholas Stambook, 72 years of age, who died at Pacoima in San Fernando Valley, was one of the earliest of Antelope Valley pioneers, coming to California fifty years ago. Death was caused by apoplexy. Interment was in Oakwood Cemetery Chatsworth. He is survived by his widow, four daughters and three sons.

Herbert N. Smith, 60 years of age, who died at Sacramento a day or two ago, had lived in Antelope Valley most of his life. Smith operated the first blacksmith's forge at Del Sur near here a decade before the invention of the first practical automobile.

While working at his forge Smith often would say that the perfected gasoline engine would be the end of horses. His customers and friends never failed to laugh at his prophecy.

Lancaster May Get Gas Service

LANCASTER, May 2.—A hearing of the application of the Natural Gas Corporation of California, Ltd., for a franchise to operate here will be heard soon before members of the Railroad Commission. The application is in the nature of a second effort to start a gas service in this section.

Some time ago the Commercial Gas Company, Ltd., headed by J. A. Langston, endeavored to obtain a franchise to operate here with artificial gas, but apparently was not successful. Recently it was stated an effort was to be made to extend gas service here from the Bakersfield oil fields, and it is believed that the application now made for franchise is a part of that plan.

It is probable other towns along the line will be served if franchise rights are given.

DETECTIVE RETURNED TO VALLEY DIVISION

VAN NUYS, May 4.—Detective Lieutenant W. G. Marr, who for the last four months has been a member of the homicide squad at Central Station, has been transferred back to his old post here.

Marr has served for several years as a police detective in San Fernando Valley. Sergt. W. D. Wright also returns to the valley division after several months' service in the Central Station traffic division.

ENDEAVOR MEETING ENDS

More Than 3000 Persons Attend Closing Sessions of Pasadena Convention; Hollywood Next Year

PASADENA, May 4.—Climaxed by the conversion to Christianity of 100 young men and women, and the offer by a realty concern of a thirty-acre summer conference camp, the annual convention of the Los Angeles County Christian Endeavor Union concluded its three-day gathering in the Pasadena Junior College auditorium tonight.

Despite inclement weather, convention registrars report a record attendance of more than 3000 young religious leaders from all parts of Los Angeles county. The 1931 annual convention will be held at Hollywood at the same time next year, the delegates decided by unanimous vote last night.

During the regular convention sessions, more than 100 persons have come forward to make public recognition of Christ as their Saviour, according to A. T. Pickels of Los Angeles, lookout director.

It was learned this afternoon that the Los Angeles County Christian Endeavor Union is favorably considering the offer to the organization of thirty acres of mountain woodlands located near Idyllwild, on the slopes of Mt. San Jacinto.

At the suggestion of Rev. J. H. Hutchins of this city, a committee to take action on the offer of the summer conference site was appointed. The discussion on the convention floor indicates that delegates feel that the present summer meeting place at the beach is surrounded by too many distractions to permit serious religious study.

It is proposed to improve the mountain tract with cabins and meeting halls and to turn over the administration of the property to a holding company, composed of Christian Endeavor members.

The regular ten-day conference of the Christian Endeavor Union might then be held in the mountains away from disturbing amusement concessions, and smaller groups of union members would be entitled to use of the cabins for their summer vacations, it is pointed out.

Following the concluding sermon tonight, by Rev. P. W. Philpott, pastor of the Church of the Open Door, Los Angeles, a vote of thanks was given to the local committees which arranged details of the successful convention.

Walter A. Holstein of Wilmington, who succeeds Leonard F. Robinson of this city as union president, formally was installed.

South Pasadena School Players Enter Contest

SOUTH PASADENA, May 4.—"Drums of Oude" has been entered by the Peter Pan Players of South Pasadena High School in the first annual one-act-play tournament sponsored by the Community Playhouse Association. The play will be given on open-house night in the high-school auditorium, the 9th inst., when it will be judged for the contest. "Drums of Oude," which was presented in assembly, February 21, is directed by Miss Amy R. Foote, speech arts instructor of South Pasadena High School.

The tournament is open to junior and senior high schools, both private and public, all preliminaries being held before the 24th inst. The finals of the tournament will be held at the Pasadena Community Playhouse on the evening of June 2, when the two best plays of each division will be presented.

The plays are to be judged by a committee consisting of a representative from the Pasadena Center of Drama League, the drama section of the Shakespeare Club and a representative from the legitimate theater.

Thieves Take School Orange Grove's Crop

GRANADA, May 4.—The Granada Grammar School is probably the only school in the Los Angeles educational system that has its private orange orchard, but even that has its drawbacks.

Late last night while the teachers and pupils were away from the school grounds, and the school closed, thieves entered the orchard where more than 400 boxes of Valencia oranges had been gathered and stored. They made away with the entire harvest, valued at $600, using a truck, police say, to haul away the oranges.

William H. Lynn, maintenance superintendent of the Board of Education, reported the theft, and with San Fernando Valley detectives, is making an investigation.

UPLAND STAGES CLEAN-UP WEEK

UPLAND, May 4.—During the week of the 19th inst, Upland will be made ready for its summer reception to tourist visitors. The entire city is uniting in an intensive clean-up campaign to rid the city of weeds and rubbish.

City trucks will make the rounds of the city at prescribed times to haul away the refuse without cost to the property owners. Notices have been posted on weed-covered lots, reminding the owners that it is to their advantage to have them removed before the city does the weed cleaning.

After the stipulated time, the city will remove the weeds and send the bill for labor to the owner through his tax rolls, according to R. O. Manley, city service manager.

SCHOOL BOARD ORGANIZES

THREE MAYORS IN THIS ONE FAMILY

Arthur M. Milam

MONTEREY PARK, May 4.—The Milam family runs to mayors.

Arthur M. Milam, who has just been made Mayor of Monterey Park, is one of three brothers who have risen to the Mayor's chair in their respective towns. And of these three, two are twins.

There's a fourth brother who hasn't yet aspired to political office. He lives in Highland Park.

The twins are Arthur M. Milam, Mayor of Monterey Park, and A. M. Milam, Mayor of Morris, Okla. The latter has held the job for the past twelve years. The third Milam Mayor is C. L. Milam of Winslow, Ariz.

The local Milam has been in the service of the Santa Fe Railroad for the past thirty-five years.

BOY SCOUTS ASSIST FIRE DEPARTMENT

ALHAMBRA, May 4.—Boy Scout troops of Alhambra aided the city fire department Friday and Saturday in an inspection with a view to eliminating fire hazards on residence property.

The city was thoroughly canvassed by several hundred boys, working under the supervision of their Scoutmasters, and yards in which any fire danger, particularly weeds, was found, were reported to the fire-prevention bureau of the department.

Where back yards were found to be neat and clean, with no fire hazards, the Scouts left green cards bearing a complimentary note. In cases where weeds were found near incinerators or inflammable material, the Scouts left red cards calling attention to the hazard.

McGROARTY AIDS IN LANDMARK CEREMONY

TUJUNGA, May 4.—John Steven McGroarty was principal speaker today at the barbecue and dedication services of the old well on the Begue ranch built by Mission Indian neophytes as a source of water supply on their journeys between San Gabriel and San Fernando missions.

The well will be preserved by the Sons of the Golden West as a historical landmark. The Glendale parlor had charge of the ceremony today.
